

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

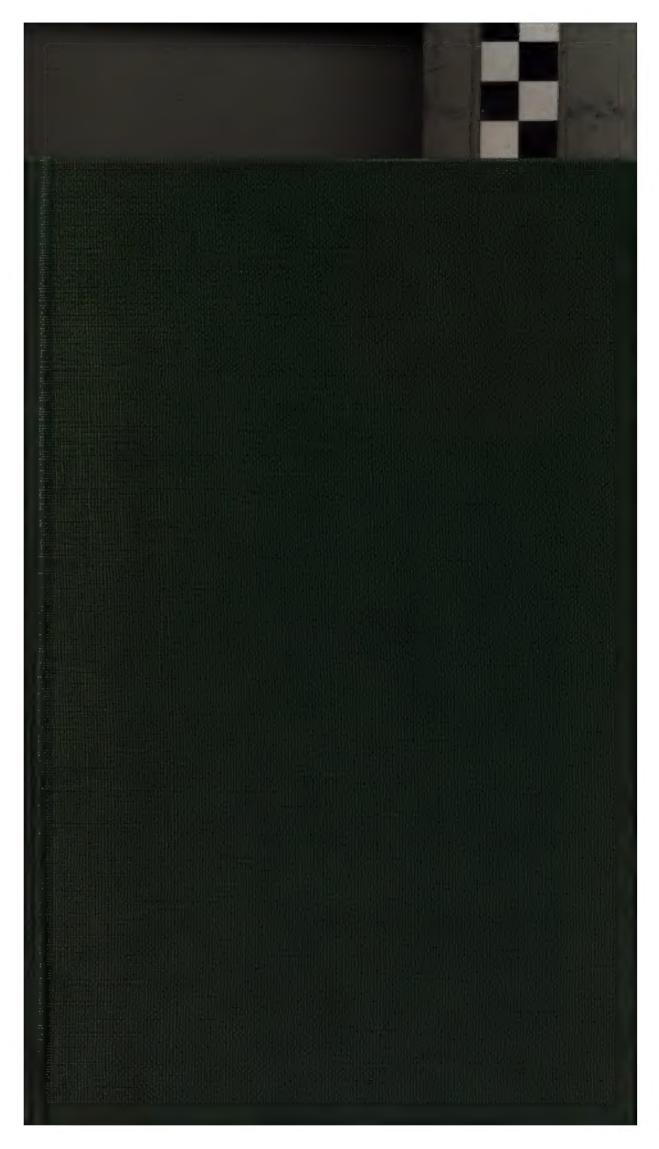

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

many in the Books; I mean the Ancient Entries chiefly; for I have not found fo many in Books of Precedents of later date. And if the finished Pleader and experienced Prosessor should think the Forms too similar or multifarious, still, by narrowly inspecting them, differences will be discovered in each both useful and instructive to the unexperienced Practitioner. Keeping in view the practical use of my Work, I have promised and do mean to give the greatest possible variety of Precedents and Forms in Pleadings.

In Account I have given few Forms of Pleadings, necessarily from the disuse of this (though a most beneficial) Action: there are, however, more in the present volume than in any other Book extant, with complete references to all the Modern and Ancient Entries.

Bur on the more important Action of Assumpsir, in every day's constant use, I have bestowed more pains at ·least than any other Gentleman in practice in the Profession has leisure to do. And I wish it to be considered, that without attending to the distinctions between Assumpsit General and Special, I have adopted a mode which I think the most useful; that is, throughout this Action I have classed such as I think bear a relation to each other: for instance, in the Second Volume, in Ajsumpsit—Special Contracts, respecting real property, by and against Landlord and Tenant, I have taken care to give the Precedents immediately afterwards on Contracts relating to Personal property, namely, the Sale, Assignment, Demise, &c. of Lands, Houses, &c. because they have relation to each other; and so in like manner on Contracts relating to Sale, &c. Carriage and Conveyance of Goods, &c. I have given those against Carriers by Land and Water, &c. &c. as they respect the dostrine of Bailments, &c.; an arrange-

TO THE PROFESSION.

Student and Pleader may with his eye immediately catch the subject and surm together. In the alphabetical manner in which the majority of Pleaders arrange their Pleadings, I have seldom seen this analytical order relating to the subject.

This order, however, may not seem to be observed in the Division preceding, viz. Assumptit General: but I have adopted what I cannot help thinking a more truly useful mode there. For instance, in Actions by and against particular Persons, the most general subdivision of that division on the right page of the sheet, I have constantly led the eye at the top to the subject-matter or title (if I may call it so) of the precedent.

The reason why I have not critically distinguished the Precedents in Indebitatus Assumptit from Assumptit Special, is, because I do not think it so well defined or determined in the Books; but chiefly, because I think my method the most natural and easy for the Professor and the Student. I will give one instance; In my Work, under this Head, it is solemnly determined that Assumptit will not lie for a legacy, which is it did, would be Indebitatus Assumptit; but Assumptit Special will lie on the promise by the Executor; and yet the Precedents are in the same form. I have given two Forms with the leading Cases, and referred to the very able Arguments of Mr. Justice Buller and my Lord Kenyon. The Profession will best judge of the usefulness of them,

I HAVE, however, violated the method in one instance, namely, Policies of Assurance, which are Contracts of Indemnity, and would more naturally fall under that subdivision; but, never departing from real utility for a fastidious adherence to strictness of method, I have purposely classed Bills of Exchange, Promissory Notes, and Policies of Assurance, relating to Trade, together under Assumptit General; and in one instance, for this reason only, have given one Precedent of a Policy of Assurance against Fire, though it is in Covenant, and ought to come under that Head; yet in the Index the same Precedent is to be found under its proper Head Covenant—on Policies of Assurance.

THERE are some Precedents that are not strictly reducible to any of those Heads which I have considered most useful as subdivisions, and where I have not been able to class the considerations of the Contrast, from their anomalous and special nature. These I have thrown together under that sort of Head with the title at the top of the page as in Assumpsit General: Ex. gr. on Charter Parties of Affreightment, &c. whereas Covenant or Debt is the ordinary Action. These and other instances will present themselves to the Pleader readily.

NEXT follow the Pleas, Replications, &c. in Assumpsit. The fubdivisions arising out of this Head, namely, Proceedings by and against Particular Persons;—Attornies, by and against, in every species of Action;—Baron and Feme,—Executors and Administrators, &c. &c.;—Forms of beginning and ending every Declaration or Plea;—the Judgment in Abatement,—Account,—Assumpsit, and in every other Action; all follow in their proper place and natural order, either in the body of the Work, if they form a distinct Precedent, bowever minute, or in the INDEX.
For example, for the beginning and ending of a Plea in Abatement, (which indeed form the Plea itself), see Forms. In like manner, for beginnings and endings of Declarations in Assumpsit in every possible way, see Beginnings and Endings of Declarations under that Head.

The'e

These and other practical directions I may occasionally give, are to be observed throughout the Work.

THE common Declarations in Indebitatus Assumpsit, and the common Counts, are so familiar to every Attorney's Clerk, and so casy to be found in every book of practice, that I had contented mysclf with referring to them in the INDEX, as they are to be found dispersedly throughout Assumpsit: however, after having put my Work to the press, at the instance of many of my younger friends in the Profession, I have given at the end of Assumpsit one complete Form of every common Declaration on all the common Counts. And therefore here I cannot too frequently and too earnestly request the Student's attention to the INDEX. Here the difficulty which has been and will be previously regarded as to the facility of turning to Precedents and Forms in the body of the Work, vanishes. Here every Precedent and every Form is so distributed, first by the Analysis, and then by the references following Each separate Head, as to leave it impossible for a person of the plainest intellect not to find what he wants: All fall into their strictly natural place, and make this hitherto difficult doctrine of Pleading capable of an easy comprehension, as well as prepare the pupil to read his Law Books, especially in this branch of that science—to digest his reading, and improve his faculties.

I HAVE taken all the Books of Practice of Modern Times, with the Reporters, and have chronologically Indexed all the Forms and Precedents whenever they have occurred in them: These, with my own work, form the Modern Part of my Index. I have next taken the Modern Entries, with Cornwall and Townshend's Tables, and thrown the antique mass into my own distribution: This forms the Index to the Ancient Entries.

WITH what fidelity and care I have executed this work of labor, I am in the judgement of my superiors in experience and learning. But when the vast compass of the design, the prodigious variety of matter comprehended in it, and above all the difficulty of illuminating such a system by a strictly methodical arrangement purely analytical—when all these things are contemplated, and they must be so to form an adequate opinion, I entertain a hope leaning to confidence, that the liberality of the Profession will find more reason to be pleased that so much has been done, than disappointed that the Work has not attained absolute perfection. Not to have funk under so arduous an undertaking is, perhaps, no ordinary merit. I know likewise that it is the fate of Industry not to be too highly appreciated by Genius, which, while it soars above, "like the poet's " directing angel in the storm of battle, vindicates to it-" self the glory of success, regardless of the more hum-" ble but useful machinery by which, in part, its triumphs "have been effected." To lament that this species of ingratitude is common to all ages, and therefore seemingly making part of our nature, is to discover more patsion than philosophy: Yet for myself I will add, (after appealing to, as well as hoping for, the approbation of the Profession) that the sense of my having been unceasing in my endeavours, as it is the best title to the approbation of the Public, so it administers to me that solid gratification which alone is an ample reward for my profesfional affiduity,

Mr. Buller's Opinion on this plea. If the facts stated in the plea are true, I think the plea is good in form and lubstance, and the plaintiff cannot proceed further in this action; therefore he thould enter judgment by quofferur billa, which he may do without costs.

Mr. DAVENPURT'S Opinion. I observe that the plea is of the same Term with the declaration, fo that there has been no impariance either general or special, and in fuch case I apprehend that this plea in abatement, with a prefert of the writ of privilege, is a good plea to abate the fuit, and that no replication or demurrer will prevail against it if the facts be truc.

Mr. RUNNINGTON's Opinion. Though I am failsfied in my own mind, that the privilege which defendant has pleaded ought not to be allowed, and perhaps on ferlous argument would not be admitted: yet I think it will be most prudent in the plaintiff to admit this plea, and enter up the judgment by quaffetur. There are two cases, one in the time of Eliz. Sav. 20. the other in the time of James, Hob. 177. which seem strongly to support the privilege contended for, though there are other cases which seem strongly to deny it on fimilar points.

On these Opinions judgment for the defendant was entered as follows afterwards.

Plea in abateseparately.

AND the said John Stockdale, by Thomas Yates his attorney, ment, that the comes and defends the wrong and injury, when, &c. and prays promises were judgment of the said bill of the said William, because he says, that fendant and his at the time of the making the said several supposed promises and partners jointly, undertakings in the said declaration mentioned, he the said John and not by him Stockdale, one Edmund Dayrell, one Richard Weld, one John Morgan, one J. F. and one J. W. were partners in trade, and that the faid promises and undertakings in the said declaration mentioned were made by the faid J. S. jointly with them the faid E. D. J. M. J. F. and J. W. and not separately by him the said J. S. and which said E. D. J. M. &c. &c. are still alive, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the said county of Middlesex; and this he the said J.S. is ready to verify: wherefore, inasmuch as the said Edmund, Richard, &c. &c. are not named in the said bill, the said John Stockdale prays judgment of the said bill, and that the same may be qualhed, &c.

Special demurbeen pleaded in bar.

And the said William saith, that the said plez of the said John rer, for that it by him above pleaded, and the matters therein contained, are not ought to have sufficient in law to bar the said William from having and maintaining his aforesaid action against him the said John, to which said plea, in manner and form as the same is above pleaded, he the said William is not under any necessity, nor obliged by the law of the land, to answer; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, for want of a sufficient plea in this behalf, the said William prays judgment, and his damages by reason of the premises to be adjudged to him, &c. And for causes of this demurrer in law, the said William, according to the form of the statute in such case lately made and provided, shows to the court here these causes following: for that the said John, in and by his said plea, defends the wrong and injury, when, &c.: and for that the said John concluded the said plea with the prayer that the said bill of the said William might be quashed, which is in the nature of a plea in abatement, whereas he ought to have concluded the said plea with a verification, and pray judgment if the said William ought to have his action against him the said John: and for that the said plea is in other respects. informal and infufficient.

Joinder.

And the said John says, that the plea aforesaid, in manner and form aforesaid by him the said John above pleaded, and the matter in the same contained, are good and sufficient in law to quash the said bill of the said William, which said plea so pleaded, and the matter therein contained, he the said John is ready to verify and prove, as the said court shall award: and because the said William bath not answered the said plea, nor hitherto in any manner denied the same, he the said John, as before, prays judgment of the said bill, and that the same may be quashed.

f. AND the said J. D. and W. F. in their own persons, Plea of privilege come and defend the wrong and injury, &c. and say, that the court (a) of an atterhere ought not to take, nor will take, cognizance of the plea afore- neg, a partner aid, because the said W. D. says, that he the said W. F. now is, with another atand at the time of exhibiting the bill of the said John New against the K. B. the them the faid J. D. (b) and W. F. and before, was, one of the other C. P. attornies of the court of our lord the now king, before the king himself here, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, as by the roll of the attornies of this court here fully appears, and that, as an attorney for many of the king's subjects, he is now prosecuting and defending divers suits and actions in the said court of our said lord the king, before the king himself here; and that he the said W. F. or any other attorney of this court, whilst he or they respectively are or is so prosecuting or defending any causes or suits in this court, by an antient and laudable custom used and approved in this court from time immemorial, ought not, nor ought any of them, contrary to their will, to be drawn into or compelled to answer any bill or bills to be exhibited against him or them, as in the custody of the marshal of the marshalsea of our lord the now king before the king himself, or in any other manner whatever, except by bill or bills to be exhibited in this court against him or them, as an attorney or attornies of this court, in all pleas, plaints, and demands, which do not relate to his majesty's person (pleas relating to freeholds, Idonies, and appeals, only excepted; and this he the said W. F. is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment if he ought to be compelled to answer to the said John New in the said plea in the hid court here.

(a) You may either plead privilege with a profest of the writ, or with an exemplifation of the record, or as this is pleaded.—Salk. 545. 1. Com. Dig. 3, 4. 2. Crompt. Pract.

(b) J. D. is an attorney of C P.

As the above plea supposes the dekndants to be practising attornies at the time of commencing this suit, it perhaps may be deemed necessary for the desendants to shew some act done by them as attornies after the admission of Mr. D. and before the bringing of this action, suppose the plaintiffs should dispute it. Any act done in a cause (even writing a letter demanding a debt preparatory to an action brought) I think would be sufficient.

Richard New, esq. John Gringo, esq. and Samuel Marshall, esq. then three of the justices of our lord the now king, assigned to keep the peace in the county aforesaid, and also to hear and determine divers selonies, trespasses, and other misdeeds committed in the said county of S. and all of them, being of the quorum, by force and according to the form and effect of the said act of parliament, did tender unto the said Richard Knapp, whom they then and there did suspect to be dangerous and disaffected to his majesty and his government, the oaths in that act of (a) parliament mentioned, and by the same act appointed to be taken, for the said Richard Knapp to take the same, and then and there were ready and offered to administer the faid oaths to the faid Richard Knapp, according to the form and effect of the said act of parliament; nevertheless the said Richard Knapp, to whom the faid oaths were so tendered, did then and there refuse to take the same, and did then and there neglect, and hath ever fince hitherto neglected, to take the same; of which. refusal the said Richard New, John Gringo, and Samuel Marshall, the justices aforesaid, afterwards, and before the obtaining the said original writ of the faid Richard Knapp, that is to fay, at the quarter sessions of the peace of our lord the present king of the said county of S. held next after the said refusal, that is to say, at the quarter sessions of the peace of the said county held on the 14th day of January in the said year of our Lord 1745, at the castle of Winchester, in and for the said county of S. before the right honourable John lord viscount Lymington, the reverend Benjamin Woodroffe, clerk, prebendary of Winchester, Thomas Bates, &c. &c. and others their fellows, then justices of our said lord the now king, assigned to keep the peace of our said lord the king in the county of S. aforesaid, and also to hear and determine divers felonies, trespasses, and other misdeeds committed in the same county, did certify the said refusal of the said Richard Knapp in the court of that sessions of the peace, to be recorded in the rolls of that sessions, according to the form and effect of the said act of parliament; which said refusal was then and there recorded amongst the rolls of that sessions, as by the record thereof in the same court of sessions more fully appears, and from thence afterwards, and before the ebtaining the original writ of the said Richard Knapp, that is to say, on the 1st day of May A. D. 1750, the said refusal was certified by Morgan Keene, esq. then clerk of the peace of the county of Southampton aforesaid, into his majesty's court of chancery, held at Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, there to be recorded amongst the rolls of that court, in a roll in the said court of chancery provided and kept for that purpose only, which afterwards, and before the obtaining the original writ of the said Richard Knapp, that is to say, on the said 1st day of May in the year last aforesaid, was recorded amongst the rolls of the said court of chancery, in a roll in the said court of chancery provided and kept for that purpose only, according to the form and effect of the said act of parliament, 25 by the record thereof, in the same court of chancery at Westminster remaining, more fully appears (the tenor of which record is now produced here in court); whereby, and by force of the said at of parliament, the said Richard Knapp from the time of his refulal aforefaid became, and on the day of fuing out the faid origimal writ was, and yet is, a popish recusant convict, and as a popish recusant convict ought to be taken, esteemed, and adjudged; which said record of conviction is yet in full force and effect, not reversed nor annulled; and this they are ready to verify: wherefore they pray that the plea aforefaid may remain without day, until, äç, Plea in abatement of the bill in B. R. of mismomer in defendant's jurname.

AND John Seabrook, against whom the said Edward by his bill exhibited complains, by the name of John Scabrook, by James Hodgson (a) his attorney, comes and defends the wrong and injury, &c. and prays judgment of the bill aforesaid, because he says, that he is named and called by the name of John Seabrook, and by the faid name of John Seabrook from the time of his baptism hitherto hath been called and known; without this, that the said John Seabrook now is or ever was called or known by the name of John Scabrook, as by the faid bill is above supposed; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment of the said bill, and that the fame may be qualhed.

(a) There must be a special varrant of attorney for this, Lat. 11. 1. Com. Dig. 70. for regularly defendant ought to appear and plead in person in such case.

I am of opinion, that the misnomer in this case is pleadable in abatement of the bill, the name of the defendant being Seabrook; but, both in the declaration and on the back of it, it is plainly wrote Scabrook, which is a material variance both in letter and found. There must be an affidavit of the truth of the plea annexed to it, according to the statute 4. Anne, c. 16. before it is delivered.

AND the said William, in his own proper person, comes and by an attorney defends the wrong and injury, and says, that he ought not to be of a bail-bond compelled to answer to the said bill of the said plaintiffs, assignees given by him, as aforesaid, because he says, that he now is, and on the day of exhia- biting the said bill of the said plaintiffs, assignees as aforesaid, and gainst as a com- long before was, one of the attornies of the said court of our lord. the king himself here attending in the same court, and that in the same court there is, and from time whereof the memory of man is not to the contrary there hath been, a certain antient and laudable custom used and approved of in the same court, that is to say, that no attorney of the same court, against his will, hath been sued nor ought to be sued in any personal action in this court, otherwise than by bill exhibited against him as an attorney of this court present here in court: and the said William further says, that the said bill exhibited against him by the said plaintiffs, assignees as aforesaid, in this suit is exhibited against him contrary to the said custom as a prisoner in the cuftody of the marshal of the marshallea of our sovereign lord the king before the king himself, and not against him as an attorney of this court present here in court; and this the said William is ready to verify: wherefore, fince the said William now is sued, on the day of exhibiting the said bill of the said plaintiff's assignees as aforesaid, and long before, was an attorney of this court present here in court in his own proper person, he prays judgment, and that his privilege as such attorney may be allowed him, and that he may not be compelled to answer to the faid bill. H. KUSSELL.

It appears by the case of How v. Bridgwater, Barnes, 117. that an attorbey by entering into a bail bond waives be privilege (a): wherefore, and as it is thewn on the face of the record by the declaration in this cause, that defendant has entered into a bail bond (for he is fued upon it), the Court must take notice that his plea is a nullity: I am of opinion that his plea is bad upon demurrer. LONDON J. Jonathan J. puts in his place A. F. his atterney, against William H. in a plea of trespals upon the case.

LONDON /. The faid William appears in his own proper person, at the suit of the said Jonathan in the plea aforesaid.

Memorandum.

Attorney.

LONDON . Be it remembered, that on Friday next after. the morrow of the Holy Trinity in this said Term, before our lord the king at Wellminster, comes Jonathan J. by A. F. his attorney, and brings into the court of our faid lord the king before the king himself now here, his certain bill against William H. being in the custody of our lord the now king before the king himself, of a plea of trespals upon the case, and there are pledges for the profecution thereof, to wit, John Doe and Richard Roe, which said bill follows in those words, to wit [Here enter the declaration, the plea in abatement, and the demurrer thereto, verbatim.

Joinder in dedies datus.

And hereupon the said Jonathan prays the court of our said murrer to a plea lord the king now here, that the faid William may join in demurabatement rer, and thereupon a day is given to the faid William before our said lord the king at Westminster, until Wednesday next after eight days of the Holy Trinity, to join in demurrer, &c. and the fame day is given to the faid Jonathan, at the fame place; at which day before our said lord the king, comes the said Jonathan by his faid attorney; and the said William (although solemnly required) by comes not, but makes default (a): wherefore it is considered by the Court, that the said William do further answer to the bill of the faid Jonathan, upon Wednesday next after three weeks from the day of the Holy Trinity; the same day is given to the said Jonathan here, &c.; at which day, before our faid lord the king at Westminster, comes the said Jonathan by his said attorney, and the said William comes not, nor doth he say any thing in bar or preclusion of the said action; for which reason, the said Jonathan ought to recover against the said William his damages by occasion of the non-performance of the said several promises and undertakings in the said bill specified; but because it is unknown, &c. &c. &c. [in the usual form of judgmett by default in assumpsit].

In the Exchequer of Pleas. AND the said James, in his own proper person, comes and de- Pka in abetefends the wrong and injury, when, &c. and as to so much of the ment to the first declaration aforesaid as relates to the sum of 191. 10s. in the first claration, a write count thereof mentioned, and parcel of the money above demanded; of error pending; the said James prays judgment thereof, and that the same may be to the second quashed, because he says, that after the recovery of the judgment count mil debet. in the faid first count specified, and before the commencement of this action, to wit, on the 28th day of November A. D. 1788, the faid James, for reverling the said judgment duly prosecuted out of the court of chancery of the faid lord the king, at Westminster aforesaid, a certain writ of the said lord the king, for correcting error in the record and process, and also in the giving of the said judgment, directed to Lloyd lord Kenyon, then and yet chief justice of the faid lord the king appointed to hold pleas before the king himself, whereby it was commanded to the said chief justice, that If judgment was given thereupon, then he should cause the record and process aforesaid, with all things touching the same, to come before his faid majesty's justices of the common bench and the barons of his exchequer, in his exchequer chamber, at a certain day in the said writ specified, that the said justices and barons, viewing and examining the record and process aforesaid, might cause further to be done thereupon for amending the said error as of right, and according to the form of the statute, &c. should be meet to be done; which said writ of error afterwards, and before the commencement of this action, to wit, on the 27th day of January in the year 1789, at Westminster aforesaid, being then and there delivered to the said chief justice, was by him in due manner returned to the faid justices of the common bench and barons, with the record and process aforesaid to the writ annexed, whereof the laid John afterwards, and before the commencement of this action, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, had notice; and the said James further says, that the said writ for correcting error is still depending undetermined and in full force, and that the judgment aforesaid is not yet either affirmed or reversed; and this the said James is ready to verify: wherefore, as to so much of the declaration aforesaid as relates to the sum of 191. 10s. in the first count thereof mentioned, the faid James prays judgment thereof, and that the fame may be quashed, &c.; and as to so much of the declaration aforesaid as relates to the sum of 101. in the second count thereof mentioned, and residue of the money above demanded, the said James says, that he does not owe to the said John the said sum of 101. in the faid count mentioned, or any part thereof, in manner and form form as the said John hath therein complained against him; and of this he puts himself upon the country, &c.

Opinion. Although I have drawn a plea of the pendency of the writ of error in abatement according to my instructions, I am of opinion, that such a plea is not maintainable either in abatement or in bar. Vide 3. Bac. Abr. 212. and the cases there referred to. The plaintist must however domur to it, and the defendant, after a judgment against him on demurrer to his plea, will still have an opportunity of pleading again in chief; but I should think it cannot be worth the defendant's while to purchase the time this plea may gain him at the necessary expense. There must be an assidavit annexed to the plea (if siled) that it is true in substance and matter of sast.

Plea in abatement to an indiffment, that the defendant was conversant in the parish of St. M. and not in the parish of A. as is supposed by the indictment.

AND now, to wit, on Wednesday next after fifteen days of Easter in this same Term, in the court of our said lord the king before the king himself here, to wit, at Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, P. P. of the parish of St. Martin in the Fields, in the said county, refiner, who, by virtue of the writ of our said lord the king, is had here to answer our faid lord the king of the premises contained in the indicament aforesaid, and thereby above alledged against him the said P. P. in his proper person, and having heard the faid indictment read, he the faid P. P. faith, that he ought not to be compelled to give any answer thereto, because protesting that the faid indictment is infusficient in law; for plea in this behalf he the said P. P. saith, that he the said P. P. before and at the time of the taking of the inquisition aforesaid, and of finding the said indictment against him the said P. P. was, and from thence hitherto hath been, and still is, (a) conversant in the said parish of St. Martin in the Fields, in the said county of Middlesex, and he the said P. P. at the time of the taking the faid inquisition, and of finding the said indictment against him the said P. P. or at any time before or afterwards hitherto, was not, nor was, nor hath he been, conversant in the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster, in the said county of Middlesex, as by the said indictment is above supposed; and this he the said P. P. is ready to verify: wherefore, inashnuch as in the faid indictment addition is not made of the place of the which he the faid P. P. at the time of the taking the faid inquisition, and of finding the said indictment, was, and still is, and in which he then ras, and still is, conversant, according to the form of the statute of Addition in Indictments, in which the exigent may be awarded, he the said P. P. prays judgment of the said indictment, and that the fame may be quashed, &c.

I am not certain whether it is necessary to accompany this plea with an assidation of its truth; but if there be the least doubt about it at the office, I would make such assidavit; and more especially so, as the statute 4. Anne, c. 16. S. 11. makes no exception in savour of indictments, but requires an assidavit of the truth of every dilatory plea in every court of record. The affidavit is the usual one, that' the plea hereto annexed is true in sub-stance and matter of fact.

Plea to the jurildiction of an inferior court, 66. Litt. 127.

JAND the said Samuel, in his own proper person, MESS comes and pleads, that this court ought not to again/t FREETH. I take further cognizance of the action aforesaid, because he says, that the cause of action aforesaid (if any accrued to the faid Daniel) accrued to the faid Daniel out of the jurisdiction of this court, that is to say, at the town and county of the town of Nottingham, and not at Barford, in the county of Nottingham, or elsewhere within the jurisliction of this court; and this the said Samuel is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment whether this Court will take any further cognizance of the action aforesaid.

Replication accrued within the jurisdiction.

And the said Daniel says, that notwithstanding any thing by thereto, that the faid Samuel above in pleading alledged, this Court ought not cause of action to be precluded from taking cognizance of the action aforesaid, because he says that the cause of action aforesaid did accrue to the said Daniel within the jurisdiction of this Court, that is to say, at Barford aforesaid, in the said county of Nottingham; and this the said Daniel prays may be enquired of by the country, &c.

> The doctine in Co. Litt. 127. that a plea to the jurisdiction may be demurred to, because the party does not make himself party by defending the wrong and injury, Ac, is over-ruled by the case of Ferrers and

Miller, reported in Carthew 220, and Salk. 217. Though the cause of action did not arise at Barford, yet if it accrued any where within the jurisdiction of the court, G. S. HOLROYN. it is sufficient

AND the said William, who is sued by the name of Matthew, Plea in in his proper person comes and pleads, that he was baptized by the abatement, name of William, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and that the defendward aforesaid, and by the name of William hath always hitherto by the name of fince his baptism been called and known; without this, that the said William, William now is, or at the time of the exhibiting of the bill of the that he faid Peter, James, and William, as fuch assignees as aforesaid, was ever called the or ever before had been, or ever since hath been, called or known name of Matby the Christian name of Matthew, as by the said bill of the said thew. Peter, James, and William, as such assignees as aforesaid, is above supposed: and this he the said William is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment of the said bill, and that the same may be E. WIGLEY. qualhed.

AND the faid defendant, by A. B. his attorney, comes Plea, that the and defends the force and injury, and lays, that the faid plaintiff, at plaintiff is a pethe time of the exhibiting the said bill of the said plaintiff, and long pith recusant. before, was, and ever fince hath been, a popish recusant; and that the faid plaintiff now is, and before the day of exhibiting of the faid bill was, duly convicted of popish recusancy, to wit, at the general quarter sessions of the peace of our lord the now king, holden at Leeds, in the West Riding of the county of York, in and for the faid West Riding, by adjournment, on the twelfth day of October, in the nineteenth year of the reign of our sovereign lord George the Second, now king of Great Britain, before esquires, and others their fellows, then justices of our said lord the king affigned to keep the peace of our faid lord the king within the laid West Riding of the county aforesaid, and also to hear and determine divers trespasses, felonies, and other misdemeanors committed within the said West Riding of the county aforesaid; which conviction was estreated and certified from the said court of the fession aforesaid unto the court of our lord the king, before the king himself, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, and the same there still remains in its full force, strength, and effect, not reversed or annulled; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment of the said bill, and that the same may be qualhed, &c.

AND the said plaintiff saith, that he, notwithstanding anything Replication, that by the said defendant in pleading alledged, ought not to be answered he was born in to the said bill, protesting, that he is not an alien born in the king-under the prodom of Spain, under the allegiance of the king of Spain; protesting tection of the also, that he was born at A. in Germany, under the domi-king of Engaion of the emperor of Germany: nevertheless, for a replication in land. this behalf, the said plaintiff saith, that he, long before the said time when, &c. to wit, on, &c. and continually from thenceforth to and at the time when, &c. was under the licence and protection of the lord the now king of Great Britain, called England, to wit, at B. in the county aforefaid, and continually from thenceforth hath remained, and still doth remain, under the licence and protection of the said lord the king of Great Britain, to wit, at, &c ; and this, &c. : wherefore he prays judgment, and that he may be answered to his said bill, &c.

And the said defendant says, that the said plea of the said plaintiff, by him in reply above pleaded in maintenance of his faid bill, to which faid plea, in manner and form above pleaded in reply, the faid defendant hath no need, nor is he bound by the law of the land to answer; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, for want of a fufficient plea in reply in this behalf, he, as before, prays judge ment if the said plaintiff ought to be answered to his said bill, &c.

Joinder.

And the said plaintiff saith, that the said plea of the said plaintiff by him above pleaded in reply, in maintenance of his faid bill, is good and sufficient in law for the said plaintiff to maintain his said bill; which said plea, and the matter therein contained, the saidplaintiff is ready to verify and prove as the Court shall think meet; and because the said defendant hath not answered the said plea, nor hath hitherto in anywise denied the same, the said plaintiff, as before, prays judgment, and that he may be answered to his said bill: but because the court of our said lord the king now here is not yet advised about giving judgment of and upon the premises, a day is therefore given to the said parties to be before our lord the king at Westminster until, &c. to hear judgment of and upon the same premises, for that the said court of our said lord the king here is not yet advised thereof, &c.

Pleas that the plaintiff is an any.

AND the said defendant, by A. B. his attorney, comes infant, and ought and defends the wrong and injury, and prays judgment of the so sue by prechain above declaration, because he says, that the aforesaid plaintiff now is within the age of twenty-one years, that is to say, of the age of nineteen years, and no more; and that the aforesaid plaintiff, by A. B. his attorney, in the court here hath declared, when by the law of the land the said plaintiff, by his next friend in the said court to be admitted, ought to have declared; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, inalmuch as the laid plaintiff, being within age, by A. B. his attorney in that plea in the faid court here hath declared, the said defendant prays judgment of the faid declaration, if he ought to be compelled to answer the fame.

> If there be divers executors, kinns above and some under age, they may all sue by atterney, 2. Saunders, 209.

AND the faid defendant, in his proper person, comes and defends Ples, that the the wrong and injury, and prayeth judgment of the said writ of the defendant was faid plaintiff, because he says, that he the said defendant, at the time the parity of St. of fluing forth the original writ of the faid plaintiff, and long before, James, and trawas inhabiting, relident, and commorant, in the parish of St. James, verses that he in the liberty of Westminster, in the county of Middlesex; without was commorant this, that the faid defendant was ever inhabiting, refident, or com- at London. morant, at London aforesaid, as the said plaintiff by h s said writ Rast. 108. 126. bath above supposed; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment of the faid writ, and that the same may be quashed.

And the said plaintiff saith, that, by anything by the said de-Replication, that fendant above in pleading alledged, the said writ of the said the defendant, plaintiff ought not to be quashed, because he saith, that some short before the issutime before the issuing of the said writ the said defendant was com- ing the writ, was morant in London aforesaid, to wit, upon the twelfth day of No-commorant in vember, in the year of our lord 1738, in the parish and ward afore-London. faid; and this he prays may be enquired of by the country.

And the said defendant says, that the said plea of the said Demurrer. plaintiff, in manner and form as the same is above pleaded by way of replication, and the matter therein contained, are insufficient in law for the said plaintiff to maintain his said writ to be good against him the said defendant, and that he is under no necessity, nor obliged by the law of the land, to answer to the said plea, in manner and form as the same is above pleaded; and this, &c.: wherefore, for want of a fufficient replication in this behalf, the said defendant prays judgment of the said writ, and that the same may be qualhed.

And the said plaintiff, inasmuch as he hath above alledged suf- joinder. ficient matter in law in his said replication to maintain his said writ against the said desendant, which he is ready to verify; which said matter the said defendant doth not deny, nor in anywise answer, but altogether refules to admit the averment thereof; therefore as before the said plaintiff prays judgment, and that the said defendant may further answer the same: and because the justices here are willing, &c.

AND the said desendant, by A. B. his guardian, who is plea, that the now admitted by the court of our said lord the king here to defendant is a defend for him the faid defendant, who is under the age of twenty minor, andought, one years, that is to fay, of the age of twelve years, and no more; not to an wer and this he is ready to verify: wherefore he doth not intend that during his minority he ought to answer the said plaintiff of the debt aforesaid, and prayeth therefore that the said plea may remain until the full age of him the said defendant.

Plea by an atsorney fued by an original, that he ought to be suced by bill.

AND the faid defendant, in his proper person, comes and says, that he ought not to be compelled to answer the said original writ, because he says, that he is, and on the day of suing out of the original writ, and long before, was, one of the attornies of the court of our lord the king of the bench here; and that in the same court there now is, and from time whereof the memory of man is not to the contrary there hath been, a custom used and approved of in the same court, that no attorney of the said court hath against his will been compelled to answer any person in any personal action prosecuted in the same court here by original writ suedout which have not concerned the king, unless he hath been first forejudged from his office of an attorney of this court upon a bill exhibited here to the justices of the said lord the king of the bench against such attorney, and filed in the same court; and the said D. in fact saith, that he hath not been forejudged from his office of an attorney of this court, and that he is impleaded by the original writ aforesaid against his will, and against the custom aforesaid; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, as the said defendant is an attorney of the said court here, and on the day of fuing out the faid original writ, and long before, was, an attorney of the faid court here, the faid defendant prays his privilege aforesaid to be allowed and adjudged him, and that he may not answer the said original writ for the cause aforesaid.

defendant, by A. B. his attorney, the faid action depend- comes and defends the wrong and injury, and prays judgment of the said declaration, because he says, that the said plaintiff heretofore, in the Term of St. Hilary, in the tenth year of the reign of our faid lord the king, in the court of our faid lord the king of the bench here, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, impleaded the said defendant by the name of A. B. of, &c. charman, in a plea of trespass on the case, declaring against the said defendant in the same court in the said plea, that whereas, &c. [here insert the declaration] and therefore he brings suit, &c.; which said plea still depends in the faid court of our faid lord the king of the bench here. to wit, at Westminster asoresaid, not determined or discontinued, as by the record and proceedings thereof remaining in the said court of the said lord the king of the bench here, to wir, at Westminster, manifestly appears; and the said desendant surther saith, that the cause of action above mentioned, and specified in the declaration of the said plaintiff herein recited, and the said cause of action above mentioned, and specified in the said declaration of the said plaintiff, to which the said defendant now here pleads, are one and the same cause of action, and not divers; and this he is ready to verify; wherefore he prays judgment of the said declaration of the said plaintiff to which he now pleads, and that the same may be qualhed.

AND the faid D. by A. B. his attorney, comes and de-Plea, that the fends the wrong and injury when, &c. and prays over of the defendant was said writing obligatory, and it is read to him in these words [the with bond without condition]; which being read and heard, the said who is living, defendant says, that the said G. S. in the said writing obligatory not named. named, duly sealed and executed the said writing obligatory, and thereby became jointly bound with the said defendant to the plaintiff, to wit, on the same day and year, at London aforesaid: wherefore, inafmuch as the said G. S. is not named in the said writ, the faid defendant prays judgment of the said writ, and that the same may be quashed.

The defendant became bound to the plaintiff and another; and because it is not thewn whether the other he living or dead, 1. Bro. 4. this is the only way to take advantage of the matter; for if he pleads non eft factum, it will be against him: so on demurrer, for the Court will not prefume that the other defendantexecuted. 1. Stra. 503.

AND the faid defendant, in his proper person, comes and defends Plea, that the the wrong and injury, and says, that the said plaintiff, in Michael- original was sued mas Term, in the tenth year of the reign of our lord the present cause of action king, for the recovery of his damages by reason of the not perform- accrued. ing the faid promise in the said declaration mentioned, did prosecute Clift. 10. 19. out of the said court of our lord the king, before the king himself, the faid court then and still being at Westminster, in the county of Middlesex, a certain original writ of our said lord the king of attachment of privilege against the said desendant, directed to the theriff of Middlesex, whereby the said sheriff was con manded that he should attach the said defendant if he should be found in his bailiwick, and that he should safely keep him, so that he should have his body before the faid lord the king at Westminster, on Saturday next after eight days from the day of St. Hilary, to answer to the faid plaintiff, gent. being one of the attornies of the king's bench, before the king himself, according, &c. in a plea of trespass, and also to a bill for fifty pounds upon promises, and that the said sheriff should have then there that writ; which said writ the said plaintiffafterwards, and before the return thereof, that is to say, on, &c. at Westminster aforesaid, delivered to one A. B. and C. D. esquires, then being sheriff of Middlesex, to be executed in due form of law; at which day of the return of the said original writ, that is to say, on Saturday, &c. [as before] came the said plaintiff, and the said desendant also appeared in the said court here to answer to the said plaintiff, according to the exigency of the said writ; and the said theriff, to wit, A. B. and C. D. did return, that by virtue of the said writ to him directed he had taken the said defendant, whose body he had ready, as by the said writ and the return thereof in the court of our said lord the king, before the king himself here, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, remaining of record, more fully appears; and the said defendant further saith, that the said original writ of privilege of attachment prosecuted as aforesaid by the said plaintiff, Vol. I.

was profecuted by the said plaintiff with an intent to implead the said defendant for the cause of action in the said declaration mentioned above specified, to cause him to appear in the said court here, and to declare against him for the cause of action above named, according to the course and custom of the said court; and that the said plaintiff, according to such his intention, afterwards, to wit, in the said Hilary Term, did declare by bill against him in manner and form aforesaid; and the said defendant surther says, that the said cause of action in the said declaration mentioned did not accrue to the said plaintiff at any time before the suing out of the said original writ of privilege of attachment; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore he prays judgment of the said writ and declaration there-upon, and that the same may be quashed.

Bemunter.

And the faid plaintiff prayeth a day to imparl to the said plea, and it is granted to him, &c.; and thereupon a day is given to the parties aforesaid to come before our lord the king at Westminster until Wednesday next after fifteen days from the day of Easter, that is to fay, for the said plaintiff to imparl to the said plea, and then to reply to the same, &c.: at which day as well the said plaintiff in his proper person as the said defendant by his attorney do come before our lord the king at Westminster; and the said plaintiff saith, that the plea aforesaid by the said defendant in manner and form aforesaid, and the matters therein contained, are not fufficient in law to quash the said bill of the said plaintiff, and that the said plaintiff is not under any necessity, nor in any wise bound by the law of the land, to answer the said plea, in manner and form aforefaid pleaded; and this, &c.: wherefore, for want of a sufficient pleain this behalf, the faid plaintiff prays judgment, and that the faid bill may be adjudged good, and that the faid defendant may answer thereto, &c.

And the faid defendant faith, that the aforesaid plea in manner. and form by him the faid defendant above pleaded, and the matters therein contained, are good and sufficient in law to quash the said bill of the said plaintiff, which said plea, and the matters therein contained, the faid defendant is ready to verify and prove as the Court shall award; and because the said plaintiff hath not answered the said plea, nor hitherto in anywise denied the same, the said defendant, as before, prays judgment, and that the faid bill of the faid plaintiff may be quashed: but because the court of our lord the king now here is not yet advised about giving judgment of and upon the premises, day is thereupon given to the parties aforefuld to come before our lord the king at Westminster until Friday next after the morrow of the Holy Trinity, to hear judgment of and upon the same premises, for that the court of our said lord the king now here is not yet advised thereof, &c.: at which day, before our lord the king at Westminster, come as well the said plaintiff in his proper person as the said defendant by his attorney; and because the said court of our said lord the king, before the king himself, are not yet advised among themselves what judgment to give in the premises, a day is further given to the parties aforesaid to be before our lord the king at Westminster until on Monday next after three weeks from the day of St. Michael, to hear judgment of and upon the premises, because that the court now here are not yet advised, &c.: at which day, before our lord the king at Westminster, came as well the said plaintiff as the said defendant by his attorney aforeshid; and thereupon the premises aforeshid being seen and inspected by the court here, and by them fully understood, and mature deliberation being thereupon had, it seems to the court, that the said plea of the said defendant, and the matter therein contained, are not sufficient in law to quash the said bill of the said plaintiff, or to hinder this court from giving cognizance of the said plea. Therefore it is considered, in and by the said court here, that Judgment, real the said defendant do answer over the said bill of the said plaintiff; spendeas ouser. and hereupon the faid defendant, by E. F. his attorney, comes and defends the wrong and injury, &c. and lays, that he did not undertake and promise in manner and form as the said plaintiff hath above complained against him; and of this he puts himself upon the country, &c.

AND the faid defendant comes and defends the wrong and injury, Pleas that the and prays judgment of the said writ, because he says, that the said Plaintiffis admi-A. on, &cc. at the parish aforesaid, died intestate; after whose death fraverse that he administration of all and singular the goods and chattels which were is executor. belonging to the faid A. at the time of his death fince the decease of the said A. that is to say, on, &c. was in due manner committed to the said plaintiff, to wit, at the parish aforesaid; without this, that the faid plaintiff is executor of the last will and testament of the faid A. B. as the said plaintiff by his said writ and declaration above supposes; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, since the said plaintiff by his said writ is not named administrator of the goods and chattels which were of the said A. B. the said defendant prays judgment of the said writ, and that the same may be quashed.

AND the said D. by E. F. his attorney, comes and de-Plea in trespass, fends the force and injury when, &c. and prays judgment of that the plaintiff the said bill, because he says, that the said plaintiff, neither at the said and another times when, &c. nor ever fince, hath not nor had anything in the nants. said close in which, &cc. nor in the said trees and underwood in the For tenant in faid bill mentioned to be there growing, nor in any of them, nor any common part thereof, nor in the said goods and chattels in the said bill men-another, tioned, nor in any of them, nor in any part thereof, but jointly and Hans. 203. undividedly with A. B. and C. D. esquires, who are both still alive, Replication, that to wit, at S. aforesaid; and this, &c.: wherefore, inasmuch the plaintiff was as the said A. B. and C. THOMAS DAVENPORT.

Discontinuance. AND hereupon the faid P. as to the faid plea of the said defendant, fays, that he cannot deny the exception aforefaid made by the said defendant to the said bill, but confesses it to be true; therefore it is confidered, that the faid P. shall take nothing by his bill aforesaid so exhibited against the said D. as aforesaid, but shall be in mercy for his false claim as to the said D. thereon, and that the said D. shall go thereon without day.

> N. B. The defendant pleaded in abatement, that his name was J. and not D, on which the plaintiff discontinued as above.

AND hereupon the faid plaintiff fays, that he cannot deny the Nolle projequi to a plea in abateexceptions aforesaid made by the said defendant to the said bill, but ment. confesses it to be true, and prays leave to exhibit a better bill against him, and it is granted to him, &c.: therefore it is confidered, that the said plaintiff shall take nothing by his said bill so exhibited as aforesaid, but shall be in mercy for his salse claim therein; and the faid P. shall go thereupon without day, &c.

Plea to the ju-

AND the faid defendant, by A. B. his, attorney, comes risdiction, that and defends the force and injury, &c. and saith, that the said the cause of ac-county of Glamorgan is one of the twelve counties within the wales. within which said county there now is, and at the time of the exhibiting of the bill of the faid plaintiff, and long before that time was, a certain court of our lord the king of great sessions, holden for the said county of Glamorgan before certain justices of the same court there, and that all and singular pleas and actions, as well real as personal, arising within the same county are, and at the time of exhibiting the bill of the said plaintiff were, and of right ought to be, pleaded and pleadable within the said county of Glamorgan, before the said justices of the said court of great sessions there for the time being, and not here in the court of our lord the king before the king himself; and that the said defendant, at the time of exhibiting the said bill of the said plaintiff, and before, was, and from thence hitherto hath been, and still is. resident resident and commorant within the same county, to wit, at Cowbridge aforesaid, in the county aforesaid; and this, &c.: wherefore, fince the cause of action aforesaid arises within the said county of Glamorgan, within the principality or dominion of Wales, the faid defendant prays judgment if the court of our lord the king now here will or ought to have further cognizance of the plea aforesaid. J. LER.

AND the faid defendant, in his proper person, comes and says, Plea, that the that the Court ought not to have further cognizance of the plea cause of action aforesaid, because he says, that the cause of action aforesaid, if any, arose out of the accrued to the said plaintiff out of the jurisdiction of this court, to wit, at T. in the county of N. and not at D. in the declaration named, or elsewhere within the jurisdiction of this court; and this, &c.: wherefore he prays judgment if this court ought or will have cognizance of the plea aforefaid.

AND the said defendant, in his proper person, comes and defends Plea, that all the force and injury, &c. and fays, that the court of Chester is, and pleas for the refrom time whereof the memory of man is not to the contrary hath within the counbeen, a county palatine; and that there now are, and for all the ty palatine of time aforesaid have been, justices there; and that all and singular Chester ought pleas for the recovery of the possession of manors, messuages, lands, to be before the and tenements, lying and being within the same county, have been justices there. for all the time aforesaid pleaded and pleadable within the said county of Chester, before the justices there for the time being, and not here in the court of our lord the king, before the king himself; and this he is ready to verify, as the Court, &c.: wherefore, fince the plea aforefaid is brought for the recovery of manors, melfuages, lands, and tenements aforesaid, within the county palatine, the said defendant prays judgment if the court of our lord the king will or ought to have further cognizance of the plea aforefaid.

Plea in abatement of variance between the writ and teflaan extentor.

THE defendant says, that the aforesaid testator is named in the writ aforesaid T. G. late of Dundee, and in the testament aforesaid he is named T. Dodsyne, of the parish of Dunpress, in debt by dee; and so the writ aforesaid is variant from the testament aforesaid, and is not at all warranted by the same: wherefore he prays judgment of the faid writ, &c.: and hereupon as well the writ as the testament aforesaid being seen by the Court, the exception aforelaid is found to be true: therefore it is confidered that the aforesaid plaintiff take nothing by his writ aforesaid, but that he be in mercy for his false claim, and that the aforesaid desendant do go thereof without day, &c.

Plea in ahatement of variance between the original and spe-Galty.

AND the aforesaid defendant, by A. B. his attorney, comes and prays judgment of the writ aforesaid, because he says, that there is a variance between the writing aforesaid brought here into court and the original writ sued out upon the said writing; because, he says, that the said defendant is named and called by that writing K. B. of T.; and this he is ready to verify: wherefore, inasmuch as there is a variance between the writ aforesaid and the writing aforesaid upon which the aforefaid writ was fued out, he prays judgment of the said writ, &c.

Declaration in

MIDDLESEX, f. For that whereas heretofore, to wit, on essemble formo- the second day of June, A. D. 1772, in a certain court of our lord judgment of the now king, called a Court of Vice-admiralty, holden at Pensavice admiralty cola, in the province of West Florida, in North America, in and court in West for the said province (to wit, at Westminster, in the county of Florida, the costs Middlesex aforesaid), before the honourable Alexander Macpherof that suit, and son, esquire, then judge-surrogate and commissary deputy of the ful appeal to the court aforesaid, it was published, promulgated, pronounced, and king in council decreed by the said judge, in a certain cause civil and maritime, then lately depending in the said court between the said plaintiff and the said defendants, that said defendants, the defendants in that cause, should pay to said plaintiff, the libellant in that cause, the fum of one hundred and one pounds nine thillings and eightpence farthing, of lawful, &c. (being the first cost of a certain trunk of goods, wares, and merchandizes of the said plaintiff, theretofore shipped on board a certain brigantine or vessel called the Africa, whereof said 9. (one of defendants) then was master, and the said P. (the other defendant) one of the part-owners (to be delivered to the said plaintiff at the port of S. in the province of West Florida, he paying freight for the same, and which, on the arrival of faid brigantine at the port aforefaid, could not be found on board said brigantine, but was wholly lost), and also the sum of thirty-five pounds per centum upon said sum of one hundred and one pounds nine shillings and eightpence farthing, the said plaintiff first paying freight for the said trunk; and also that said defendants should pay the sum of eighty-nine pounds three shillings of like lawful, &c. being the costs taxed in that cause, besides the charges of the monition and other expences that might enfue to be paid within fifteen days after the service of said monition, but that fuch monition should not be extracted within a week from the day and year last aforesaid, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid. And Appeal to the whereas said defendants, after the promulgation of said decree, to king in council, e wit, on the thirteenth June, A. D. 1772, at Westminster aforesaid, and appealed from the faid decree to our lord the now king's most excellent majesty in council, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, and such proceedings were had on said appeal, that afterwards, to wit, at the court of our faid lord the now king, holden at his palace at St. James's, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, before our said lord the now king, and divers peers and great men, and other liege subjects of our said lord the king, and of his most honourable privy council, on the thirty-first September, A. D. 1773, our said lord the king, by and with the advice of his privy council, ordered, that the said appeal should be dismissed for non-prosecution, with appealdismissed, twenty pounds sterling costs, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid; with 201, costs. whereof said defendants afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, had notice. And whereas said Phintist laid out plaintiff also laid out and expended a large sum of money, to wit, other costs, &c. pounds of like lawful, &c. in and about which, together the fum of the charges of the monition and other expences in fuing, and on withother fume, amount to L account of the said cause, besides the sum of eighty-nine pounds three shillings for taxed costs, as aforesaid, which, together with the said sun of one hundred and one pounds nine shillings and eightpence farthing, of lawful, &c. (being the first cost of the said trunk of goods (allowing the said defendants the sum of

for the freight thereof), and the said sum of twenty-five pounds per cent. upon the faid fum of one hundred and one pounds nine shillings and eightpence farthing, and the said sum of eightynine pounds three shillings (being the costs taxed as aforesaid), and the faid sum of twenty pounds (by our said lord the now king, by and with the advice of his privy council, as aforefaid, ordered for costs) made and amounted to a large sum of money, to wit, pounds of like lawful, &c. to wit, at Westminthe jum of ster aforesaid; and the said decree is still in full force and unsatis- Decree still in fied; of which said several premises the said desendants afterwards, sorce. to wit, on first January 1774, to wit, at Westminster, had notice; Desendants had and by means of which said several premises, they the said desendants means, are beautiful to means, and the means of the means o became liable to pay to faid plaintiff said sum of pounds, when they should be thereunto afterwards requested; and and being so, being so liable, the said defendants, in consideration thereof, after- in consideration wards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Westminster thereof, aforesaid, undertook, and faithfully promised said plaintiff, to pay him said last-mentioned sum of money, when they should be thereto afterwards requested. And whereas, &c. &c. (A Second Second Count. Count, that defendants were indebted, &c. by a certain decree, &c. promulgated, &c. tollowing the substance of this Count. and also in the further fum of pounds for charges of monition, &c. as above, making together in the whole the sum of, &c.; and being so indebted, &c. thereof the said defendant then and there undertook, and faithfully promised the said plaintiffs, to pay them the sum of ten pounds in case the said J. S. deceased did, by the said paper writing, dated, &c. devise the said freehold and leasehold estates: and the said plaintiffs aver, that the said J. S. deceased did, by the said paper writing, dated, &c. devile the faid freehold and leasehold estates, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, whereof the said desendant afterwards, to wit, on the said first of January 1770, at, &c. aforesaid, had notice; by means whereof the said defendant, according to the tenor of his promise and undertaking aforesaid, became liable to pay, and ought to have paid, to the said plaintiffs the said sum of ten pounds, to wit, at, &c. aforesaid: Yet the said defendant, not regarding his said promise and undertaking so by him made in this behalf as aforesaid, but contriving, &c. to deceive, &c. the said plaintiffs in this behalf, hath not as yet paid the faid furn of ten pounds, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiffs, or to either of them, (although to do this the said desendant was requested by them the said plaintiffs afterwards; to wit, on the said first of January 1770 aforesaid, and often atterwards, to wit, at, &c. aforesaid,) but he to pay the same, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiffs, or to any or either of them, hath hitherto wholly refused, and still refuses to pay the same, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiffs, or to any or either of them; wherefore the said plaintiffs say, that they are injured and have sustained damage to the value of twenty pounds, and therefore they bring their suit, &c.

(a) In the common pleas they have no memorandum to the iffue, unless in special cases, such as privilege.

Plea thereto.

And the faid defendant, by C. BERKSHIRE, to wit. Edward Seymour esquire complains Declaration in of Richard Povey being, &c. for that whereas, on the first day of Special As-February 1788, at, &c. divers disputes, differences, and contro-performing versies had before that time arisen, and were then depending be an award made tween the said Edward and the said Richard, and thereupon, for by putting an end to the said disputes, differences, and controversies, pire upon a pathe said Edward and the said Richard, on the same day and year of all matters in aforesaid, at, &c. submitted themselves, and then and there agreed difference to submit themselves, to sland to, abide, observe, perform, and two arbitrators, fulfil the order, rule, and determination of Thomas Spanswich, of with a power to the parish of Lambourne in the said county of Berks, and Tho-nominate such mas Bacon of the parish of Ramsbury, in the county of Wilts, could not agree. indifferently chesen by the said Edward and the said Richard, to 2d. count, upon lettle all and all manner of debts, differences, quarrels, disputes, a very special reckonings, agreements, and all other dues and demands what to-demise by agreeever, both at law and in equity, or otherwise, howsoever then subfisting, or which might thereafter occur; and it was then and there plaintiff and defurther agreed, that the opinion, award, and determination of the fendant, of lands said Thomas Spanswich and Thomas Bacon, touching the mat- and houses, &c. ters in question, should be final, and delivered in writing, and for not paying figned by them, by the twenty-eighth day of February 1788; but repairing, &c. if they the said T. S. and T. B. the referees, should not be able 3d and to settle the aforesuid disputes and differences, then and in that case counts, use and the faid Edward and the said Richard did thereby empower them occupation. the faid T.S. and T.B. to choose and fix upon force other person 5th. Indebitatus whose determination should be likewise final; and the said agree- money awarded ment being so made as aforesaid, afterwards, to wit, on the same by umpire under first day of February 1788, at, &c. in consideration that the said the circumstan-Edward, at the special instance and request of the said Richard, ces of the above had then and there undertaken and faithfully promifed to perform and fulfil the before mentioned agreement in all things on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled, he the faid Richard undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said Edward, that he the said Richard would perform and fulfil the said agreement in all things therein contained on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled; and the said Edward in sact says, that the faid T. S. and T. B. being such arbitrators as aforesaid, could not umpire, if they ment, on plain paper, between

agree in opinion to as to fettle the faid matters in dispute at the time of the making the said agreement between the said Edward and the said Richard, and were not able to settle the aforesaid disputes and differences between them; and thereupon afterwards, and before the faid twenty-eighth day of February 1788, to wit, on the twenty-seventh day of February 1788, at. &c. the said T. S. and T.B. being such arbitrators as aforesaid, by virtue of the faid power so given to them as aforesaid, and by and with the approbation and consent of the said Edward and the said Richard, and by their direction, did nominate, appoint, choose, and fix on one Samuel Ballard, to be an umpire or a third person to arbitrate, award, order, and finally determine of, in and concerning all matters in difference between the said Edward and the said Richard, as well on the part and behalf of the faid Edward as the faid Richard, so that he the said Samuel Ballard should make and set down his award and umpirage in writing, ready to be delivered to the said Edward and Richard on or before the eleventh day of March next. And the said Edward further says, that the said Samuel Ballard being indifferently chosen such umpire as aforesaid, and having taken upon himself the charge and burthen of the said award or umpirage, did afterwards, and within the time in that behalf limited for the making of the said award or umpirage as aforesaid, to wit, on the eleventh day of March 1788, at, &c. in due manner made and set down his award or umpirage in writing, of and concerning the matters in difference at the time of the making of the said first mentioned agreement so referred to him as aforesaid, then ready to be delivered to the said Edward and the said Richard, bearing date the same day and year last aforesaid; and thereby he the said Samuel Ballard did, amongst other things, award, order, decree, and determine of and concerning the aforesaid matters in difference at the time of making the said agreement, that the said Richard, his executors or administrators, should and did, on or before the twentieth day of March then instant, pay or cause to be paid to the said Edward, his executors or administrators, at or in the then dwelling-house of him the said Edward, situate in Lambourne Woodlands, in the said county, the full sum of one hundred and eighty pounds seven shillings and nine-pence of lawful. &c. in full payment, discharge, and satisfaction of and for all rent, and all monies, debts, and demands whatfoever, due or owing unto the said Edward by the said Richard, on any account whatsoever. at any time before and on the tenth day of October 1787; and the said Samuel Ballard did thereby, by his said award or umpirage. further award, order, decree, and determine, that all actions, suits, quarrels, controversies, and disputes whatsoever had, moved, brought, commenced, or depending between the said parties in difference, which in any manner related to or concerned the premises to him the said Samuel Ballard submitted as aforesaid, should from thenceforth cease, determine, and be finally ended, and no further prosecuted or proceeded in by them or any of them, or by their or either of their means, consent, or procurement; and the said Samuel muel Ballard did then and there, by his said award or umpirage, further award, order, decree, and determine, that the said Edward and Richard should, within the space of one month next after the payment of the aforesaid sum of one hundred and eighty pounds seven shillings and nine pence, at their joint and equal expence, seal and execute unto each other general releases of all actions. cause or causes of action, suits, disputes, controversies, trespasses, debts, duties, damages, accounts, reckonings, and demands whatfoever, for or by reason of any matter, cause, or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of the world until the aforesaid tenth day of October 1787 inclusive; of all which premises the said Richard afterwards, to wit, on the said eleventh day of March 1788, at, &c. had notice; by reason of which premises the said Richard became liable to pay to the faid Edward the faid sum of one hundred and eighty pounds seven shillings and nine pence, according to the form and effect of the faid award, and which he the faid Richard, in consequence thereof, ought to have paid to the said Edward, according to the form and effect of the said agreement, and the said promise and undertaking of the said Richard so made as aforesaid: Yet the said Richard, not regarding the said agreement, nor his said promise and undertaking so by him in this behalfmade, but contriving, &c. hath not yet paid to the said Edward, at his aforesaid house, or in any other manner, the said sum of money, or any part thereof, in the faid award mentioned, although the hid twentieth day of March 1788 is long fince past, and although he the said Richard, upon the twentieth day of March 1788, and afterwards, to wit, on the first day of June 1788, at, &c. was thereunto requested by the said Edward; but to pay the same, or any part thereof, to the said Edward, he the said Richard hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, contrary to the form and effect of the said agreement, and the said promise and undertaking of the said Richard so made as aforesaid. And whereas also ad Count. Spethe faid F.dward, before and at the time of the making of the said cial assumptit, agreement hereinafter mentioned, and continually from thenceforth landlord against hitherto hath been, and still is, seised in his demesne as of see, of very special deand in the barns, lands, and tenements in the faid agreement here-mile, on plain inafter mentioned, with the appurtenances; and being so seised paper, for not thereof, to wit, on the fifth day of June 1788, at, &c. it was paying rent, and agreed by and between the said Edward and the said Richard in manner and form following, that is to say, that the said Edward should let, and the said Richard should take and rent all that farm called Liquid, and also that farm called Ragnell, (woods, borders, and trees excepted,) for the term of eleven years from Michaelmas then next, the rent to be at and after the rate of sixteen shillings per acre, tithe included, and that the said Richard, as tenant. hould pay all taxes, (land taxes excepted,) and that he should keep the said premises in good repair, the said Edward, as landlord, finding materials, and the said Richard, as tenant, workmanship; and that no hedge should be cut under ten or above Vol. I.

twelve years old, to be done in an husbandlike manner, and that the hedges should be preserved from cattle and other damages, and that the said Richard should leave the same grounds or fields in grass as were then, and part to be winter ploughed in the sourteens acres as were at the time of making the said agreement, and that the crops should be valued by two persons on the second of June in the last year of the said eleven years, and that the landlord or succeedor should take the grass at the appraised value, and the money to be paid on demand: and it was then and there agreed, that the said grounds should be manured the preceding Christmas, and the old clover to be entered immediately after appraisement: and it was then and there further agreed, that the landlord or succeedor should sow the grass seeds the last year of the said term of eleven years, on what grounds, and with what seeds, he should think proper, and pay for the seed; and that the grounds next to the meadow at Ragnell should be lest the last year of the said term, and the commons, for the landlord or his succeedor, at May Day, and the said Ragnell meadow and clover grounds by Poutins to be left at Midsummer; and that the said Richard, as tenant, should keep the premises in good repair, and that the landford should find materials, and the said Richard workmanship; and that the landlord or succeedor should enter upon the commons and the Ragnell ground next to the meadow on May Day, and that the straw, dung, and compost should be spent on the premises, and should be left the two last years in the farm yard; and that the faid rent of the said premises should be paid half yearly, viz. at Lady Day and Michaelmas, and in default of which the landlord should re-enter the premises, as if no contract as aforesaid had been made; and that the landlord should have free ingress, egress, and regress with his people, horses, waggons, and carts, at all seafonable times, and that the landlord or succeedor should have part of the house, viz. the parlour and the rooms over, and the stable, at May Day before the expiration of the term aforesaid; and that the faid Richard should quit the whole premises on the Midsummer after the expiration of the aforefaid term: and it was then and there further agreed, that when the barns or stables and carthouse, part of the laid premises, should want new thatching entirely, that the landlord should find workmanship and all materials, excepting wheat straw, which the said Richard, as tenant should find. And the said last mentioned agreement being so made as aforefaid, afterwards, to wit, &c. (state mutual promises); and the said Edward in sact says, that the said Richard afterwards, and after the making the said agreement, in pursuance thereof, to wit, on the eleventh day of October in the year last aforesaid, entered upon the said premises in the said last mentioned agreement mentioned, and then and there became and was possessed thereof, and hath continued to hold and enjoy the last aforesaid premises from the said eleventh day of October 1784, hitherto, to wit, at Reading aforesaid, in the county aforesaid. And although the said Edward always, and

and from the time of making his said promise and undertaking so by him made as aforesaid, hitherto hath well and duly performed. and fulfilled the faid beforementioned agreement in all things therein contained on his part and behalf to be observed, performed, and fulfilled, the said Edward in fact further says, that a large sum of money, to wit; three hundred pounds, of, &c. of the rent aforesaid, at and after the rate last aforesaid accrued, and became due from the said Richard to the said Edward, for and in respect of the faid premises so held and occupied by him as last aforesaid, at and upon Michaelmas Day now last past, which the said Richard ought to have paid to the said Edward, according to the form and effect of the faid agreement, and his said promise and undertaking to by him made as last aforesald, to wit, at, &c. whereof the said Richard afterwards, to wit, on the first day of November 1788, there had notice: Yet the said defendant, not regarding, &c. but contriving, &c: hath not paid or caused to be paid to the said Edward the rent aforesaid, so accrued due as aforesaid, or any part thereof, although often requested so to do; but to pay the same, or any part thereof, to the said Edward, he the said Richard hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, contrary, &c. And the said Edward further fays; that the said Richard, further difregarding his said agreement and his promise and undertaking in that behalf made as last aforesaid, and further contriving, &c. hath not at any time since he became possessed of the aforesaid premises, maintained and kept, and caused to be maintained and kept the hedges and fences of and belonging to the aforesaid premises in repair, nor preserved the same from cattle and other damages; but on the contrary thereof hath wholly omitted fo to do, and hath fuffered and permitted the faid hedges and fences, and all and every of them, to become ruinous, prostrate, and in great decay for want of sufficient and necessary repairs thereof, by means whereof divers cattle, to wit, horses, &c. entered and came in and upon the faid hedges and fences of and belonging to the said premiles, and eat up, damaged, killed, and destroyed, and consumed the said hedges and sences, contrary, &c. to wit, at, &c. counts for use and occupation, and quantum meruit). And where- (a) General inas also the said Richard afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. was in- debitatus debted to the said Edward in another large sum of money, to wit, sumpsite for moin the further sum of five hundred pounds, of, &c. upon and by an umpire after virtue of a certain other award or umpirage made by the said Sa- a parol submismuel Ballard upon, &c. by virtue of a certain other submission be- son to arbitrafore that time made and entered into by the said Edward and the tors, withpower said Richard to the award, order, and determination of the said T. to nominate such Spanswich and T. Racon, of and concerning all matters in the same in case Spanswich and T. Bacon, of and concerning all matters in dif- of their not ference then depending between the said Edward and the said Ri-agreeing, &c. chard, being other matters in difference, and thereby empowering the faid Thomas Spanswich and Thomas Bacon, in case they should not agree in making such last mentioned award, to appoint a third person to award, determine, and finally settle the said matters; and whereupon the said T. S. and T. B. not agreeing in H 2 making by and with the consent and approbation of the said Edward and the said Richard, nominated and appointed the said Samuel Ballard as an umpire to arbitrate, award, order, and finally determine of and concerning all matters in difference between the said Edward and the said Richard. And being so indebted, assumption accordingly. (Money lent; money had and received; account stated.)

FOSTER BOWER.

(a) It is very doubtful whether this count could be supported if demurred to, but said it was usual to add it. Bower struck out the count, because it could be of no use; for being in assumptit, and the award under seal, the award would not support the declaration in evidence, if no previous objection was taken to it. Sed Quære? See Dodd and Herbert, Sti. 459.

I think the plaintiff, upon proving the feveral matters contained in the declaration, may recover either on the 1st count on the agreement to submit to arbitration, or on the second upon the original agreement for the lease of the premises; or he may recover so much of his demand as related to rent on the count for use and occupation. I apprehend no objection can be taken for want of the date upon the submission, so that the submisfion is proved to have been actually entered into. The reference to the umpire must be stamped; but I do not think the original agreement between Mr. Seymour and his tenant needs stamping. The award is not objectionable for being made upon a higher stamp than the law requires; nor do I fee any objection which affects the prefent question, I approve likewife of the form of the declaration.

On looking into the stamp act of 23. Geo. 3. I find it takes place from the first of August 1783, instead of 1784, (as upon memory only I had conceived,) and the ariginal agreement must therefore be stamped as well as the restrence.

1780. The Court of the King's Palace at West-minster.

On a wager, whether A. had become bail for B. in a cause then pending in the marshalfea court.

ROBERT BROOME, by Richard Kelfall his at-April 7th. torney, complains against Robert Barker, of a plea Broome of trespals on the case, for that whereas on the first against day of July, in the year of Our Lord 1779, at Southwark in the county of Surrey, and within the jurisdiction of this court, a certain discourse was moved and had by and between the said Robert Broome and the said Robert Barker, of and concerning a certain cause or suit then depending in the said court of our lord the now king of his palace of Westminster aforesaid, between the said Robert Broome, plaintiff, and one Humphrey Moore, defendant, in a certain plea of trespals on the case to the damage of the faid Robert Broome of ninety-nine shillings, and upon that discourse a question then and there arose and was debated between the faid Robert Broome and the said Robert Barker, whether the said Robert Barker had ever become bail for the said Humphrey Moore in the said plea or suit or not; and the said Robert

Robert Broome then and there afferted and affirmed that the faid Robert Barker had become ball for the faid Humphrey in the said plea or suit, and which said affertion and affirmation of the said Robert Broome he the faid Robert Barker then and there wholly denied and afferted to the contrary thereof; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at Southwark aforesaid, in the county and jurisdiction aforesaid, in consideration that the said Robert Broome, at the special instance and request of the faid Robert Barker, had then and there paid to the said Robert Barker the sum of five pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, he the said Robert Barker undertook, and to the said Robert Broome then and there faithfully promised to pay to him the, faid Robert Broome the sum of ten pounds of like lawful money, in case he the said Robert Barker had ever become bail for the said Humphrey Moore in the said plea or suit. And the said Robert Broome in fact says, that the said Robert Barker before the making of the promise and undertaking aforesaid, to wit, on the fourth day of October, in the year of Our Lord 1778, had become bail in the said Palace Court for the said Humphrey Moore, to wit, in the said Palace Court then held at Southwark aforesaid, in the county and jurisdiction aforesaid, whereof the said Robert Barker, afterwards, to wit, on the same first day of July, A. D. 1779, at Southwark aforefaid, in the county and jurisdiction aforefaid, had notice; by reason whereof the said Robert Barker became liable to pay, and ought to pay to the said Robert Broome the said fum of ten pounds, whereof the said Robert Barker then and there had notice; yet the said Robert Barker, not regarding his promise and undertaking aforefaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and fubtilly to deceive and defraud the said Robert Broome in this behalf, although often requested, hath not yet paid to the faid Robert Broome the faid sum of ten pounds, or any part thereof, but he so to do hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, to the damage of the taid Robert Broome of twenty pounds; and therefore he brings his suit, &c. And also the said Ro. Averment. bert Broome avers, that neither he nor the said Robert Barker, nor either of them at the time of levying of the plaint of the faid Robert Broome here in court, were nor now are of the king's howehold.

And the said Robert Barker, by Richard Heighway, his attor-Plea thereto. ney, comes and defends the wrong and injury when, &c. and fays, that true it is that such discourse was moved and had by and between the said Robert Broome and the said Robert Barker, as the said Robert Broome bath above alledged, and that the said Robert Barker did promise and undertake in manner and form as the said Robert Broome hath above in and by his faid declaration alledged against him; but the said Robert Barker surther saith, that he the taid Robert Broome ought not to have or maintain his aforefaid action thereof against him, because he saith, that he the said Robert Barker had not at any time before the making of the said promise and undertaking of the said Robert Barker, become bail for , the H 3

YORKSHIRE, to wit. Sir John Ramsden, bart. complains of Thomas Townley Parker, esquire, administrator of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits, which were of Banastre Parker, esquire, deceased, at the time of his death, who died intestate, being in the custody of the marshal of the marshalles of our sovereign lord the present king, before the king himself; for that whereas on the twenty-first day of August, A. D. 1782, at Tadcaster, in the said county of York, in consideration that the said Sir John, at the special instance and request of the said Banastre, to pay to the said B. the sum of 1000l. of lawful money of Great Britain, if he the said B. should outlive the said Sir John, he the said B. undertook, and to the said Sir John then and there saithfully promised, to pay to him the sum of one thousand pounds of like lawful money, if he the said Sir John should outlive

the said B.; and the said Sir John in sact says, that the said B afterwards, to wit, on the first day of January, A. D. 1789, at T. aforesaid, died, and the said Sir John then and there survived the faid B.: nevertheless, the said Thomas Townley, administrator as aforesaid, not regarding the said promise and undertaking of the said B. so made as aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said Sir John in this behalf, hath not (although often requested) paid to the said Sir John the faid fum of one thousand pounds, or any part thereof, neither was the same paid to the said Sir John by the said B. in his life-time, but to pay the same to the said Sir John the said Thomas Townley hath bitherto altogether refused, and still doth refuse, and the same still remains whoily unpaid to the said Sir John. And whereas also, on 2d count, On a the said twenty-first day of August, in the said year of Our Lord promise that the 1782 aforesaid, at T. aforesaid, in consideration that the said Sir executors, &c. 14 John, at the like instance and request of the said B. had then and first should pay there undertaken, and faithfully promised the said B. that the exe- to the survivor. cutors or administrators of the said Sir John would pay to the said B. the sum of one thousand pounds of like lawful money, if the said B. should outlive the said Sir John, he the said B. undertook, and to the said Sir John then and there faithfully promised, that the executors or administrators of the said B. should pay to the said Sir John the sum of one thousand pounds of like lawful money, if he the said Sir John should outlive the said B.; and the said Sir John in fact says, that the said B. asterwards, to wit, on the first day of January, A. D. 1789, at T. aforesaid, died, and the said Sir John then and there survived him the said B.: nevertheless the said T. T. executor as aforesaid, not regarding the said promise and undertaking of the said B. so made by him as last aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and fubtilly to deceive and defraud the said Sir John in this behalf, hath not (although often requested) paid to the said Sir John the said sum of one thousand pounds, or any part thereof, but to pay the same to the said Sir John the said T. T. hath hitherto altogether refused, and the same still remains wholly unpaid to the said Sir John, to the damage of the said Sir John of 2000l.; and therefore he brings suit, &c. A. CHAMBRE.

Mr. Banastre Parker having died intestate, his personal estate alone is liable to payment of his simple contract debts, and his fimple contract creditors cannot have the benefit of his personal estate, except by a fait in equity for marshalling his affets, as the administrator may plead the debts by bond and covenant, and that he has not affets beyond those debts, to any action by a simple contract creditor, and consequently may defeat the demand of Sir John Ramiden at law, supposing him to have a legal demand. Whether he has a legal demand or not I think must depend upon the construction to be given to the statute of 14. Geo. 3. c. 18, 3 for independent of that statute, I think it impossible (considering the decisions on wagers) to hold this an unlawful wager. In Foster and Thackeray, cited 1. Term Rep. 57. note 6. a wager on an event in which the parties had no interest was confidered as within the statute by the Judges of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, though the Barons of the Exchequer differed in opinion. In Atherfold and Beard, 2. Term Rep. 610. Buller J. thought with the Judges of the King's Bench and Common Pleas in Foster and Thackeray: he admitted, that the statute spoke only of policies, but thought it might extend to the case of a wager. I do not know that the point has ever been decided. I think, considering the words of the 14. Geo. 3. it will be difficult to bring this case within it i the words are, "that no infurance thall be "f. made," and the common construction of the word inforance is an agreement, in confideration of a fum paid, to pay a larger fum on a future event, which I think it will be difficult to apply to a mere wager. The contract between Sir John R. and Mr. Parker was merely, that the representatives of whichever should die first should pay the surviver a certain fum. There appears to me to be nothing illegal in fuch contract, independent of the statute. Indeed, the policy of the act appears to me in no degree to apply to the case of a timple wager. I therefore apprehend Sir John R. must have a verdict and judgment for his demand against the goods of the late Mr. P. though he can have no fruit of his judg. ment at law. If Mr. P. is definous that this demand frould not prejudice other simple exelitors, he should give them notice of it, and any of the creditors may file a bill on behalf of himself and the other creditors

a ainst Mr. P. for an account and administration of the personal estate, and to have the affets marshalled, and that the fimple contract may stand in the place of the specialty creditors on the real estate, to the extent of the personal estate exhausted in payment of specialty dehis.

Mr. P. may put in an amicable answer, and the case may be heard by consent before Sir J. R. can have judgment, and then Mr. P. may, by a bill against him, restrain his future proceedings, and compel him to come in with the other simple contract creditors under the decree.

If Sir John Ramiden can obtain a judgment before a decree for administration of the affets is obtained, he must be preserred in the administration before the other fimple contract creditors.

JOHN MITFORD.

N. B. Mr. Chambre's and Mr. Heywood's Opinions on the past of the plaintiff, and Mr. Lawes' and Mr. Topping's Opinions on the part of the defendant, were taken on this case, and they all agreed, that the wager was recoverable at law.

Pleas thereto: by testator. 2d, Plene adminifravit by administrator. 3d, Plene adminifiravit præter feveral bond debts to defendant's felf and several debts dant on timple contract, and 51. affets, which fatisfy them.

And the said Thomas Townley, administrator as aforesaid, 1st, Non Assumption by James Hodgson his attorney, comes and desends the wrong and injury when, &c. and fays that the said Banastre Parker, deceased, in his lifetime, did not undertake and promise in manner and form as the said Sir John hath above thereof complained against him the said Thomas Townley, and of this he puts himfelf upon the country, &c. And for further plea in this behalf the said T. T. has fully administered all and singular the goods and chattels which were of the said Banastre Parker now deceased, at the time of his death, which have ever come to or been in his is insufficient to hands to be administered, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid; and that he the said T. T. hath not, nor at the time of exhibiting the bill of the said Sir John, or at any time fince, had any goods or chattels which were the goods or chattels of the said Banastre Parker deceased, at the time of his death, in the hands of him the said T. T. to be administered, and this the faid Thomas T. is ready to verify; wherefore he prays judgment if the said Sir John ought to have or maintain his aforesaid action thereof against him, &c. And for further plea in this behalf the faid T. T. by like leave of the Court here to him for this purpose first granted according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, says that the said Sir John ought not to have or maintain his aforesaid action thereof against him the said T. T. because because he says that the said Banastre Parker deceased, in his lifetime, to wit, on the twenty-ninth day of September, in the year of Our Lord 1785, to wit, at Tadcaster asoresaid, in the county aforesaid, by his certain writing obligatory, bearing date the day. and year aforefaid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered for a just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to one John Nabb and J. S. Aspden in the sum of one thousand six hun red pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, to be paid to the said John Nabb and Joseph Seton Aspdan, when he the said Banaitre Parker deceased should be thereunto afterwards requested, which faid writing obligatory at the time of the death of the faid B. Parker deceased was and still remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled; and also that the said B. Parker deceased, in his lifetime, to wit, on the tenth day of April, in the year of Our Lord 1782, to wit, at Tadcaster asoresaid, in the county aforefaid, by his certain other writing obligatory, bearing date the day and year last aforesid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered as another just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to one Ann Alker and one Jennet Alker in the sum of eight hundred pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, to be paid to the said Ann Alker and Jennet Alker when he the said Banastre Parker deceased should be thereto afterwards requested, which said last mentioned writing obligatory at the time of the death of the said B. Parker deceased was and still remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled; and also that the said B. Parker deceased, in his lisetime, to wit, on the sixth day of August, in the year of Our Lord 1785, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, by his certain other writing obligatory, bearing date the day and year last aforesaid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered for another just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to one Mrs. Lea in the sum of four hundred pounds of like lawful money, to be paid to the said Mrs. Lea when he the said B. Parker deceased should be thereto afterwards requested, which said last mentioned writing obligatory at the time of the death of the said B. Parker deceased was and still remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled; and also that the said B. Parker deceased, in his lifetime, to wit, on the tenth day of April, in the year of Our Lord 1782, to wit, at Tadcaster asoresaid, in the county aforesaid, by his certain other writing obligatory, bearing date the day and year last aforefaid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered for another just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to one Francis Plumbe in the sum of seven hundred pounds, to be paid to the said Francis Plumbe, when he the faid B. Parker deceased should be thereto afterwards requested, which said last mentioned writing obligatory at the time of the death of the said B. Parker deceased was and Itill remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled: and also that the said B. Parker deceased, in his life-time; to wit, on the twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of Our Lord 1786, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, by his certain other writing obligatory, bearing date the day and year last aforesaid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered for another just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to one Margaret Townley in the fum of fix hundred pounds of like lawful money, to be paid to the said Margaret Townley when he the said B. Parker deceased should be thereto afterwards requested, which said last mentioned writing obligatory at the time of the death of the said B. Parker deceased was and still remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled; and the said Thomas Townley further says, that the said B. Parker deceased, in his life-time, to wit, on the eighteenth day of January, in the year of Our Lord 1788, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, by his certain' other writing obligatory, bearing date the day and year last aforesaid, sealed with his seal, and as his deed delivered for another just and true debt, became held and firmly bound to the said Margaret Townley in the sum of five hundred pounds of like lawful money, to be paid to the faid Margaret Townley when he the said B. Parker deceased should be thereto afterwards requested, and which said last mentioned writing obligatory at the time of the death of the said B. Parker deceased was and still remains there in full force unpaid and uncancelled; and the faid T. T. further fays, that the said Banastre Parker deceased, in his lifetime, and at the time of his death, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, was justly and truly indebted to the said T. T. in the further sum of two hundred pounds, of like lawful money, for money by the faid T. T. before that time lent and advanced to, and paid, laid out and expended for the faid B. Parker deceased, and at his special instance and request, and for money by the said B. Parker deceased before that time had and received to and for the use of the said T. T. and for money due from the said B. Parker deceased to the said T. T. upon divers accounts before that time had and stated by and between the said B. Parker deceased and the said T. T. And the said T. T. further saith, that the said B. Parker deceased, afterwards, to wit, on the feventh day of February, in the year of Our Lord 1788, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, died so indebted to him the said T. T. intestate, after whose death, to wit, on the twenty-third day of December, in the faid year of Our Lord 1788, administration of all and singular the goods, chattels, and credits, which were of the said Banastre Parker deceased, at the time of his death, by John Briggs, clerk, master of arts, vicar general and official principal of the right reverend father in God, William, by divine permission Lord Bishop of Chester, to whom Profest of the granting of that administration of right belonged, was in due letters of ad. manner committed to the faid T. T. to wit, at Tadcaster aforefaid, (and which said letters of administration the said Thomas T. now brings here into court, bearing date the day and year last above mentioned), by means whereof the faid T. T. became, and was, and still is, administrator of all and fingular the goods and chattels, rights and credits, which were of the said Banastre Parker at the time of his death, to wit, at Tadeaster aforesaid: and the said I homas T. further says, that he has fully administered all and' fingular

fingular the goods and chattels which were of the faid B. Parker deceased, at the time of his death, in his hands to be administered, except goods and chattels to the value of five pounds, to wit, at Tadcaster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid; and that he the said T. T. had not at the time of the commencement of this suit, or at any time fince, nor now hath, any goods or chattels which were of the faid B. Parker deceased, at the time of his death, in the hands of him the faid T. T. to be administered, except goods and chattels to the value of five pounds, which are not sufficient to pay or satisfy the money due and owing upon and by virtue of the faid writings obligatory herein-before-mentioned, and the aforefaid debt so due to him the faid T. T. as aforefaid, and which are fubject and liable to the fatisfaction and payment thereof; and this he the faid T. T. is ready to verify; wherefore he prays judgment if the said Sir John ought to have or maintain his aforesaid action against him, &c. JAMES TOPPING.

I Think this bond should be stated as [upon the face of it it purports to be) a bond to the persons named in it, as obligees, and that the affets of it to the defeneant need not be shewn; because being a chose in action, it could not be assigned at law, the affects only vesting in the affignee a power to fue in the name of the obligce, if necessary to bring an action at T. B. haw for the recovery of it.

1 Have not a copy of the bonds hereafter mentioned, must therefore trouble Mr. Hodgion to supply the blanks T. B. throughout.

N. B. The blanks for the furns must be supplied, with the penalties of the bonds. Observe this throughout.

I Have gone through all the long papers laid before me, as instructions for plea in this cause, with great attention, and have drawn the above, which I think quite fufficient to defeat the prefent action. I have pleaded only such bonds as are specified in the case, (though others are referred to generally) because I think their amount more than sufficient for the purpose of this plea. Care should be taken to infert the dates and furns in the bands truly, and the latter should be in the penalties, and not the fums mentioned in the conditions. It is sometimes usual in cases like this to set out the bonds and conditions and state how much is really due upon both: but as I conceive that is only absolutely necessary when the day of payment is yet to come, and it is long. past in all the above, and it tends both to brevity and fafety to state the bonds only without the conditions, I have done for T. BARROW, peré.

I Have perused and approve of these pleas, as properly drawn in point of form, when the blanks are filled up. I take it for granted the bends are or will be truly described, and that the affets are much more than covered by thele bonds and the administrator's own debt, for I have nothing before me but the draft of the pleas themselves.

KENT, to wit. Isaac Good complains of James Elliott, reager of five being in the custody of the marshal of the marshalsea of our soveguineas, that reign lord the now king, before the king himself; for that whereas, before a certain on the twenty-first of June, in the year of Our Lord 1787, at time bought a waggon, and one fhilling deposited.

Maidstone,

Maidstone, in the said county of Kent, a certain discourse was had and moved between the faid Isaac and the said James of and concerning a certain waggon, then lately belonging to one David Coleman, and upon that discourse a certain question then and there arose, and was debated between the said Isaac and the said James, whether one Susannah Tye had or had not before that time bought the said waggon; and upon that discourse the said James then and there afferted and affirmed, that the faid Susannah Tye had bought the faid waggon, which said affertion and affirmation of the said James the faid Isaac then and there wholly denied to be true; and thereupon the faid James then and there betted the faid Isaac the fum of five guineas of lawful money of Great Britain, against the money so betted by the said Isaac, as next hereafter-mentioned, that the faid Sufannah Tye had before that time bought the faid waggon; and the said Ifaac then and there betted the said James the fum of five guineas against the money so betted by the said James as aforesaid, that the said Susannah Tye had not before that time bought the said waggon; and it was then and there agreed between them, that the faid bet should be decided and determined by the faid David Coleman and the said Susannah Tye; and thereupon the said Isac and James then and there deposited each of them the sum of one shilling of like lawful money, in part of the said several respective sums of money so betted as aforesaid, in the hands of one Elizabeth Heath, to be paid by her to the said Isaac, in case the said David and Susannah should say and determine that the said Susannah had not before that time bought the said waggon, and to the said James, in case the said David and Susannah should say and determine that the faid Sufannah had before that time bought the faid waggon: and thereupon in confideration of the premises, and Mutual also in consideration that the said Isaac, at the special instance and miss. request of the said James, had then and there agreed with the said James, that the said Elizabeth should and might pay the said money so deposited in her hands as aforesaid to the said James, and also undertook, and faithfully promised the said James, to pay to him the said James the further sum of five pounds four shillings of like lawful money, the relidue of the said sum of five guineas so betted by him the said Isac as aforesaid, in case the said David and Susanmah should say and determine that the said Susannah Tye had before that time bought the said waggon, the said James then and there agreed with the said Isaac, that the said Elizabeth Heath should and might pay the said money so deposited in her hands as aforesaid to the faid Isac; and also undertook, and to the said Isac then and there faithfully promised, to pay to the said Isaac the like sum of five pounds four shillings of like lawful money, the residue of the said sum of five guineas, so betted by him the said James as aforesaid, in case the said David and Susannah should say and determine that the faid Sufannah had not before that time bought the faid waggon: and the said Isaac avers, that the said Susannah had not before that time bought the faid waggon, and that afterwards, to wit, on the twenty-first day of June, in the said year of Our Lord 3787, at Maidstone aforesaid, the said David and Sulannah did say

LANCASHIRE, to wit. W. B. complaint against H. [2d count, money had and received. Breach.]

I Am afraid this case falls within the words "other game or games," in the fatute of 9. Anne, ch. 14. Cockfighting is 'expressly mentioned in the Statute of King Charles agains, Saming, and to is harte racing a bost meigher of these is mentioned in 9. Anne; yet in the case of Goodburn and Martin, a. Stra. 1159 the Court held horse-racing to be within the words " other game or sames" in the latter statute, as it was particularly mentioned in the 10. Car. ; and cock-fighting must therefore be within it for the lame reason.

Minister paid forseit to Trentham, and Mambrino to Pumpkin.

I Apprehend, that neither of the above parties were owners of the horses intended to run, but that the bets were made on the event of a match which had been before made; in that case the bets are clearly void, by the statute against gaming; and plaintiff cannot maintain any F. BULLER.

I Do not comprehend how this bet could be won even if it were legal, for it is not made play or pay; and the memorandum at the bottom feems to import, that in order to decide the bet the horses must run. However, as the Jockey Club have determined otherwise, I must in that submit to their superior judgment. F. Buller.

MIDDLESEX, J. Stephen Hanks complains of John At-Declaration in wood, being, &c. of a plea, &c. for that whereas, on the twenty- assumption B.R. third day of May, A. tiff's freehold and copyhold estates on certain waste grounds inclosed by act of parliament, brought by a claimant against one of the commissioners for inclosing by virtue of a clause in the said act.

by John Damborough his attorney, and brings into the court of our faid lord the king, before the king himself now here, his certain bill against John Bradford, being in the custody of the marshal of the marshalsea of our lord the now king, before the king himfelf, of a plea of trespass on the case, and there are pledges for the prosecution, to wit, John Doe and Richard Roe, which said bill follows in these words, to wit: Yorkshire, to wit, John Braithwaite complains of John Bradford, being in the custody, &c. for this, to wit, that whereas on the first day of January A. D. 1795, at the township of Skelton in the said county of York, a certain discourse was moved and had by and between the faid John Braithwaite and John Bradford, of and concerning a certain act of parliament made and passed in the thirty-sourth year of the reign of our said lord the present king, intituled, "An act for dividing and inclosing the open common fields, ings, moors, commons, and waste grounds withff in the township of Skelton, in the canon fee, manor, and parish of Ripon, in the West Riding of the county of York," and of and concerning the moors, commons and waste grounds, by the said act intended to be divided and inclosed, and the rights of common thereupon; and upon that discourse a certain question then and there arose, and was debated between the said plaintiff and the said defendant, whether the said plaintiff was entitled to a right of common in and upon the faid moors, commons and waste grounds, for or in respect of the several freehold and copyhold tenements in the town of Skelton aforesaid, of him the said John Braithwaite, hereinafter mentioned, that is to say, one freehold messuage, or scite of a messuage, late Parker's, and known by the name of Terrel's Garth; one other freehold messuage, or scite of a messuage, late Parker's, and known by the name of Rigg Garth; one freehold messuage, or scite of a messuage, called Rapers; one copyhold cot, or scite of a cottage; five copyhold messuages, or scite of messuages, in Scruton Gates; or for or in respect of any of the same freehold or copyhold tenements; and thereupon the said plaintiff then and there afferted and affirmed to the said defendant, that he the said plaintiff was entitled to right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of all the said freehold and copyhold tenements of him the faid plaintiff, which said affertion and affirmation of the said John Braithwaite the said John Bradsord then and there wholly denied; and thereupon asterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at the township of Skelton aforesaid, in the county aforesaid. in consideration that the said John Braithwaite, at the special instance and request of the said John Bradford, had then and there paid to the said John Bradford the sum of nine pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, the said John Bradford undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said John Braithwaite to pay him the sum of forty shillings if the said plaintiff was entitled to a right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said first mentioned freehold tenement of him the said plaintiff; and the further sum of forty shillings, if the said John Braithwaite was entitled to a right of common in and upon the faid moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said freehold tenement of the said plaintiff secondly above mentioned; and the further sum of forty shillings, if the said plaintiff was entitled to right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said freehold tenement of the said plaintiff thirdly above mentioned; and also the further sum of forty shillings, if the said plaintiff was entitled to a right of common in and upon the faid moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said first mentioned copyhold tenement of the said plaintiff; and the further sum of forty shillings, for each of the said five last mentioned copyhold tenements of the faid plaintiff, for and in respect of which the said plaintiff was entitled to right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, if the said plaintiff was entitled to such right of common for and in respect of the said five last mentioned tenements, or any of them: and the faid plaintiff avers, that he the said plaintiff then was and is entitled to right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of each and every of the said freehold and copyhold tenements of him the said plaintiff, to wit, at the township of Skelton aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, whereof the said desendant asterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at the township of S. aforesaid, had notice; and by reason of the premises asoresaid, the said defendant then and there became liable to pay, and ought according to his faid promise and undertaking to have paid to the said plaintiff the sum of eighteen pounds, to wit, the sum of forty shillings for each of the said several freehold and copyhold tenements of the said plaintiff, for and in respect of which the said plaintiff was entitled to such right of common as aforesaid: Yet the said defendant, not regarding his said promise and undertaking so made in that behalf as aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending, craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the faid plaintiff in this behalf, hath_not, although often requested, paid the sum of eighteen pounds, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiff, but to pay the same, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiff, hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, to the faid plaintiff his damage of twenty pounds; and therefore he brings his suit, &c.

And the said defendant, by A. B. his attorney, comes and defends the wrong and injury when, &c. and says, that the said plaintist ought not to have or maintain his aforesaid action thereof against him, because he says, that true it is that such discourse was had and moved, and that such question arose and was debated between the said plaintist and the said defendant, and that the said defendant did undertake and promise in manner and form as the said plaintist hath above in his said declaration alledged; but the said defendant surther says, as to the sum of sorty shillings, part of the faid eighteen pounds in the faid declaration mentioned, the faid plaintiff was not entitled to such right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said freehold tenement of the said plaintiff, as the said plaintiff hath in his said declaration above alledged; and of this the said defendant puts himself upon the country; and the said plaintiff doth the like; and as to the sum of forty shillings. other part of the said sum of eighteen pounds, in the said declaration mentioned, the said defendant says, that the said plaintiff was not entitled to such right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said freehold tenement of the said plaintiff secondly above mentioned, as the said plaintiff hath in his said declaration above alledged; and of this the said defendant puts himself upon the country; and the faid plaintiff doth the like; and as to the faid fum of forty shillings. other part of the said sum of eighteen pounds, in the said declaration mentioned, the said defendant says, that the said plaintiff was not entitled to such right of common in and upon the said moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the faid freehold tenements of the faid plaintiff thirdly above mentioned, as the said plaintiff hath in his said declaration above alledged; and this the said defendant prays may be inquired of by the country; and the said plaintiff doth the like; and as to the sum of forty Ihillings, other part of the said sum of eighteen pounds, in the faid declaration mentioned, the faid defendant says, that the said plaintiff was not entitled to such right of common in and upon the faid moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said copyhold tenement of the said plaintiff first above mentioned, as the said plaintiff hath in his said declaration above alledged; and of this the said defendant puts himself upon the country; and the said plaintiff doth the like: and as to the sum of ten pounds, residue of the said sum of eighteen pounds, in the said declaration mentioned, the said desendant says, that the said plaintiff was not entitled to such right of common in and upon the faid moors, commons, and waste grounds, for and in respect of the said five copyhold tenements of the said plaintiff, in the faid declaration lastly above mentioned, or of any of them, as the faid plaintiff hath in his said declaration lastly above alledged; and of this the said defendant puts himself upon the country; and the said plaintiff doth the like. Therefore let a jury thereupon come before our lord the king, at Westminster, on twelve, &c. by whom, &c. and who neither, next, after &c. because as well, &c. the same day is given to the said parties, at the same place, &c.

MIDDLESEX, J. William Lassett the elder, late of, &c. and Thomas Laslett late of the same place, were attached to answer unto William Lassett the younger, in a plea of trespass on the case, &c. and thereupon the said plaintiff, by William John-Aon his attorney, complains, that whereas one William Laslett, deceased, in his lifetime, to wit, on the fifth day of April A. D. 1775, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the said county of Middlesex, duly made his last will and testament in writing, bearing date the day and year aforesaid, and thereby, amongst other things, gave and bequeathed unto the faid plaintiff (by the description of his grandson W. Laslett, son of Stephen Laslett) twenty pounds of lawful, &c. to be paid him by his executors as soon as he the said plaintiff should attain his age of twenty-four years; and the said William Laslett deceased did in and by his said last will and testament nominate, constitute, and appoint his sons the aforesaid desendants executors of the same; and after the making thereof, to wit, on the first day of April A. D. 1777, died, without altering or revoking his faid will, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid: and the said plaintiff in sack saith, that upon the death of the said William Laslett deceased, the faid defendants took upon themselves the burthen of the execution of his aforesaid will, and afterwards, to wit, on the sourth day of April in the year 1777 aforesaid, duly proved the same, and assented to the aforesaid bequest to the said plaintiff, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid: and the said plaintiff further saith, that before the exhibiting the bill of him the faid plaintiff, to wit, on the first day of January A. D. 1782, he the faid plaintiff attained his age of twenty-four years, whereof he the said defendant, on the same day and year, had notice, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid: and the said plaintiff in fact further saith, that afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, the said defendants had goods and chattels which were of the said William Laslett deceased in their hands, to be admir nistered, to a large amount, to wit, to an amount sufficient to pay and fatisfy, and with which they could and might have paid and satisfied, the said sum of twenty pounds so given and bequeathed to the faid plaintiff as aforefaid, over and belides the debts and funeral charges of the said William Lassett deceased whereby the said defendants became liable to pay to the said plain-· ux tiff the furn of twenty pounds so given and bequeathed to him as aforefaid: and being so liable, they the said defendants, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, and faithfully promised the said plaintisf, to pay him the faid fum of twenty pounds so given and bequeathed to him as aforesaid, when they should be thereto afterwards requested. Money had and received, and common conclusion. [See Conclutions, &c.]

The general opinion seems against this action; but from what fell from the Court in determining the late case of (a) Hawkes and Saunders, and upon principles of law, I should be inclined to think it maintainable, and that too against the defendants in their own right, supposing plaintiff can establish the amount of assets. V. Lawes.

SOMFRSETSHIRE, J. Nathaniel Atkins and Anne his Assumptit for a wife complain of Charles Hill being, &c. for that whereas Jame Legacy. Clarke, on the seventeenth day of November, A.D. 1-80, at See ante. Taunton in the said county, by his last will and testament, in writing, did (amongst other things) give and bequeath to his daughter Anne (then and still being the wife of the said Nathaniel) the fum of fixty pounds, if the the faid A. thould be living at the time of his (the said James Clarke's) death, and of his last will and testament made the said C. H. his sole executor; and the said James C. afterwards, to wit, on the fourteenth day of September, in the year of Our Lord 1781, at T. aforefuld, died without altering or revoking his said will, and the said C. upon the death of the said James, took upon himself the burthen of the execution of the said will; and the said N. and A. further say, that divers goods and chattels of the said J. of great value, to wit, of the value of one hundred pounds, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at T. aforesaid, came to the hands of the said C. as executor of the said James, which said goods and chattels were more than sufficient to pay and satisfy the just debts and legacies of the faid J. to wit, at T. aforefaid, in the faid county, of which the said C. then and there had notice; by reason of which said premiles, the faid C. became liable to pay to the said N. and A. the said sum of fixty pounds so devised by the said J. as aforesaid; and being so liable, he the said C. in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at T. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, &c. (a. usual) to pay to them the faid fum of fixty pounds, whenever he the faid C. should be thereunto afterwards requested (2d Count, for money had and received.) Nevertheless the said C. his said several promifes and undertakings in manner and form aforeiald made in no wife regarding, but contriving, &c. to deceive, &c. hath not paid to the faid N. and A. or either of them, the faid sums of money, or any part thereof, (although to pay the same the said C. Unless the plaintiffs can prove something more than is stated in the instructions, the event of this action will be extremely doubtful. Indeed I never knew an action brought for a legacy yet, unless there was an express promise by the executor to pay it; and unless such promise can be proved, or it can be proved that the executor bad sufficient assets to pay it, the action I think cannot be maintained.

P. Bullte.

A general demurrer to the foregoing declaration was argued 23d May in Easter Term 1775. The chief point made was on the form of the declaration, and on that alone it was decided in plaintiffs favour, for the declaration stated an af-Sumplit by the executor fince the death of testator, (having affet, at the same time,) therefore the assumptit of the executor totally alters the nature of the case, and the jury alone must try the question, and that only, robetber the executor did undertake or not? for if he did undertake, an action undoubtedly lies; but if, on the contrary, the jury find that he did not undertake, (a) a verdict must be sound for defendant. Yet as the declaration is thus drawn, the Court cannot prevent the fact being tried by a jury; so instead of its being made a general question, whether a legacy is recoverable at law or not? the present demutter goes to the substance of pel an executor to pay a legacy, the court of Chancery, for the very fame reasons, could not. But as an affumpfit is alledged in the declaration, as made by executor subsequent to testator's death, there was no doubt but that plaintiffs would recover if they could prove such assumpsit and affets. See this case reported in Cowp. 284. With the present Mr. Justice Buller's (then Mr. Buller) able argument, and the judgment of the Court delivered very fully by Lord Mansfield: and fee Hawkes and others v. Saunders, Cowp. 289. where Mr. Justice Buller delivered his own argument when a judge; and Rose v. Bowl, 1 T. Rep. C. B. 108. &c. But see Deeks v. Strutt, g. Term Rep.

FOR CONTRIBUTION TO PARTY WALLS (a).

J. S. complains of A. P. being, &c. for that whereas after the fumplit in B. R. making of a certain Act, made at the parliament of our fovereign party which had been pulled down and repaired by plaintiff, pursuant to act of parliament in Geo. III.

lord the now king holden at Westminster, in the county of Middlelex, in the fourteenth year of his reign, and intitled, "An act for the further and better regulation of buildings and party walls, and " for the more effectually preventing mischiefs by fire within the " cities of London and Westminster, and the liberties thereof, and other the parishes, precincts, and places within the weekly bills " of mortality, the parishes of St. Mary le Bonne, Paddington, St. 46 Pancras, and St. Luke at Chelsea, in the county of Middlesex, and "for indemnifying, under certain conditions, builders and other persons se against the penalties to which they are or may be liable for erecting " buildings within the limits aforesaid, contrary to law," to wit, on the first of November, A. D. 1787, a certain old party wall had been pulled down, and a certain other party wall built in lieu thereof, by and at the expence of the said Jonathan, agreeably to the direction of the said act of parliament, between certain buildings of him the said Jonathan, situate and being in the city of L. to wit, in the parish of St. Peter, in the ward of Queenhithe, and certain other buildings there adjoining thereto, being of the same rate or class of buildings as the aforesaid buildings of the said Jonathan; and upon that occasion the said Andrew did make use of a great part of the said last mentioned party wall, and at the time of building and finishing the same was the owner and person entitled to the improved rent of such adjoining building, to wit, at L. aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; by means whereof, and according to the tenor and effect of the said act of parliament in that behalf, he the said Andrew became liable to reimburse and pay to the said Jonathan a certain sum of money, to wit, the sum of two hundred pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, being one moiety of the expence of building so much of the said party wall, so built as aforesaid, as the said Andrew did make use of, after the rate in the said act mentioned, together with a like proportional part of certain other expences which were necessary to the pulling down the said old party wall, amounting in the whole to another large sum of money, to wit, the sum of fifty pounds of like lawful money of. Great Britain, and making together with the said sum of two hundred pounds, the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds of like lawful money of Great Britain; and being so liable, he the said Andrew, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, at L. aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, undertook, and faithfully promised the said Jonathan, to pay him the said sum of two hundred and fifty pounds, when he the said A. should be thereto afterwards requested: and although he the said Jonathan, in pursuance of the said act of parliament, did, so soon as conveniently might be after the said party wall was so built as aforesaid, to wit, on the fourteenth day of September, A. D. 1787, at L. aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, leave at such adfoining building an account in writing of the number of rods in such party wall for which the said Andrew was liable to pay, and of the deduction which he the faid Andrew was entitled to make thereout, of England, and afterwards; and whereas all and fingular the kings and queens of this realm, in right of the said crown of E. and dutchy of L. respectively for the time being, from time whereof, &c. have in respect of such manor by their respective bailists and farmers for the time being, had, taken, and received, and have been used and accustomed to have, take, and receive, and of right ought to have had, taken, received, and still of right ought to have, take, and receive at the bridge of the Borough, otherwise Bo. roughbridge within the said manor, a certain reasonable toll, that is to say, a toll of sixpence for every wayne or waggon loaden, coming, going, or passing that way over the said manor, payable and paid, during all the time aforefaid, by the proprietor or proprietors of such wayne or waggon loaden so coming, going, or passing over the said manor as asoresaid, to the said bailists or farmers of the said kings and queens of this realm for the time being, for and in consideration of such liberty of passage with such wayne or waggon loaden over the said manor, save and except the waynes or waggons of any person or persons lawfully exempt from the payment of the said toll; and whereas the office of receiving the faid tolls within the faid manor by the respective bailiffs and farmers of the faid kings and queens of this realm for the time being, long before, and at the time of the making of the grant and demise hereafter next mentioned, had been, and was called, known, and distinguished by the name of the bailiwick of the borough of Burrowbridge, in the county of Y. and which faid bailiwick and the said tolls, long before the making the grant and demise hereaster next mentioned, had been annexed to and then were parcel of the possessions of the ancient dutchy of Lancaster; and whereas William the third, late king of England, on the ninth day of April 1697 aforesaid, was seised of the said bailiwick with the appurtenances and of the said tolls in his demesne as of fee, in right of his faid dutchy of Lançaster; and being so seised, the said late king William the third, by indenture of lease then made, and sealed with the seal of his said then majesty's said dutchy of Lancatter, bearing date the same day and year last above mentioned, and duly inrolled, (one part of which faid indenture, sealed with the seal of his said majesty's dutchy of Lancaster, the faid lord P. now brings here into court, the date whereof is the fame day and year last aforciaid) for the considerations therein mentioned, by and with the advice and consent of his chancellor and the council of his said dutchy of L. did grant, demise, set, and to farm let unto R. H. knight, (amongst other things) all that the said bailiwick of the borough of Boroughbridge in the said county of Y. together with the said several and respective tolls there, and which are therein described to be parcel of the possessions of his said majesty's ancient dutchy of Lancaster, to hold the same unto the said sir R. H. his executors, administrators, and assigns, for and during the full time and term of ninety-nine years, to commence from and after the decease of her majesty Catherine, then queen dowager of England, from thence next ensuing fully to be compleat and ended; by virtue of which said demise he the said sir. R. H. became entitled to the reversion expectant on the decease of the said queen of and in the said bailiwick and tolls, and all the rights and privileges, powers and authorities thereunto belonging, for and during the said terms thereby granted. And being so intitled, the said sir R. H. by his indenture of assignment sealed with his seal, and made on the seventeenth day of June 1697, at asoresaid, between him the said sir R. H. of the one part, and B. B. of, &c. esquire, of the other part (one part of which said indenture, sealed with the seal of the said sir R. the said lord P. now brings here into court, the date whereof is the same day and year last aforesaid) for the consideration of ney laid out and expended.

(a) The justices in their adjudication do not say that the money shall be paid by the collector, nor does the act lay any such thing. The act lays, it shall be paid by the owners of the cargo. Now the plaintiff in this case was the owner of the ship and cargo; and this makes the difficulty of the action.

(b) Quere, If plaintiff has at any time claimed the cargo as owner?

Qu. If the owner did not make his tlaim, but came in as a falver, if he could not recover the fum infured?

The plaintiff is the owner of the goods i and if he made his claim to them; it is he, and not the collector, that is liable to pay the falvage by the act. And I conceive the meaning of the act is; if there is any dispute between the owner and the bificer as a falver, then the justices to adjudge the quantum; so that this adjudication of the justices seems not to be in pursuance of the act. As the plaintiff, who is owner, claims the salvage, if the owner does not make his tlaim within twelve months, then public file is to be made of the goods. This fale I apprehend the collector is to make, and to pay all costs of salvage. Now it does not appear to me whether the plaintiff has made his claim to the goods, or has entirely waved it, and the collector has procreded to fale. I should apprehend the collector is the perfon who is to pay the salvage within the meaning of the act. There are difficulties that occur to me; there wants a further explanation of the facts; and I cannot but fay the plaintiff * success in this action is very doubtful.

PALACE COURT, to wit. Thomas Blundell, by Edward Declaration Lawes his attorney; complains against Robert King, Robert Au- indebitatus berry, William Wintlett, and William Wood, in a plea of tres-sumpsi in the pals on the cale, &c. for that whereas the said defendants hereto-marshallen fore, to wit, on the first day of November, in the year of Our court, for mo-Lord 1791, at Southwark, in the county of Surrey, and within the ceived by a jurisdiction of this court, were indebted to the said Thomas in member of an twenty pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, for money by the amicable society faid defendants before that time there had and received to and for of tradefmen, the use of the said plaintiff; and being so indebted, they the said sewards for his defendants, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day allowance as a and year aforesaid, at Southwark aforesaid, in the county and ju-fick member; sistiction aforesaid, undertook, and then and there faithfully pro- and Opinion miled the said plaintiff, to pay him the said sum of money, when how far the acthey the said defendants should be thereto afterwards requested; ported. yet the said defendants, not regarding their said promise and undertaking so by them made as aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said plaintiff in this behalf, have not, nor have any of them as yet paid the said sum of money, or any part thereof, to the said plaintiff, (although so to do the said defendants were requested by the said plaintiff afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, and often afterwards, to wit, at S. aforesaid, in the county and jurisdiction aforesaid,) but they so to do have respectively hitherto wholly refused, and still do refuse, to the damage of the said plaintiff of ninety-nine shillings; and therefore he brings his suit, &c.: and the said Thomas avers, that neither he nor the said defendants were, nor was any or either of them, at the time of the levying of the plaint of the said plaintiff here in court, nor are they, nor is either or any of them, now of the king's household. Pledges, &c.

I Think there is a clear objection to this action, if the defendants should take it at the trial; and that is, that all the enembers of the fociety are made partners by the articles, by which each is individually entitled to the whole fund, not in mares, but in entireties; of course, no one can maintain an action against another for any separate part of such fund. In the case of Holliday against Camwell and White, 1. T. Rep. 658. where thover was brought against one of the defendants, a member of the club, who had got poffession of the club-box, and delivered it to the other, not a member, the plaintiff was non-fuited upon this distinction. In a similar case to the prefent, an action for money had and rea ceived was at iffue before Lord Mansfield, and he refused to try it for the same reason; and added, that the Court would not make itself visitor-general to all the clubs in the kingdom. Perhaps in the marshalfea the objection may not be taken; I have therefore declared for money had and received, under which form of action the right may be tried, either to recover plaintiff's allowance under the articles, or at least his subscription back again on his being struck off.

Plea.

And the faid Matthew and Nancy, otherwise Anne, by Joseph Alten their attorney, come and defend the wrong and injury when, &c. and say, that the said Robert ought not to have or maintain his aforesaid action thereof against them; because they say, that they are not, nor ever were, executor and executrix of the last will and testament of the said William deceased, nor ever administered any goods or chattels which were of the said William at the time of his death, as executor and executrix of the last will and testament of the said William deceased; and this they are ready to verify; wherefore they pray judgment if the faid Robert ought to have so maintained his aforesaid action thereof against them, &c. And for further plea, &c. (2d plea plene administravit.) GEO. WOOD.

And the said Robert, as to the said plea of the said Matthewand Nancy by them first above pleaded in bar, says, that he the said Robert ought not, by reason of any thing in that plea alleged, to be barred from having and maintaining his aforesaid action thereof againit against the said Matthew and Nancy, because he says that the said Nancy, at the time of the exhibiting of the bill of the faid Robert, was, and from thence hitherto hath been, and still is, executrix of the last will and testament of the said William deceased, and hath administered divers goods and chattels which were of the said William at the time of his death, as executrix of the last will and. testament of the said William, to wit, at P. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid; and this the said Robert prays may be inquired of by the country. And the said Robert, as to the said plea of the praying judgsaid Matthewand N. by them lastly above pleaded in bar, says, that ment of affets inasmuch as he the said Robert cannot deny the several matters in future. therein contained, but admits the same to be true, and inasmuch as the said M. and N. have in and by their said plea admitted the faid several promises of the said William M'Keand in the said declaration mentioned, he the said Robert prays judgment, and his damages by him sustained by reason of the non-performance of the faid several promises and undertakings in the said declaration mentioned, to be adjudged to him of the goods and chattels of the said William deceased at the time of his death, and which shall hereafter come to the hands of the said N. to be administered.

THO. BARROW.

I Have replied to the desendants' pleas as defired, bot I must own I cannot help entertaining ferious doubts of the plaintiff's cafe in its prefent form.

It does not appear to me to have been well confidered when the fait was inftituted, whether the defendant Matthew C. might not have been fued alone without his wife, as executor de son tork have defired to see the instructions for declaration, but they do not state with sufficient precision whether the busband, after marrying M'Keand, the intestate's widow, intermeddled with his affets and paid debts, or whether such intermeddling was by his wife during her widowhood. If evidence can be thewn of the hulband's intermeddling, I think he ought to have been fred alone: and if his wife only intermeddled before the married, it feems to me, that though such intermeddling might be a sufficient reason for charging her in an action, yet this action is improperly conceived. In the former case, the husband ought to be sued alone without the wife; in the latter, if the hulband must be sued for consormity, he ought not to be named executor.

Under these circumstances, I adviso to ascertain the real facts of the case, and as they appear to be, try the effect of a summons before a judge to amend the declaration if it can be done, other. wife the plaintiff must begin de mose.

Conclusion. bottis mon.

> Cambridge Lent affizes, Hitch v. Walhis, B. R. where affumplit lies for a fine on admission to a copyhold. The deelaration in Hitch v. Wallis was for a goof fum of fifty one pounds, due on edmission to certain customaty tenements; and it appeared by the court rolls of the manor, that the tenements confifted of distinct parcels, to which there had always been, and were in the last instance, distinct admissions, and three distinct quit-rents. Objection was made to the declaration, that it ought to have let forth the several fines that were due on each admission; specifying how much in each parcel in different Court, and not a grofs furn for the whole in one Count: vide 4 Co. Taverner's case, and Cro. Eliz. 779. Dalton v. Hammend. It was in the last case (inter alia) resolved, "That if divers copyholds descend to one " heir, the lord cannot demand one fine of tor them all, but he ought to demand so several fines, for peradventure the 44 heir may accept the one at the fine af-" fessed, and refuse the other upon such "fines. It was answered at the trial on the part of the plaintiff, that the ob-" jection, if at any time valid, was waived

" now by the defendant's plea, which was " a tender of a gross sum paid into court. "Mr. J. Blackstone allowed the objection, and nonfuited the plaintiff. He " faid that copyholds depend on custom: 48 there can be no new copyholds, nor " old ones with new rents; if the rents er are varied, it ceases to be the same " copyhold; their rents are the criteria " of copyholds, and though put together " they will not unite or alter the nature " Of different copyholds. Strictly speak -"ing, on each copyhold there dught to " be a distinct admission; but for con-"venience of the tenants, it is usual to " make only one; and tince the stamp "afts, the lords and tenants are fond of er putting different copyholds together, "to avoid those acts. On the admission " of the tenant, the lord ought to de-"mand different fines: so it is now " faid he did, but it does not appear so " on the record. Here are three copy-"holds: one rent unknown; the fecond, "one pound twelve shillings and four-" pence; the third, two flulings. They " appear to have been consolidated, and " one fine (not fines as if confishing of " different (ums) is affelfed for all; and et the declaration following that affest. there is ment is wrong, for in fact there is not es one fine, but three, and it is necessary to specify the fines, for the tenant 44 may admit the reasonableness of one, " and not that of others; but if thrown "into hotchpot, he may be defeated, though some were unreasonable; for if " one was as much below the mark as 44 the other above it, the tenant might " not be able to object to the whole, " though he might well object to some " separately. But it is said we may re-" fort to the second Count, which is on ". a general undertaking; but the same " objection holds there, for that Count 44 does not go for reasonable fines, but

" for a fine. Secondly, it is answered, " that defendant, by his tender of a gross " fum, has waived the objection; but "the plaintiff must prevail by the " strength of his own cause, and not the "weakness of the adverse party. " plaintiff ought to have declared sepa-" rately for each fine; thus the defen-"dant might object to each, and the "jury judge of the reasonableness of " each; otherwife, if one was too much, " and the other too small, the lord might " force the tenant by this confolidation "to take several different copyholders " on one admission." proving first indersed the bill (vide poses, as to the necessity of proving first indersement) to D. and that B. the acceptor had notice of the indersement, and became liable to pay the money to D. according to the tenor of the bill, and of his acceptance and of the indeplement & and that being so liable, he promised payment accordingly,

(a) If the hill is accepted by B. and he does not pay, and C. has not inderfed it eyer, and does not chuse to sue B. the acceptor, but A. the drawer, then you must shew the making and acceptance of the bill, and that at the expiration of the time specified in the bill for payment the bill was shewn to B. for payment, and that he was requested to pay, and did not, nor has paid the money, of which A. the drawer had notice, and thereby became liable to pay the bill to C. the payer, when he should be thereto requested; and being to liable, he promised to pay the money accordingly.

If D, the first indorsee sues A, the drawer, you must shew the making, acceptance, and indorsement of the bill, notice of the indorsement to the acceptor, presenting the bill to him for payment, and requesting payment; that he has not paid it, that A, the drawer had notice of it, and became liable to pay to D, when requested, and promise of payment, as in the last preceding case,

If any other of the indorsees sue A. you must shew the same, as in the last case, and state all the indorsements, notice of the several indorsements to B. the acceptor, and the presenting the bill to him, his refusal to pay, notice to the drawer, his being liable to pay, and promise; and when you shew that B. the acceptor has not paid, you must shew that not her of the several persons who indorsed the bill before it came to the plaintist have paid the bill; therefore A. the drawer is liable upon sequest.

(b) If an indorfee sues any of the indorfers who indorfed before it came to the plaintiff, you must show the same,

If the bill is indersed before it is accepted, and the person on whom drawn has refused to accept, and the drawer or any of the indorsees is fued, you must shew the bill was indorsed the day it was made, and that after it was indorted to the plaintiff, he afterwards, to wit, on fame day and year, presented the bill to B. on whom drawn, for acceptance, and requested him to accept the bill and pay it, according to the tenor of the bill, and of the indorfements, that he refused to accept the bill, or pay it, and therefore the defendant became liable to pay, according to the tenor of the bill and the indorsements, and that defendant promised so pay accordingly. In this case, you say he is liable to pay according to the tenor of the bill and the inder sements; but if it is against the drawer or indorfer, where the bill has been accepted, and the acceptor has refused payment, you say he became liable to pay suben requised. For in the first case the bill is supposed to come back to defendant before it is due, and that he says, " I'll pav you the bill according " to the tenor," that is, when due, the bill not being due at that sime. In the other cuse, the bill does not come back to the defendant till after it is due, and then he is supposed to promise to pay the money when plaintiff defires him to pay it, that is, when requested.

(a) Rushton against Aspinall, Dougl. 680. requires the same ceremony, where the indorsee sues the indorser, and determines that the want of it is error, and not cured by verd.ct.

(b) By the case of Millard v. Mayor.

Dough 55, it is determined, that on refusal to accept, the drawer became immediately liable to pay, though the bill be not due; so I apprehend would any indorser, by parity of reason.

In the case of notes it is nearly the same, only there they are drawers and indorsers that are sued as defendants, for there is not any acceptor, a note being where one man promises to pay a sum of money to another person, or to his order or to that person, or to his order. But bills, as before observed, are drawn by one man upon another, payable to a third person or his order, or to the person who draws it or his order, or to his order only; and when it is accepted, he who drew it payable to himself or order, or to his order, indorses it over to a third person.

To bills of exchange the parties are liable by the law, usage, and custom of merchants, therefore that is mentioned in the declaration. But notes are indorsible and suable by indorsees, by virtue of an act of 3. & 4. Annea parliament or statute; and therefore in a declaration on a note it is said, c. 9. by reason whereof, and by sorce of the statute in such case made and provided, the desendant became liable to pay; and being liable, promised pay-

A bill to pay out of his growing substituce is not good within the custom of merchants: so to pay so much money out of his rent. Josceline and Lassere, Fort. 281. It is more an authority than a bill of exchange, Ch. J. Parker: and though it be no good bill of exchange, yet if it be a good consideration to raise the express promise upon, the declaration will be good. There is no necessity in a bill of exchange to say value received. Eyre, J. said the same. And it is not necessary to have three persons to make a good bill of exchange; for a man may draw a bill on himself; but it is always taken to be for a certain sum, and the party takes on himself to pay at all events.

A bill drawn by a man upon himself may be considered as tantamount to an acceptance by him; and after tender and resusal by him of payment, an action will lie.

Lord Mansfield held, that where a second, third, or other subsequent indorsee sues upon a bill or note, you need only prove the indorsement of the payee and your next immediate indorser; but Buller, J. contra.

where you state all you must prove all as stated.

Qu. Where the acceptor, or, on his non-payment, the drawer, on the bill with four or five indorsements being shewn for payment, promises payment, or does anything which implies an admission of them, does not by that waive his right to object to your not being able to prove them? See Sayer Rep. 223. Hankey v. Wilson.

It is not absolutely necessary to say, " super se assumptif," for the law raises a promise. Salk. 128. Str. 214.

If a bill drawn twenty-eighth December at two months is must it seems be paid third March, allowing for the three days of grace, so must a bill drawn thirtieth December at two months; for in the latter case, by the custom of merchants, the two odd days in December shall be dropped in the account, for the sake of uniformity. This is so considered by the bankers themselves.

LONDON, ff. Thomas Hodges complains of Antelm Iones. being in the custody of, &c. in a plea of trespass on the case, &c. for that whereas, at the several and respective times hereaster mentioned, the said Thomas and Anselm, and also one O. Shortland, were perfons residing, trading, and using commerce within this kingdom, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish of &c.:

and being so resident, trading, and using commerce, he the said Thomas heretofore, to wit, on the first of January A. D. 1780, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, according to the custom of merchants from time immemorial used and approved of within this kingdom, made his certain bill of exchange in writing, his own proper hand being thereto subscribed, the said bill bearing date the day and year aforesaid, and then and there directed the said bill to the said Anselm by the name and description of Mr. A. Jones, Sidenham, Kent, and by the faid bill required the faid Anselm, twenty-fix days after date, to pay to the Taid O. Shortland, by the name and description of Mrs. Shortland, or order, eight pounds fix shillings, for value in account of him the said Thomas Hodges, and then and there delivered the faid bill to the faid O. Shortland; which said bill of exchange the faid Anselm afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforefaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, upon sight thereof, accepted, according to the faid custom of merchants: and the said Thomas avers, that the said O. Shortland not having, at any time after the said acceptance of the said bill by the faid Anselm as aforesaid, indorsed over or negociated the said bill, or ordered or appointed the money therein specified, or any part thereof, to be paid or be payable to any other person or persons whatsoever, she the said O. Shortland afterwards, and at the end and expiration of the said twenty-fix days in the said bill specified, and thereby appointed for the payment of the money therein mentioned, to wit, on the thirtieth of January A. D. 1780 aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, shewed and presented the said bill to the said Anselm for payment of the money therein specified, and then and there required him to pay the same to her the said O. Shortland, according to the tenor and effect of the faid bill, and of his aforefaid acceptance thereof: but the said Thomas in fact further saith, that he the said Anselm did not, when the said bill was so shewn and presented to him as aforesaid, or at any other time whatsoever, pay to the said O. Shortland the faid sum of money specified in the said bill, or any part thereof, but then and there refused and neglected so to do; whereupon she the said O. Shortland afterwards, to wit. on the day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, returned the said bill to the said Thomas, and called upon him for payment of the money therein specified; by reason whereof, and of the aforesaid custom and the law of merchants, he the said Thomas was afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, forced and obliged to and did pay to the said O. Shortland the said sum of eight pounds six shillings in the said bill specified, whereof the said Anselm then and there had notice: by means of which several premises, and by force of the aforesaid custom and the law of merchants, he the said Anfelm became liable to pay to the faid Thomas the faid fum of eight pounds fix shillings shillings in the said bill specified, when he the said Anselm should be thereto afterwards requested; and being so liable, he the said Anselm, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, undertook and faithfully promised the said Thomas to pay him the said sum of eight pounds six shillings in the said bill specified, when he the said Anselm should be thereto afterwards requested. (Add two Counts for goods sold and delivered; one for money laid out and money lent, &c. had and received; account stated; and common conclusion.)

V. LAWES.

If it were not for a modern determination (a) against me, I should be inclined to think the first Count of this Declaration substantially bad; nor can it in any manner be supported but upon the sustom of merch nts, which, however convenient, is certainly repugnant to the tenor of the contract; for, upon the face of the bill, who are the persons to whom it is to be paid, and in what capacity must they respectively claim? Certainly, as payee or indorfee. Now who or what is the present plaintiff? He is not pages, because there is another expressly appointed by name,i. e. Mrs. Shortland; neither is he indersee, for Mrs. Shortland has never negociated the bill. But whether the Count upon the bill be good or bad, it may certainly be given in evidence, upon either of the common Counts, for money paid, had, and received, or upon the account flated, in case the plaintiff shall be unable to prove the fact of the acceptance. MIDDLESEX, J. Samuel Agar complains of John May, ceptor of a bill being, &c. for that whereas the faid Samuel Agar heretofore, to wit, on the fourth day of January A. D. 1782, at Westminster, in the county of Middlesex aforesaid, according to the custom of merchants from time immemorial used and approved of within this kingdom, made his certain bill of exchange in writing, his own proper hand being thereto subscribed, and the said bill bearing date the day and year aforesaid, then and there directed to the said John May, by the name and description of, &c. and by the said bill requested the said J. May, seven days after the date of the said bill, to pay to one Michael Keame or order the fum of five pounds and five sbillings, and then and there delivered the said bill to the said M. Keame: and the said Samuel Agar avers, that although the said John May afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, accepted the aforesaid bill of exchange, according to the said custom of merchants in that particular; and although the said bill of exchange was afterwards, and after the end and expiration of the said seven days therein mentioned and thereby appointed for the payment of the money therein specified, to wit, on the fourteenth day of January in the year 1782 aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, shewn and presented to him the said J. May for payment of the money therein specified, according to the tenor and effect of the said bill, and his aforesaid acceptance thereof; yet he the said Samuel

Samuel Agar in fact further saith, that he the said John May did not, when the faid bill was so thewn and presented to him as aforesaid, or at any other time whatsoever, pay the money therein specified, or any part thereof, according to the tenor and effect of the faid bill, and his aforesaid acceptance thereof, but therein wholly failed and made default, and refused and neglected so to do; whereby and by means whereof the faid bill of exchange was afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, and according to the custom of merchants in that respect, returned to him the said Samuel Agar, and he the said Samuel Agar was then and there called upon for, and forced and obliged to pay, the money therein specified, whereof the said John May then and there had notice: by means of which several premises, and by force of the aforesaid custom and the law of merchants, he the said John May became liable to pay to the said Samuel Agar the said sum of money in the said bill specified; and being so liable, he the said John May, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. undertook, &c. the said Samuel Agar to pay him the said sum of money in the said bill specified, when he the said John May should be thereto afterwards requested, (Money lent, money laid out, money had and received; account itated; and common conclusion.)

MIDDLESEX.

MIDDLESEX. For that whereas the said J. on the twenty- Declaration by seventh day of November A. D. 1770, at Westminster, accord-Drawer on a ing to the usage and custom of merchants, made his certain bill of bill of exchange exchange in writing, his own proper hand being thereto sub- Acceptors, partscribed, bearing date the same day and year, and then and there ners, one of them directed the said bill to one E. and C. (which said C. hath since since a bankrupe. become a bankrupt, and, as such, hath been since duly discharged from the causes of action in the said Declaration mentioned, by force of the statutes made and now in force concerning bankrupts,) the said E. and C. then and there being copartners in trade, and thereby required the said E. and C. seven days after the date thereof, to pay to J. J. and J. B. by the name and description of, &c. or their order, the sum of fixteen pounds thirteen hillings and three pence sterling, value in account, without further notice, and then and there delivered the said bill to the said J. J. and J. B. which faid bill of exchange afterwards, and before the time appointed for payment of the faid fum of money therein contained, the same remaining unpaid, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, was presented and shewn by the said J. J. and J. J. and J. B. the faid fum of money specified in the said bill, according to the tenor and effect of the said bill: and the said J. B. in fact saith, &c. (the Declaration then states, that the payees presented the bill when due to the defendant and his partner for payment, which being refused, the plaintiff became liable to pay the amount, and accordingly took up the bill, whereof the defendant and his partner, before his bankruptcy, had notice;) by means whereof they became liable to pay the plaintiff, and, before the bankruptcy, promised payment. (2d Count stated the bill to have been directed " to the said E. and C. before the said E. became a bankrupt, and which said E. hath been duly discharged in form aforesaid." It then proceeded as in the first Count, as far as the refusal of payment; but, instead of averring that the bill was returned and taken up, it alledged that, the money remaining unpaid, the holders indorsed and delivered the bill to the plaintiff, whereof the said E. and C. afterwards, and before the said E. became bankrupt, on, &c. at, &c. had notice. B. late of London merchant, that they be before us on the morrow of the Holy Trinity, wherefoever we shall then be in England, to shew, that whereas the faid H. and I. on the first day of April 1742, at London aforesaid, in the parish of St. Mary-le-Bow, in the ward of Cheap, were indebted to the faid Thomas, &c. (insert the writ,) to the damage of the said Thomas of one thousand three hundred pounds as he saith, and have ye there the names of the pledges and this writ: witness Thomas Archbishop of Canterbury, and other guardians and justices of the kingdoms, at Westminster, the 13th May in the fixth year of the reign; Jones;—as by the original writ, now remaining affiled of record in the said court here at Westminster aforesaid, fully appears. And hereupon the said Thomas for replication saith, that by reason of any thing by the said H. above in pleading alledged, he ought not to be barred from having and maintaining his action aforesaid against him; because, as to the said plea of the said N. first above pleaded, he the said Thomas saith, that there is such a record of the outlawry of the said L. upon the said write in the plea aforesaid, at the suit of the said Thomas, in the said court here remaining, as the said Thomas hath in his said declaration above alledged; and this he is ready to verify by that record, as it appears in the Term of St. Hilary, in the 17th year of the reign of the faid lord the king, upon the seventh roll; and the said Thomas prays, that the said Term and roll, by the said court

Demurter to ad here, may be seen and inspected. And the said Thomas, as to the said plea of the said H. lastly above pleaded, saith, that he pka. . ought not to be barred from having his faid action against the . said H. because the said Thomas saith, that the said plea, by the faid H. lastly above pleaded, and the matters therein contained, are not sufficient in law to bar the said Thomas from having his said action against him; to which plea, in manner and form aforefaid pleaded, and the matter therein contained, the faid Thomas hath no need, nor is he by the law of the land in any wife bound to answer: and this, &c.: wherefore, for want of a sufficient plea in this behalf, the said Thomas prays judgment and his damages, by reason of the premises to be adjudged to him, &c.

WILLIAM WYNNE, RICHARD DRAFER.

And the said H. &c. since he hath above alledged sufficient Demurrer to rematter in law in his said plea lastly above pleaded, and because he plication. the said Thomas bath not answered to the said plea of the said H. by him lastly above pleaded, nor hath hitherto in anywise denied the same, the said H. as heretofore prays judgment, if the said Thomas ought to have or maintain his said action thereof against him, &c. And the said H. saith, that the said plea of the said Thomas, in manner and form aforesaid above pleaded, by way of reply to the said plea of the said H. by him sirst above pleaded, and the matter therein contained, are not sufficient in law for the said Thomas to have and maintain his said action thereof against him; and that he the said H. is not bound nor obliged by the law of the land to make any answer thereto; and this, &c.: wherefore for want of sufficient replication in this behalf, the said H. as before prays judgment; and that the said Thomas may be barred from having or maintaining his aforesaid action thereof against him, &c. And Causes. for causes of this demurrer in law, according to the form of the statute in such cases lately made and provided, the said H. sheweth to the court here these causes following, to wit, for this, that it appears by the faid replication, the writ upon which it is above supposed the said L. was outlawed, is not, nor was the same writ upon which the said Thomas hath above in form aforesaid declared against the said H. but another, and variant from the original writ recited in the said declaration of the said Thomas, and for this, that the said declaration is double, uncertain, and wants D. Poole. form.

And the said Thomas saith, that the said plea of the said Tho- joinder. mas as in manner aforesaid above pleaded by way of reply to the said plea of the said H. by him sirst above pleaded, and the matter therein contained, are good and sufficient in law for him the said Thomas to have and maintain his said action thereof against the Laid H.; which plea, by way of reply, and the matters therein contained, the faid Thomas is ready to verify and prove, as the court shall direct. our said lord the king nowhere is not yet advised about giving judgment of and upon the several premises whereon the said parties have above put themselves on the judgment of the court; therefore day is given to the parties aforesaid to be before our lord until from the day of St. Michael in three weeks, wherefoever he shall then be in England, to hear judgment of and upon the premises, for that the court of our faid lord the king at Westminster, is not yet advised, &c. (here insert continuances from Term to Term until from the day of the Holy Trinity in three weeks.) At which day, before our said lord the king come as well the said Thomas as the said H. by their faid attornies; whereupon all and fingular the premises being seen, and by the court of our faid lard the king now here fully understood, and mature deliberation being thereupon had, it appears to the court of our said lord the king now here, that the plea of the said H. lastly above pleaded, and the matters therein contained, are not sufficient in law to bar the said Thomas from having his faid action against him the said H.; and that the said plea of the said Thomas, in manner and form aforesaid above pleaded, by way of reply to the plea of the said H. by him first above pleaded, and the matters therein contained, are good and sufficient in law for him the said Thomas to have and maintain his said action against the said H. as he the said Thomas hath above alledged; by reason whereof the said Thomas ought to recover against the said II. his damages by occasion of the premises; but because it is unknown to the court of our faid lord the king now here what damages the said Thomas hath sustained as well by occasion of the premises as for his costs and charges by him about his suit in this behalf expended, the sheriffs are commanded, that by the oath of twelve, &c. they diligently inquire what damages the aforesaid Thomas hath sustained, as well by the occasion of the premises aforesaid as for his costs and charges by him about his suit in this behalf expended; and the inquisition which they shall thereupon take they fend to the said lord the king from the day of St. Martin in fifteen days, wheresoever he shall then be in England, under the seal and the seals, &c. the same day is given to the said Thomas, before the said lord the king, wheresoever, &c. At which day, before our said lord the king at Westminster comes the said Thomas, by his said attorney; and the sherists of London, to wit, E. F. esquire and C. D. esquire, by virtue of the writ of the said lord the king to them thereupon directed, returned here a certain inquisition, indented and taken before them at Guildhall, in the city of L. in the parish of St. Mary Bassishaw, in the ward of Bassishaw, in the same city, on the 24th November in the twenty-first year of the reign of our lord the present king of Great Britain. &c. by virtue of that writ, by the oath of twelve, &c.; by which it is found, that the said I homas sustained damages by reason of the premises aforesaid, besides his costs and charges about his suit in this behalf expended, to one thousand three nundred pounds. and for his costs and charges aforesaid, to twenty-seven shillings and fourpence: and thereupon, forasmuch as the court of our said

of and upon the premises, day is therefore given to the said Thomas to be before our lord the king in eight days of St. Hilary, wherefoever our lord the king shall then be in England, for hearing judgment of and upon the premises, because the said court here is not yet advised thereupon. At which day, before our said lord the king at Westminster comes the said Thomas, by his attorney aforesaid: whereupon, the premises being seen and fully understood by the court of our said lord the king here, and mature deliberation had thereon, it is considered that the said Thomas do Final judgment. recover from the said H. his damages aforesaid by the said inquisition in form aforesaid found, and also ninety-six pounds twelve shillings and eightpence adjudged to the said Thomas by the court of our said lord the king now here at his request, for increase of his said costs and charges; which said damages in the whole amount to the sum of one thousand three hundred and ninetyeight pounds; and the said H. in mercy, &c.

In Michaelmas Term 1747, a writ of inquiry of damages was executed by rule of sourt before the lord chief justice Lee, when the inquest sound damages generally for the plaintiff for one thousand three hundred pounds, the whole damages laid in plaintiff's declaration. Par. minter, in that same Term, moved in arrest of the plaintiff's judgment, and made shree objections.

First, that there was no such custom of merchants as was let out upon the plaintiff's declaration, and that the accester of the bill of exchange (afterwards protested for non-payment, and paid to the payee by the drawer, with the interest, exchange, re exchange, costs, and dantages) was not by law liable to the drawer, without a previous assignment or industrement of fuch bill to him by the payee.

That the demurrer to the plaintiff's replication after iffue joined, was a difcontinuance of the fuit, but it was the defendant's own demurrer; for the defendant having pleaded that there was no such record of outlawry as the plaintiff had alledged, the plaintiff replied there was fuch a record, and thereupon issue was joined.

For that the declaration had not fet forth the value of the four thousand dollars mentioned in the fixth Count, nor the value of the fifteen hundred dollars mentioned in the seventh Count.

But the court, after folemn argument and time taken to confider in Hilary Term following, was unanimoufly of opinion as to the first objection, that the plaintiff's action was well brought, and that by the custom of merchants the defendants were bound by their acceptance, and that an indorfement by the payee was not necessary, and the rather for that in the present case the plaintiff had made title another way, viz. by payment of money, and therefore gave judgment for the plaintiff. As to the two other objections, they were of opinion that they were of no weight. The nineteenth of February following, plaintiff figned judgment; but not being able to get the cofts taxed until the twenty-fifth of April, he was delayed from proceeding against the defendants bail so s. on and so effectually as otherwise he would have done. And in order to prevent proceedings against the bail, a writ of error was brought and allowed the thirtieth of April laft, and the transcript of the record was broughs on the thirtieth of May following, the day parliament was prorogued; fo that nothing could be done the last session of parliament. The plaintiff in error alfizned feveral errors, namely general errors, and the three following.

Assuments in Breor. - First, that there is no original writ between the faid parties of the plea in the suid declaration mentioned, filed upon record in the cuttody of the keeper of the writs in the faid court of the faid lord the king of Hilary Term, in the seventeenth year of his present majesty's reign. Secondly, that it doth not appear that the faid Thomas Symmons hath found pledges to profecute his fuit. Thirdly, that there is not any writ of inquiry of damages between the faid parties, in the said plea filed of record of Michaelmas

Term of the twenty-first year of the reign of the faid lord the king, remaining in the custody of the keeper of the writs of the said court of our said lord the king; and the plaintiff in error prayed a certiorari to be directed to the keeper of the writs, to certify the truth of the premifest which certiorari ought to have been awarded to the lord chief justice of B. R. in whose custody she write are, and who is to certify them. The plaintiff in error has since procured a certiorari to be returned by the said lord chief justice; by which return it is certified, that there is no fuch original writ, or writ of inquiry of damages, as are mentioned in the affigurement of errors. And the defendant in error has fince come in voluntarily, and alledged that there is an original writ between the said Thomas S. and H. P. and L. B. of the plea in the declaration mentioned, filed of record in the faid court of our faid lord the king, before the king himself of the Term of the Holy Trinity, in the fixteenth and seventeenth years of his present majesty's reign; which faid original warrants the declaration and judgment; and the defendant in error hath also prayed a writ of certiorari to the lord chief juttice, who hath certified the faid original writ, and the continuance thereof, and the defendant hath thereupon pleaded that there is no error.

The only confiderable question in point of law (for with respect to the justice and equity of the case there can be none) therefore is, whether a drawer of a bill of exchange accepted generally by the drague can in his own name, without. a previous affignment or indersement from the pages, maintain a special action on the case against the acceptor, and recover the money to paid: and the defendant in errer humbly hope, by the rules of law, and by the custom of merchants, he can maintain such action, and that such actions, and the proceedings therein, are right and agreeable to the rules and principles of law and justice; and therefore prefumes the judgment of the court of B. R. is right, and shall be affirmed with exemplary costs, (among many others,) for the following reasons: Because the plaint ff in error hath not controverted the fact of the custom, that there is such a custom of merchants, as is fet forth in the declaration of the defendant in erfor, to make the acceptor of a bill of exchange hable to an action by the drawer, who, after the bill hath been accepted and protested for non-payment, had paid the contents thereof to him, to whom it was made payable, and this is a good and reasonable custom. It is admitted by the plaintiff in error, that in case the defendant S. had taken an affiguracit or indorsement of the two bills of exchange from the two payees thereof, that he might have maintained this action in his own name; but such affigument or indorsement is not necessary, either by the custom of merchants, or required by law in the present case; and the desendant S. the drawer, has entitled himself by law' to bring this action, by having paid these two bills to the payee, with interest, exchange and re-exchange, costs and damages 3. which bills the acceptor, by his acceptance, made himself liable to, and ought to have paid.

The acceptance of a bill of exchange amounts to a promise in law to pay; and this action of assumpsit against the ecceptor is founded upon good confideration; upon the confideration of the acceptor having effects of the drawer in his hands at the time of his acceptance; and a gen peral acceptance (as in the present case) is an admission by the acceptor, that he is debtor to the drawer for so much money, and that he hath effects or money in his hands of the drawer's to answer the payment of such bill. Every bill of exchange imports a command to the drawee to pay his acceptance, and is not only an admission of effects or money in his hands sufficient to pay, but it is an undertaking by the acceptor, as well with respect to the drawer as the payee, to pay the hill, and every undertaker is bound by law to perform his undertak-

The plaint of has among other errors assigned, that the defendant in error hath not found any pledges to profecute his suit; but the defendant humbly infifts. that the want of fuch pledges is no errer; and if it was, that the plaintiff could not now take advantage of And the plaintiff hath affigned for error, that there was not any writ of inquiry of damages affiled of record by the defendant of Michaelmas Term, in the twenty-fiest year not his present majesty; but in case no fuch writ of inquiry had been filed, the defendant in error also insists, that the want thereof is aided by act of parliament, a writ of inquiry being a judicial writ. And as to the judgment given for the defendant in error on the two demurrers above mentioned, the defendant apprehends, that both these pleas are ill; and amongst other reasons, for that they were not pleaded in bar, and that meither of them was pleadable in bar to the action. And it is humbly hoped, that the judgment given for the plaint ff in the action, and the now defer dant in error, shall be affirmed with exemplary H. BANKS, R. DRAPER. 1. Wilf. 185. An action on a bill of exchange lies for the drawer against the drawer, after he has accepted it.

The defendant alledged the acceptance to he a forgery. I have looked into the books upon the defence intended to be fet up to this action, and I am induced to think, that if the forgery can be clearly made out, (but not otherwise,) it will be an answer to the action. I have not found any case exactly in point, but I think that there is one that nearly goes the length of the defence. It is that of Cooper and Le Blanc, 2. Stra ross. when, though the chief justice refused to let the defehdant (the indorfer of a note, who, upon its being brought to him, acknowledged the indersement, and said the bill should be paid) shew a forgery of indorsement by similitude of hands, yet the case goes on to say, that the judge was inclined to allow proof of actual forgery, if the defendant could have thewn it; but flot doing lo, plaintiff obtained a verdict: from whence it feems to follows that proof or actual forgery will be an answer to the action; and for my own part I am of that opinion; yet at the same time it is so difficult to make it out, (without the evidence of defendant, which cannot or course be 'had,) that it may be worth the plaintiff's while to r.fk the action. I Fear you cannot have the evidence of Mr. Bruce (the defendant's attorney), unless plaintiff could venture to release him, and that you could also procure a release to Mr. Bruce from Mr. Shaw. But if he has a letter of attorney to draw bills, and you could produce that, it might be evidence. The answer specified in the protest for non-payment amounts, in my opinion, almost to a tacit acknow. ledgement of Mr. Bruce's authority. You should learn what answer was given on prefenting the bill for acceptance. I. MORGAN.

WITH MR. BEARCROFT'S AND MR. SERJEANT ADAIR'S OPINIONS.

In an action by Indorsee against first ment.

MESSRS. Hammond and Whi:lock are the agents acting on the Accepter, after behalf of a ship in the Baltic trade, of which Mr. Henry Cammell is he the master, and who sometimes draws bills on them for small sums of must prove the money on account of the ship. . I here is now in the hands of Mr. indorfe- Smith, a salesman of wearing apparel in Houndsditch, a bill drawn in the name of Captain Cammel on Messrs. Hammond and Whitlock for twenty pounds, in favour of one Mr. William Green, and accepted by Mr. Hammond, which bill is in the following words and figures:

Cronstadt, August 9, 1786. Two months after date, please to pay to Mr. William Green, or order, the sum of twenty pounds for value received, and place the same to the account of your bumble fer vant,

Henry Cammell, at Sir James Esdaile and Co. William Hammond.

To Messes. Hammond and Whitlock, No. 17, Crutched Friars, London.

Indorsed William Green. Thomas Hudson. James Mills.

When the above bill was tendered to Mr, Smith, he fent it to the banker's, directed by the acceptance, to know if it was a good bill, (i) See Devallar and was there answered that it was.

v. Herring, 9 44. p. 15.

Before this bill became due, it was discovered by Messrs. Ham-Mod. 44. and mond and Whitlock that it had been (3) firged with another bill for Bailey on Bills, one hundred pounds, by a man of the name of A. B. who was taken into custody by them, and confined in Yarmouth gael, from whence he lately made his escape into Holland. The name Henry Cammell put as the drawer is not of the hand-writing of Captain Cammell, although an imitation of it; and there is no such person as William Green, the person appearing to be the payee, and the indorsement of his name is supposed to be made by the forger of the bill. The names of the indorfers, Hudson and Mills, are also statious names, to give the bill a mercantile appearance. When the bill became due, it was presented for payment by Mr. Smith (who is said to have received it from the person committing the forgery in payment for a quantity of wearing apparel purchased of him); but Mr. H. was advised that he was not compelled by law to pay it, by reason that the indersement of Green the payee could not be troved, there being no fach person in existence. On Mr. H.'s part it was contended, that even supposing he could not avail himself of the forgery of the drawer's name, so as to avoid payment of the bill, yet the acceptance amounted only to an engagement to pay the money to Mr. Green or order ; and no interest could be transferred to any other person but by the real and actual indorfement of William Green, which could not happen in this case, he being a sictitious person; but here there is no order by William Green for transserring the right of action to Mr. Smith the holder of the bill, insomuch as there is no real indorsement thereon; and therefore that he cannot put himself into a situation capable of recovering the money. On the other hand Mr. Smith contends, that he received the bill saitly, and in the usual course of trade, and took the usual precautions against forgeries, and that Mr. Hammond the acceptor cannot take the advantage of his inability to prove the hand-writing of William Green the first indorser, but must pay the money. To save expence it is agreed, that both parties shall be governed by your opinion, Whether, under all the circumstances before stated, Mr. Hammond, as the acceptor of the bill in question, can be compelled by law to pay the amount to Mr. Smith?

I Am clearly of opinion that, in the case stated, Mr. Hammond, the acceptor of this bill, cannot be compelled by law to pay the amount. His acceptance admits the hand of the drawer, but nothing more; the indorsee must derive his title through the original payee and first indor-fer, which cannot be done here fince none fuch exists. Smith and Hammond are both equally innocent; therefore the loss must rest, as between them, where it now stands, which, under the circumstances stated, is upon Smith.

Edw. Bearcroft.

C A S E.

Frast, A. amerikant resident in foreign parts, draws a bill at three months sight on B. and payable to C. both resident in London. The said bill is accepted by B. and delivered over to C. whose property it is. C. afterwards gives the said bill in trust to B. who, while it is in his possession, secretes himself from his creditors, and afterwards becomes a bankrupt; but prior to the docket being struck against B. C. goes to B. and claims the bill as his property, which B. immediately delivers up to him.

Question.—Whether the said bill is actually the property of C. at the time above mentioned, although then in the possession of B. but in trust? Or whether it becomes a part of the estate of B. to which his creditors have a legal claim to their dividend upon? Or, if the creditors can have no just claim, whether, on C. paying the said bill away to D. its being regularly presented when due to B. for payment, and being noted for non-payment, has not D. a just right to protest the bill and return it back to A. who is the drawer, and to use coercive measures to enforce the payment?

The nature of the trust upon which the bill was put into the hands of B. the acceptor, is not stated; but if he held it merely in trust, and without any claim of beneficial interest in it, I am of opinion that it remains the property of C. and that the creditors of B. have no claim whatever upon it. On the contrary, it may be proved as a debt under the commission, and C. would be entitled to a proportionate dividend with the other creditors. The holder of the bill should present it for payment to B. when due, and have it regularly protested, after which he will have a clear right to recover the amount against A. the drawer. SECOND, C. has accepted two bills to the amount of five hundred pounds and upwards, for which he never received the least value for doing the same, merely out of friendship to B. to serve his credit until his remittances came round. B. takes the said bills to D. (a banker) in order to get them discounted, which D. resuses, but agrees to advance one hundred and sifty pounds to B. on account of them. Soon after which B. commits an act of bankruptey by secreting himself; but before the docket is struck against B. C. applies to D. to enquire of him what sum was lent to B. on account of the bills; and upon being informed, C. tells D. he wishes to pay him the one hundred and sifty pounds B. has had advanced him upon the bills, if he will deliver them up to him on his so doing.

Or whether it will be requisite for B. to appear with C. at the house of D. and there to personally deliver the bills over to C. as his property in the presence of D. who might then pay D. the one hundred and fifty pounds he had advanced thereon? Or what other mode can be devised in order to secure C. and D. from farther trouble?

This point, though the justice of the tale is perfectly clear, is attended with some difficulty, and it seems doubtful whether D. having full notice of the bankruptcy, can deliver up the bills in question to C. or even to B. himself, without being fubject to an action of trover from the affiguees of B. if they should tender the one hundred and fifty gounds, and demard the bills; for though I am of opinion that B. or his affignees could not recover either in law of equity the amount of these bills against C. if it can be clearly proved that they were accepted merely for accommodation, and without any valuable confideration, yet I doubt whether D. can take upon himfelf to decide between them, and he would certainly do it at his own risk. If the bills are over due, then I think C. need have no apprehension, from their falling into the hands of the affignees. But if the bills are not yet due, and the assignees getting the possession of them from the banker (which, on tender of the one hundred and fifty pounds, I think he sould not refuse) should be dishonest enough to pay them away for a valuable confideration to persons who had no notice of their being mere accommodation bills; C, could then make no desence against such holders of the bills.

If the affignees are fair men, I should think, on being informed of the true circumstances of the case, they would confent to the delivery of the bills to C. But if they will not, I think the most secure way for all the parties will be, for C. to file a bill of equity against B. D. and the affiguees of B. praying that the bills may be delivered up, on payment of the func of one hundred and fifty pounds due to D. and that he C. may come in as a creditor to that amount upon the estate of B. which I should think might be done at no very large expence, as a very from bill would be sufficient, But if there is no apprehension of the assignees getting polfession of the bills and paging them sweet before due, it will be most prudent for C. to lie by, as I am clearly of opinion, that the amount of the bills can never be recovered against him by any person who has notice that they were accepted without confideration.

ON PROMISSORY NOTES.

Payer v. Maker MIDDLESEX, J. A. B. complains of C. D. being, &c. in of a premission a plea of trespass on the case, &c. for that whereas the said defendant heretofore, to wit, on (a) the feventh (b) day of October,

A. D. 1730, to wit, at (c) Westminster, in the said county of Middlesex, made and signed (d) his certain note in writing, commonly called a promissory note, bearing date the day and year aforesaid (e), and (1) thereby promised (f) to pay to the said (2)

Plaintiff, by the name of Mr. A. B. or order, four months after the date of the said note, the sum of ten pounds ten shillings for value received by him the said defendant, and then and there delivered (g) the said note to the said plaintiff; whereby, and by reason of which said several premises, and by force of the statute in such case made and provided, the said defendant became liable to pay to the said plaintiff the said sum of money in the said note specified, according to the tener and effect of the said note (b); and being so liable, he the said defendant, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at (i) Westminster

- (a) It was formerly the practice (and indeed we now frequently meet with it) to alledge the note to be made after the first day of May 1705 (the day mentioned in statute 3. and 4. Anne, c. 9., which gives the action on promiffory notes); but as the note itself appears to be made subsequent to it, there is no necessity to take notice of it; though it may be otherwise in cases where the day set forth is material. In that case, as the statute speaks of a thing as arising after a particular day, so it should be otherwise shewn than under a scilicet, or by an allegation that is not material. In short, it should be positively alledged to have so happen. ed, in order to bring the case within the Matute.
- (b) The day is material in this case, as it defines the contract on which the action is brought. 1. Stra. 22.
- (c) The place is not material in an action upon an inland note, nor do I conceive it to be so in the case of a foreign one; though it is otherwise with bills of exchange, which are governed by local customs as well as positive statutes: yet it is usual, where a note is made abroad, and so appears upon the face of it, to alledge it to have been made in parts beyond the seas, that is to say, at Jamaica, in the West Indies, to wit, at Westminster (the usual venue).
- (d) This is the word made use of in the statute of Anne; and it seems to have the preserence of the usual word subscribed, inasmuch as it is equally applicable to a signature by a mark as to a written one. According to one decision (2. Lord Raym. 1484.), however, neither one expression nor the other is absolutely necessary, both being included in the word made. Vide also 2. Lord Paym. 1377. and 1542. Str. 609.

- (e) If the note have no date, you will omit this allegation of course. 2. Show. 442.
- (f) Be careful to recite the note accurately, as a variance will be fatal. You need not, however, recite it literally, as in the case of bad spelling and such like inaccuracies.
- (g) This feems to be a material allegation, as the bare making of a note, without delivering it, feems of no avail; yet the want of the averment may be merely an informality, and of course the subject of a special demurrer, and incapable of being taken advantage of in any other way. It also steems to be more formal to state the delivery of the note after the recital of it than before, and then go on and say, that by reason of the several premises (of which the delivery is one) and by force of the statute, sec. the defendant became hable.
- (b) This will ever be the case where the action is between the original parties to the note; but where it is brought against an inderser or other collected party, in consequence of the drawer's default at the end of the time appointed for payment of the note, there the obligation of payment on such indorser or third person is inmediate and direct, or, in legal language, upon request, and not according to the tener of, or in any manner dependent upon, the note or instrument.
- (i) As the promise is a transitory matter, we make no difference in the place bee, though the note be a fureign one. In the beginning of the declaration, the place where the note was really made is set out as descriptive of the instrument, but here it is only applied to the promise, which, being transitory, requires no specific description.

But an action will lie for the money lent (see Bailey on Bills and Notes, 70.), though the consideration may be money lent and lost at play.

> (k) As this assumptit is merely app assumpsit by implication of law, out of the preceding matter, which is an express assumpsit in itself, so the want of it may be immaterial after a verdist, though perhaps bad, upon a special demurrer. It is so in the case of bills of exchange (Carth. 510. Lord Raym. 574. 1. Salk. 129.); and of course is so in that of promiffory notes, which are clearly express promifes in themselves. And in the case of Gregory v. Walcup, it was held, that in an action against the acceptor of a bill of exchange, it was not necessary to alledge a promise of payment, as the acceptance is an actual assumption, and the declaration need not alledge more. Comyns's Rep. 75. pl. 49.

FOR that whereas the said J. and T. (the defendants and Papers, partners, makers), at the several and respective times hereaster mentioned, against Mator, partners, upon a note made by one of them, with directions as to declaration on note made by both.

were (a) partners and joint dealers together in trade and commerce, to wit, at, &c. in, &c. and the said J. and T. being such partners and joint dealers together, the said J. on, &c. at, &c. aforesaid, for (b) himself and the said T. his partner, made and signed a (c) certain note in writing, commonly called, &c. bearing date, &c. and thereby, for (b) himself and his said partner, promised to pay to the faid W. and M. or their order, &c. &c. and then and there, for (b) bimself and bis aforesaid partner, delivered the said note, &c.; whereby, and by reason of which said several premises, and by force of the statute, the said J. and T. became liable to pay, &c.; and being so liable, they the said J. and T. in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. undertook, &c.

(a) Where the note (like that in question) is given by one partner only for himself and his companion, there it feems proper to flate a partnership, as in the precedent before us, in order to render it obligatory on the non subscribing partner. But where it is signed by all the partners in a house, or by all who are intended to be bound by it, it may be unnecessary to state anything like a general partnership in the course of trade, as, whether it exist or not, the parties are bound by their signature, independent of any other circumstance. So, for a similar reason, it may be unnecessary to Rate a partnership in the Payers, where a note is payable to them all by name; but where it is payable to only one of them and Co. there it perhaps may be necessary to aver the fact of a partnerthip, as it is from that circumstance coupled with the note or contract, and not from the note simply, that any but he who is immediately named derives any interest in the instrument.

(b) This and the fimilar allegations are material. Vide Lord Raym. 1484.

(c) As the note in question is neither the contract of one alone, nor the immediate act of both the drawers, so it seems better to describe it as a note generally, than as the specific act or contract of either one or both of the parties to be bound by it.

> (a) If three make a note (a) jointly and severally, you may not declare against two of them jointly, the third living, but you may against all three jointly, or against tack of them separately: so determined by Lord Mansfield, in the case of Turnbull, at Sittings Guildhall, about the year 1777·

(b). This is the usual way of declaring on a joint and several note, though we Teldom use more than the second Count, which is sufficient, and indeed seems the better Count of the two, at the plaintiff will have less to prove under it, having the subscription of one of the drawers only to establish, instead of that of both; and when the note is in the disjunctive, it is the proper Count, as appears from the following cases; Ovington and Neale, Stra. 819. and Lord Raym. 1544. On error, in B. R. a judgment in favour of plaintiff was reverted for want of the plaintiff's shewing a title to bring a separate action against one of the makers of a note, by two conjunction and separation; for by the present declaration he only says, he has this or some other cause of action, and the note does not import they promiled severally; for the note set out is, that they promised jointly or severally, which is not positive that they promised severally, for it ought to have been, that they promifed jointly and feverally. In Stra. 76. Butler and Malisfy, on a similar note as in the preceding case, on demurrer, it was infifted for defendant, that the action should have been brought against both. Et per Parker, C. J. The plaintiff might have brought it against either or beth, for he had his election: if the action had been against both, he should have declared as he now does; but that is not right in the action against one only, for he should have declared generally, that this defendant, by bis note, promised to pay; and a several note by two would have been good evi-Suppose the note had been for fifty pounds or one hundred pounds, the plaintiff is entitled to either, but uncertain which till he has made his election; for he that speaks in the disjunctive, says true, if either member of the disjunctive be verified (b); whereas he who speaks in the affirmative affirms both parts to be true. In the case of Rees and Abbot, Camp. 832. (c), the court of B. R. held, that jointly on severally, and jointly AND severally, were synonymous, and that the election whether the note thall be joint or feveral is in the person to whom it is payable.

(4) Cowp. 833. Burr. 2614. Burr. 343.

FOR that whereas the said defendant, before and at the time of Pages. the making of the note hereinafter mentioned, and afterwards, was Banker, &c. on a goldsmith (a), and a trader in that business, and one R. W. on, &c. at, &c. as such servant of the said defendant as Comb. 450. aforesaid, and for him the said defendant made and signed a certain 12. Mod. 346. note in writing, commonly called, &c. bearing date, &c. and Mod. 110. thereby as such servant of the said desendant as aforesaid, and for him the said defendant, promised to pay, &c.; and then and there, as such servant to the said defendant as aforesaid, and for him the faid defendant, delivered, &c.; whereof (4) the said defendant afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, at, &c. aforesaid, had notice: whereby, and by reason, &c. and by force of the sta-

- traders are generally made by their *der*ts, so the Legislature has had an eye to them in particular, as well as to notes made by the perions who are to pay them; and it is upon this ground that the declaration is varied from one upon a note made by the servent of a person not a trader; the unusual averments arise out of the stat, (a) which wide.
- (b) In the old declarations on notes like that in question, there is an averment of the note's being presented for payment; but as there can be no more necessity for an averment of that kind here than in the case of an ordinary note,

(a) As the notes of these fort of so it may be omitted; and indeed it is imprudent to have it in, left it should burthen plaintiff with proof. Yet as the note is not the immediate act of the perfor who is to pay it, so it is perhaps neceffary to bring the facts within his knowledge by the common averment of his having notice of them. This answers all the end of the averment of the note's being presented, and being an averment of a fact, not springing from plaintiff himself, but deducible from all the circumstances of the case, may be taken by prefumption from those circumstances, without burthening the plaintiff with any politive evidence of the fact itself, tute, &c. the faid defendant became liable, &c. and being so liable, &c. he the said defendant, in consideration, &c. undertook, &c. (c)

(c) It feems usual to add a Count upon a note as made by defendant himself; but it is difficult to conceive either the necessity or utility of such a Count; and indeed it should seem improper, as notes like the one in question seem to stand upon their own circumstances, and to be treated of in the statute as distinct from notes made by the party who is to be charged by them: however, it may be inserted out of caution, left the custom should be inaccurately stated.

Besides the difference between this declaration and the ancient form in the respect alluded to in the preceding Exote (b), it varies from it in this: According to the ancient form, the action feems founded on a case rather than an act of parliament, as the case really is, (vide the next Precedent). That such a custom is good, and does in sact exist, is undeniable; but whether it does or does not feems perfectly immaterial, as the stat. of Anne expressly gives an action upon the note independent of any custom whatsoever; of course therefore it follows, that nothing more be stated than the facts of defendant's being one of she traders mentioned in the act, and that the drawer of the note was a ference of the description there spoken of. How the declaring upon a custom first obtained, is rather difficult to determine; but from all we can collect, it is likely to be as follows: Before the stat. of Anne, when no action sould be maintained upon the note itself, as such merchants and pleaders used every endeavour to put them upon the fame footing as bills of exchange; with the former they were always confidered as fuch, and the latter attempted to declare upon them accordingly, and, in analogy to declarations upon bills, had recourfe to the custom of merchants in their pleadings; but this was foon over-ruled, as will be feen on bills of exchange, and the stat, of Anne made to remedy the inconvenience. The practice of declaring upon them as under a custom, however, having once obtained, it is probable that it continued even after the statute: and this idea feems confirmed in the circumstance of no notice being taken of the statute in the old declarations; nor indeed does it appear by those declarations, but the cause of action arose before such statute.

all and every the aforesaid promises and undertakings in the said declaration mentioned, and of the damages sustained by the said John and Henry L. by reason of the non-performance of the same promises and undertakings, and each and every of them, in manner and form as the faid Thomas and William have above in their said plea in that behalf alledged: Nevertheless, for replication in this behalf, the faid John and H. L. did not accept, have, and receive the faid promissory note in the said plea mentioned from the faid Thomas and William and the said H. B. in full satisfaction and discharge of all the aforesaid promises and undertakings in the faid declaration mentioned, and the damages fuffained by the faid J. and H. L. by reason of the non-persormance of the same promises and undertakings, and each and every of them, in manner and form as the faid Thomas and William have above in their faid plea in that behalf alledged; and this they the faid J. and Henry pray may be inquired of by the country; and the said Thomas and William do the like.

N. B. The defendants obtained a verdict at the fummer affizes 1788; and Law, of counsel for the plaintiff, obtained a rule to shew cause why a new trial should not be granted, which was afterwards discharged in M. T. 1788. For the arguments fee 2 Term Rep. 763. B. R. 117.

WILLIAM TYRER complains of Robert Lawfon and John Declaration by a Tunstall, being, &c. in a plea of trespass on the case, &c. for surviving Parthat whereas the said defendants heretofore, in the lifetime of one kers of a property Joshua Birchall, deceased, whom the said William Tyrer hath fory not. lurvived, to wit, on the fixth day of December in the year of Our able Lord 1788, to wit, at Liverpool in the county of Lancaster, mer made and figned their certain note in writing, commonly called a fer. were due. promissory note, bearing date the day and year aforesaid, and then and there delivered the faid note to the faid William Tyrer and the faid Joshua Birchall; by which said note they the said desendants, jointly and separately, promised to pay to the said plaintiff and the said Joshua Birchall, by the name and description of Mr. William Tyrer and Mr. Joshua Birchall, or order, the sum of twelve pounds nine shillings, by four quarterly instalments, the first payment whereof to commence and be made on the fixth day of March then next ensuing, for value received: and the faid plaintiff in fact says, that after the making of the said note, and after the death of the said Joshua Birchall, and before the exhibiting of this bill, to wit, on the fixth of September 1789, to wit, at Liverpool aforefaid, in the county aforesaid, three of the said instalments or quarterly payments of the said sum of money in the said note mentioned, amounting in the whole to a large sum of ' money, to wit, the sum of nine pounds six shillings and nine- States the whole pence of lawful money of Great Britain, became and were due and to have become payable from the said Robert and John, according to the tenor payable by the and effect of the said note, to the said plaintiff as survivor of the instalment said Joshua; whereof the said Robert and John then and there had

due notice: whereby, and by reason of which several premises, and by force of the statute in such case made, &c. the said defendants became liable to pay to the said plaintiff the said three of the said four several instalments in the said note specified, according to the tenor and effect of the said note; and being so liable, they the faid Robert and John, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at Liverpool aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said plaintiff to pay him the said three of the faid four several instalments in the said note specified, according to 2d Count for all the tenor and effect of the said note. And whereas the said defendants, in the lifetime of the said Joshua Birchall, now deceased, to wit, on the fixth day of December in the said year of Our Lord 1788, at Liverpool aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, made and figned their certain other note in writing, commonly called a promissory note, bearing date the day and year last aforesaid; and thereby jointly and separately promised to pay to the said William Tyrer and Joshua Birchall, by the names and descriptions of Mr. William Tyrer and Mr. Joshua Birchall, or order, the sum of twelve pounds nine shillings, by four quarterly instalments, the first payment whereof to commence and be made on the fixth day of March next after the making of the faid note, and then and there delivered the said note to the said plaintiff and the said Joshua Birchall. And the said plaintiffs in sact further say, that after (as in the other Count) three of the said instalments or quarterly payments of the said money in the said last mentioned note, according to the tenor and effect thereof, became and were due and payable from the said defendants to the said plaintiff as furviver of the said Joshua Birchall; whereof the said defendants then and there had due notice: whereby, and by reason of which said several last mentioned premises, and by sorce of the statute in such case, &c. the said Robert and John became liable to pay to the said plaintiff the said sum of money in the said last mentioned

note specified, when they the said desendants should be thereto afterwards requested; and being so liable, they the said defendants, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at Liverpool aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said plaintiff to pay him the said sum of money in the said last mentioned note specified, when they the said defendants should be thereto afterwards requested. (Counts for money paid, &c.; money lent, &c.;

money had and received, &c.; upon account stated; common she instalments.

In drawing this declaration I have confidered Birchall as dead when the 3d instalment became due. I have inserted the 3d Count on the authority of the gase of Beckwith against Nott, Cro. Jac. 504. which lays, that in such a case conclusion.)

as this it is best to count of damages for the entire debt, because the jury may give the whole fum in damages; and, if they do, it may be pleaded in bar to another action.

THOMAS BARROW.

SUFFOLK.

SUFFOLK, to wit. Richard Debney, late of, &c. was at- Declaration by tached to answer unto Robert Stannard and Sarah his wife, (which husband and faid Sarah is administratrix of all and singular the goods, rights, wife, Administracredits, and chattels which were of Robert Debney, her late huf-hufband, on a band, deceased, at the time of his death, who died intestate,) of promissory note a plea of trespass on the case, &c. And thereupon the said R. S. given by Desenand Sarah his wife, as administratrix aforesaid, by Andrew Evans dant to her late their attorney, complain, that whereas the said Richard on the husband. thirtieth day of September in the year of Our Lord 1775, to wit, at Tunstall in the county of Suffolk, made his certain note in writing, commonly called a promissory note, his own proper hand being thereto subscribed, bearing date the same day and year aforesaid, and then and there delivered the said note to the said Robert Debney in his lifetime; by which said note he the said. Richard then and there promised to pay on demand to the said R. D. in his lifetime, (by the name of Robert Debney,) the sum of one hundred and ninety two pounds four shillings and fourpence for value received by him the said Richard: by means whereof, and by force of the statute in such case made and provided, he the said Richard became liable to pay to the said R. D. in his lifetime, the said sum of money in the faid note specified, when he the said Richard should be thereto afterwards requested; and being so liable, he the said Richard, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, at Tunstall aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, and faithfully promised the said R. D. in his lifetime to pay him the faid fum of money in the faid note specified, when he the said Richard should be thereto afterwards requested. (A Count for goods sold and delivered, with quantum meruit.) Yet the said Richard, not regarding his said several promises and Breach. undertakings so by him made in manner and form aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and fubtilly to deceive and defraud the said R. S. and Sarah his wife, (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) or to either of Another Count them. And whereas the said Richard, after the death of the said on an account R. D. to wit, on the twentieth day of July in the year of Our wife whils sie Lord 1780 aforesaid, at Tunstall aforesaid, in the county aforefaid, accounted together with the said Sarah whilst she was sole and unmarried, of and concerning divers other furns of money before that time due and owing from the said Richard to the said R. D. in his lifetime and at the time of his death, and then being in arrear and unpaid; and upon that occasion, he the faid plaintiff was then and there found in arrear and indebted to the faid Sarah in the faid fum of one hundred pounds of like lawful money of Great Britain; and being so sound in arrear and indebted, he the faid Richard, in confideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said Sarah, whilst she was sole and unmarried, to pay her the said lastmentioned sum of money, when he the said Richard should be thereto afterwards requested: Yet the said Richard, not regarding his said last-mentioned promise and undertaking so by him in manner and form aforesaid made, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and fubtilly to deceive and defraud the said Sarah whilst the was so sole and unmarried, and the said R. S. and Sarah his wife (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) since their intermarriage in this behalf, hath not as yet paid the said last-mentioned sum of money, or any part thereof, to them or either of them, although to do this he the said Richard was requested by the said Sarah whilst she was so sole and unmarried, to wit, on, &c. and by the faid R. S. and Sarah his wife (which faid Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) fince their intermarriage, to wit, on, &c. and often both before and afterwards, to wit, at, &c.; but he to do this hath hitherto wholly refused, and still refuses to pay the fame, or any part thereof, to the faid R. S. and Sarah his wife, (which faid Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) or to either of them. And Account stated whereas the said Richard afterwards, and after the intermarriage with R. D. her of the faid Sarah with the faid R. S. to wit, on, &c. at, &c. aclate husband in counted together with the said R. S. and Sarah his wife, (which faid Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) of and concerning divers other sums of money before that time due and owing from the said Richard to the said R. D. in his lifetime, and at the time of his death, and then being in arrear and unpaid; and upon that occasion he the faid Richard was then and there found in arrear and indebted to the said R. S. and Sarah his wife, (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) in the further sum of one hundred pounds pounds of like lawful money of Great Britain; and being so found in arrear and indebted, he the faid Richard, in confideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said R. S. and Sarah his wife (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) to pay them the said last-mentioned sum of money, when he the said Richard should be thereto afterwards requested: Yet the said Richard, not regarding his said last-mentioned promise and undertaking so by him in manner and form aforesaid made, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said R. S. and Sarah his wife (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid) in this behalf, hath not as yet paid the said last mentioned fum of money, or any part thereof, to them or either of them, although to do this he the said Richard was requested by the said R. S. and Sarah his wife, (which said Sarah is administratrix as aforesaid,) afterwards, to wit, on, &c. and often afterwards, to wit, at, &c. in, &c.; but he to do this hath hitherto wholly refused, and still refuses so to do, to the damage of the said R. S. and Sarah his wife (which faid Sarah is administratrix as afore-Laid,) of one hundred pounds, and therefore they bring their suit: and they bring into court here the letters of administration of the faid J. G. which fully prove to the said Court here that she the said Sarah is administratrix in form asoresaid.

And whereas heretofore, to wit, on, &c. according to the custom of, &c. made, &c. a certain draft or order for the payment of money, commonly called a banker's cheque, bearing date, &c. upon certain bankers then and there trading and uling commerce by and under the style of, &c. and by the said draft or order then and there required the said bankers so using, &c. &c. to pay to the said J. I Have drawn the above pracipe acsording to my instructions, and confidered the case; and however hard it may be on the plaintiff, yet I am of opinion the action cannot be supported; for onlooking into the flock-jobbing act of the 7. G. 2. c. 8. f. 1. all such contracts as that on which the cheque is suggested to have been given are declared to be abso lutely waid, and not merely weideble, and that to all intents and purposes whatever: being therefore so void in itself, and that to every purpose, it was incapuble of any transfer or delivery over, fo as to put the person to whom it was so delivered in a better or other situation than he in whose sayour it was or ginally drawn, and who afterwards delivered it ever. Were the point quite a new one, however, the argument made use of in the instructions might be urged with much propriety, and of course with a prospect of success; but I fear the recent case of Lowe and others and Waller,

Doug. 708, and the recognised one of Bowyer and Bampton, 2. Str. 1155. on the statute of usury and gaming, and in which a note or bill on either of those confiderations are declared to be invalid, even in the hands of innocent indorfees, on good and berå fide confiderations, will be confidered as determining the queftion. Indeed, in my own opinion, they do; but then there is generally so great a difficulty in making out a case of the kind in evidence, that it may be perhaps worth the plaintiff's while to take the chance which a case of the fort may asford him; but if, on the other hand, the draft can be clearly shewn to have been given on such illegal consideration, then I cannot advise the proceeding on it: at all events, however, he is not without his remedy against J. D. G. or the person from whom he received the cheque, but may recever back the confideration money for it, in an action for money had and received. V. LAWIS.

WARWICKSHIRE, to wit. John Whittaker complains of Samuel Hill, being, &c. in a plea of trespass on the case, &c. for that whereas the said Samuel heretofore, to wit, on the twentynote made to the fifth day of March in the year of Our Lord 1788, at Birmingwife whilft fole, ham in the county of Warwick, made his certain note in writing, but payable by commonly called a promissory note, subscribed with his own protime happening per hand, and bearing date the day and year aforefaid, and thereafter the mar- by promised to pay to one Sarah Toy, by the name and descripnage, for five tion of Mrs. S. T. ten pounds ten shillings, at different instalout of feven of ments, that is to fay, one guinea at the end of every three months from the date thereof, until the whole sum should be paid, for value received, and then and there delivered the said note to the said Sarah Toy; by reason whereof, and by force of the statute in that case made and provided, the said Samuel became liable to pay to the said S. T. the said sum of money in the said note mentioned, according to the tenor and effect of the said note. And the said John in fact fays, that after the making of the said note, and before the

the whole of the money therein mentioned became payable, to wit, on the thirty-first day of October in the year aforesaid, to wit, at B. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, he the said John intermarried with the said S. T. who then and there became, and was and still is, the lawful wife of him the said John; and he the said John then and there became and was and yet is lawfully possessed of the faid note. And the faid John further fays, that after his faid intermarriage, and before the exhibiting of the bill of the said John, to wit, on the twenty-fifth day of December in the year of Our Lord 1790, at B. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, a great part of the faid sum of money in the said note specified, to wit, the sum of five pounds five shillings, for five of the said instalments in the said note mentioned, accrued fince the said intermarriage, and was: due and payable from the faid Samuel upon and according to the tenor and effect of the said note; of which said premises the said Samuel then and there had due notice: whereby, and by reason of which said several premises, he the said Samuel became liable to pay to the said John the said sum of five pounds five shillings; and being so liable, he the said Samuel, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the day and year last aforesaid, at B. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, undertook, and faithfully promised the said John to pay him the said sum of money, when he the said Samuel should be thereto afterwards requested. And whereas the 2d Count on a faid Samuel heretofore, to wit, on the twenty-fifth day of March promise to pay in the year of Our Lord 1788, at B. aforesaid, in the county the husband all aforesaid, made his certain other note in writing, commonly consideration of called a promissory note, subscribed with his own proper hand, sorbearance. and bearing date the day and year last aforesaid, and thereby promised to pay to the said S. T. by the name and description of Mrs. S. T. ten pounds ten shillings, at different instalments, that is to fay, one guinea every three months from the date thereof until the whole should be paid, for value received, and then and there delivered the said last mentioned note to the said S. T.; by means whereof, and by force of the statute in such case made and proyided, the said Samuel became liable to pay to the said S. the said fum of money in the faid note specified, according to the tenor and effect thereof. And the said John in fact says, that after the making of the said last mentioned note, and before the said sum of money therein mentioned became due, according to the tenor and effect thereof, to wit, on the said thirty-first day of October in the said year of Our Lord 1788, at B. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, he the said John intermarried with the said S. T. who then and there became, and was and still is, the lawful wife of the said John. And the said John in fact further saith, that after his said intermarriage, and before the exhibiting of the bill of the said in the year of Our Lord John, to wit, on the day of

at B. aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, divers, to wit, If there has been 17 of the said instalments in the said last mentioned note spe- any promise of payment by the desendant, fill this blank with the day on which the preceding instalments became due. If not, it may be filled with the day when the 5th inflalment became due, cified, became due and payable, according to the tenor and effect of the faid note; whereof the faid Samuel then and there had notice: in confideration whereof, and also in confideration that the said John would then and there forbear and give day of payment to the faid Samuel for the same for a reasonable time, he the said S. undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said John to pay him the faid several instalments so become due as aforesaid. And the said John in sact says, that he, considing in the said last mentioned promise and undertaking of the said Samuel, did thereupon forbear and give day of payment to the said 8. for the said several instalments, amounting in the whole to a large sum of money, to wit, the fum of pounds, for a long and reasonable time, to wit, from the time of making the faid last mentioned promise and undertaking till the time of exhibiting the hill of the said John in this behalf, to wit, at B. aforesaid, in the county aforefuid, &c. (Counts for money had and received; money paid; account stated; and common conclusion.)

Now that I have drawn this declaration, I cannot help feeling a little dubious as to the strict propriety of the form of action. I have carefully contrasted it with all the cases to be sound on the point, and find that it goes further than any of them, in attempting to suffert a degeard by the bushand alone, upon an actual contract made with the wife BEFORE the marriage, without any express promise to the bushand AFIZA. In all the authorities I have met with, where the husband has fued alone on a contract with the wife whilst spie, he has alledged an express promife to himself after the marriage, founded on the former. But we have here attempted to raise an implied ofsometime in law to the husband alone out of a fecurity given to the wife before coverture, on the ground of its not being payable till after. This reason for it may be given, that by the marriage the fecurity vests in possession in the husband alone, and the money not becoming due till afterwards, connects the action with the thing on which it founds itself, now the husband's sole property, and thereby gives him an election to fue alone. In this I think there is some, thing like law, but it is perfectly new, and unsupported by decisions; for which reason I have added a 2d Count, stating a promise to the husband in consideration of forbearance; which, if supported by ewidence, will be good; if not, and plaintiff should obtain a verdict without any objection being taken in pleading to the first Count, I would advise him to enter up his judgment on the Count for money had and received. William Cazalet afterwards, to wit, on the said twelfth day of February in the year of Our Lord 1787, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice; and thereupon afterwards, and in the lifetime of the said Francis Henry, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, at the special instance and request of the said William Cazalet, had then and there paid to the said William Cazalet the sum of sixteen pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the insurance of four hundred pounds of and upon the said ship and goods in the said writing or policy of affurance mentioned, valued as aforesaid, and had then and there undertaken, and to the said William Cazalet faithfully promised, to perform and fulfil all things in the said writing or policy of assurance contained on the part and behalf of the affureds to be performed and fulfilled, he the said William Cazalet undertook, and to the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, then and there faithfully promised to become an affurer to the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, for the said sum of four hundred pounds of and upon the said ship and goods in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, valued as aforesaid, and to perform and fulfil all things in the said writing or policy of assurance contained, on his part and behalf as such assurer, as to the said sum of sour hundred pounds to be performed and fulfilled; and the faid William Cazalet then and there became an affurer to the faid James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, of and upon the said ship and goods in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, valued as aforesaid accordingly, and then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance, as such assurer, for the said sum of four hundred pounds, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid: and the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes, in fact say, that the said ship, in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, before the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the thirtieth day of June in the year of Our Lord 1785, arrived in good safety on the coast of Africa, in the said writing or policy of affurance mentioned, and did stay and trade there for a great. length of time, to wit, from thence until the third day of July in the year of Our Lord 1787; and that the said ship, having taken in and loaded on board divers goods and merchandizes of great value, to wit, of the value of five hundred pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, did afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, depart and set sail with the said goods and merchandize on board thereof, from the said coast of Africa upon the voyage, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, for and towards her port or ports of destination, sale, and final deli-Cc4 very in the British and French West Indies and the continent of America: and the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes further say, that the said insurance, so made as aforesaid, was made to and for the use and on the account of, and in trust for, one James Crowdson, and one William Hanson, one Edward Rogers, one George Pengree, and one Quintin Dick, according to their several and respective interests therein; and that before and until, and at the time of the loss herein after next mentioned, the fild James Crowdson was interested in the said ship, and the said William Hanson, Edward Rogers, George Pengree, and Quintin Dick were interested in the said goods and merchandizes, so on board thereof as aforesaid, to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the money ever insured thereon, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; and the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes further say, that the said ship, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, with the said goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforefaid, afterwards, and after her departure from the coast of Africa aforesaid, upon ner said voyage, and whilst she was sailing and proceeding upon the high seas with the said goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforesaid, and before her arrival at any of her port or ports of destination, sale, or final delivery in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the twenty-fixth day of July in the year of Our Lord 1787, was, by the mere perils and dangers of the seas, and by stormy and tempestuous weather, and the violence of the winds and waves, bulged, broken, damaged, spoiled, and destroyed, and the said ship, together with the said goods and merchandizes fo on board thereof as aforefaid, thereby became and were rendered of no use or value, and were wholly lost to the respective proprietors thereof, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which premises the said William Cazalet afterwards, and in the lifetime of the said Francis Henry, to wit, on the first day of January in the year of Qur Lord 1788, there had notice: and by reason thereof he the said William Cazalet then and there became and was liable to pay, and was then and there requested by the said James Baillio, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, to pay them the said sum of four hundred pounds so by him asfured as aforesaid, and which said sum of money he the said William Cazalet then and there ought to have paid, according to the meaning and effect of the faid writing or policy of assurance, and of his faid promise and undertaking so by him made in that behalf as aforesaid, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. (Counts for money laid out and expended, had and received.) Yet the said William Cazalet, not regarding his said several promises and undertakings so by him made as aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William

William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, in the lifetime of the said Francis Henry, and the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes, since the death of the said Francis Henry, in this behalf did not, in the lifetime of the said Francis Henry, pay to the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, or to any or either of them, nor hath he, fince the death of the faid Francis Henry, paid to the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Earnes, or to any or either of them, the said several sums of money, or any or either of them, or any part of them, (although often requested so to do,) but to pay the said several sums of money, or any or either of them, or any part of them, to the said James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, John Barnes, and Francis Henry, or to any or either of them in the lifetime of the said Francis Henry, he the said William Cazalet did wholly refule to pay the faid feveral fums of money, or any or either of them, or any part of them, to the faid James Baillie, Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes, or to any or either of them, fince the death of the faid Francis Henry, hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, to the damage of the said James Baillie. Richard, William Clay, William Taylor, John Shoolbred, and John Barnes, of five hundred pounds; and therefore they bring Juit, &c. EDWARD LAW.

LONDON, to wit, Henry Cruger, esquire, complains of Declaration in William Fowler, being in the custody of the marshal of the mar- B. R. in afshalsea of our sovereign lord the now king, before the king him-sumpsit on a felf, of a plea, &c. for that whereas the said Henry heretofore, policy of assuto wit, on the fifth day of January in the year of Our Lord 1788, rance for freight at London, to wit, in the parish of St. Mary le Bow, in the ward Bristol, where of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants, caus- the ship was ed and procured to be made a certain writing or policy of assu- consumed by rance, purporting thereby, and containing therein, that the said free Henry, (by the name and description of Henry Cruger of the city of Briftol,) merchant, or who else might or should be concerned, did make assurance, and caused themselves to be assured (lost or not lost) at and from Boston to Bristol quay, upon the body, tackle, apparel, and all other the furniture of, in, and in and upon the good ship called the Enterprize, of the burden of thereabouts, whereof was master, under God, for that voyage, Toseph Deane, or whosoever else should go for master in the said thip, or by whatsoever other name or names the same ship, or the mafter thereof, was or should be named or called; beginning the adventate adventure upon the said ship, tackle, apparel, &c. at and from Boston as aforesaid, and so should continue and endure until the aforesaid, and until she faid thip thould be fafely arrived at should be moored twenty and four hours in good safety at Bristol quay, and it should be lawful for the said ship, &c. in her voyage to proceed and fail to, touch and stay at, any ports or places, without prejudice to that insurance; the said ship, tackle, &c. for so much as it concerned the assured by agreement made between the assured and assurers in that policy, were and should be valued at seven hundred and fifty pounds sterling, without any further account to be given by the assured to the assurers, or any of them for the same, touching the adventures and perils which they the assurers were contented to bear and take upon themselves in that voyage, they were of the seas, men of war, fires, enemies, pirates, rovers, thieves, jettizons, letters of mart and countermart, surprisal, takings at sea, arrests, restraints, and detainments, of all kings, princes, or people, of what nation, condition, or quality foever, barratry of the master and mariners, and all other perils, losses, and misfortunes that had or should come to the hurt, detriment, or damage of the said ship, tackle, &c. or to any part thereof; and in case of any losses or missortunes, it should be lawful to and for the assured, their factors, servants, and assignees, to sue, labour, and travel for, in and about the defence, safeguard, and recovery of the said ship, tackle, &c. or any part thereof, without prejudice to that infurance; to the charges whereof they the assurers would contribute, each one according to the rate and quantity of his sum therein assured. And it was agreed by them the affurers that that writing or policy of affurance should be of as much force and effect as the surest writing or policy of assurance theretofore made in Lombard-street, or elsewhere in London; and to they the assurers were contented, and did thereby promite and bind themselves, each one for his own part, their heirs, executors, and goods, to the assured, their executors, administrators, and affigns, for the true performance of the premises, confessing themselves paid the consideration due unto them for that assurance by the said assured, or their assigns, at three guineas per cent.; in witness whereof, they the assurers had subscribed their names and sums assured, in Bristol, the fifth day of January 1788 aforesaid, as by the said writing or policy of assurance more fully appears: and by the faid writing or policy of assurance it was further agreed by and between the assured and assurers, that in case of any average loss, not exceeding five pounds per cent. the affurers, by agreement, were not to pay or allow any thing towards such loss; and, by the said writing or policy of assurance, corn, fish, falt, fruit, flour, and feed were warranted free from average, unless general, or the vessel should be stranded; and that the freight of the said ship in the said voyage in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, valued at two hundred pounds sterling, should be insured by the said writing or policy of assurance, on the terms and conditions therein contained respecting the said thip, as by the faid writing or policy of afforance, reference being thereunto had, may more fully appear; of which said writing or policy of assurance the said William afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforefaid, had notice; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said Henry, at the special instance and request of the said William, had then and there paid to the said William the sum of three guineas of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the affurance of one hundred pounds, upon the freight of the said ship in the faid voyage in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, and had then and there undertaken, and to the said William then and there faithfully promised, to perform and fulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of affurance contained on the part and behalf of the assured to be done, performed, and fulfilled, he the said William undertook, and to the said Henry then and there faithfully promised, that he the said William would become an assurer to the said Henry for the sum of one hundred pounds, in and upon the freight of the said ship in the said voyage in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and would do, perform. and fulfil all things in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf as such assurer as aforesaid as to the faid one hundred pounds, to be done, performed, and fulfilled; and the said William then and there became an assurer to the said. Henry, and subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance, as such assurer, for the said sum of one hundred pounds: and the said · Henry in fact saith, that the said ship, at and after the time of the making of the faid writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, was in good safety, to wit, at Boston aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned; and that afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, the said ship, with divers goods and merchandizes on board of great value, to wit, of the value of one thousand pounds, departed and failed from Boston as aforesaid on her said intended voyage, and that one Isaiah Doane then, and from thence until and at the time of the loss herein after mentioned, was interested in the freight of the said ship in the said voyage to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the monies by him ever insured or caused to be insured thereon, and that the said insurance, so made as aforesaid in the name of the said Henry, was made for and on the account of the said Isaiah Doane, and for his use and benefit, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid: and the faid Henry further says, that the said ship, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, with the said cargo on board her, afterwards, and after the making of the faid writing or policy of affurance, to wit, on the same day and year asoresaid, departed and set sail from Boston aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, upon her said intended voyage, towards Bristol aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of inturance mentioned: and the faid Henry further says, that the said ship, with the

the faid goods and merchandize on board of her, afterwards, and after her departure from Boston aforesaid, upon her said intended voyage, in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, and whilst she was sailing and proceeding upon the high seas, and in her said voyage, and before the arrived at Bristol, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the fourteenth day of March in the year of Our Lord 1788 aforesaid, on the high seas, was wholly consumed, destroyed, and burnt by fire; and the faid ship, and the goods and merchandizes so being on board the said ship, were wholly destroyed and lost, and the freight of the faid ship in the said voyage thereby wholly lost to the said Isaiah Doane, that is to say, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which premises the said William afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice, and was then and there requested by the said Henry to pay him the said fum of one hundred pounds, so by the said William insured as aforesaid; and which said last mentioned sum of one hundred pounds the said William then and there ought to have paid to the said Henry, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance, and the said promise and undertaking so made by the faid William in that behalf as aforefaid, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. for money had and received.) Nevertheless the said William, not regarding his faid several promises and undertakings in form aforesaid made, but contriving and fraudulently intending, craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said Henry in this behalf, hath not paid to the faid Henry the faid several sums of money, or any of them, or any part thereof, (although so to do he the said William afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforefaid, at London aforcaid, in the parish and ward aforefaid, was by the said Henry requested but to pay the same to the said Henry he the said William bath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse: whereupon he the said Henry saith he is injured and hath suffained damage to the value of one hundred pounds; and therefore he brings his suit, &cc. Record of an ifinsurance on goods, &c. Mip with convoy foundered in her voyage home.

LONDON, to wit. Be it remembered, that on Thursday the in assumptit next after eight days of St. Hilary in this same Term, before our on a policy of lord the king at Westminster, come Walter Stott and John Tate, by Richard Shawe their attorney, and bring into the court of our warranted to fail faid lord the king, before the king himself now here, their certain bill against John Taylor Vaughan, being in the custody of the from Grenada to marshal of the marshalles of our lord the now king, before the Liverpool; thip king himself, of a plea of trespass on the case; and there are pledges for the profecution, to wit, Peter Doe and Abel Roe; which said bill follows in these words, to wit: London, to wit, Walter Scott and John Tate complain of John Taylor Vaughan, being in the custody of the marshal of the marshales of our lord the now king, before the king himself, of a plea; for that whereas the said Walter and John Tate, heretofore, to wit, on the tenth day of September in the year of Our Lord 1793, at London, to wit, in the parish of St. Mary le Bow, in the ward of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants, caused and procured to be made a certain writing or policy of assurance, purporting thereby, and containing therein, (amongst other things) that the said Walter and John Tate, by the name and description of "Walter Stott, esquire, and Co." as well in their own name, as for and in the name and names of all and every other person or persons to whom the same did, might, or should appertain in part or in all, did make affurance, and cause themselves and them, and every of them, to be insured, lost or not lost, at and from Grenada to Liverpool, warranted to fail on or before the first of August 1793, upon any kind of goods and merchandizes, and also upon the body, tackle, apparel, ordnance, munition, artillery, boat, and other furniture, of and in the good ship or vessel called the Anna Philippa and Heart of Oak, both or either, whereof was master, under God, for that then present voyage, A. B. or whofoever else should go for master in the said ship, or by whatsoever other name or names the said ship, or the master thereof, was or should be named or called; beginning the adventure upon the faid goods and merchandizes from the loading thereof aboard the said ship, at Grenada, upon the said ship, &c. and so should continue and endure, during her abode there, upon the said ship, &c. and further, until the faid ship, with all her ordnance, tackle, apparel, &c. and goods and merchandizes whatfoever, should be arrived at Liverpool, upon the said ship, &c. until she had moored at anchor twenty-four hours in good safety; and upon the goods and merchandizes, until the same should be there discharged and safely landed; and it should be lawful for the said ship, &c. in that voyage to proceed and fail to, and touch and stay, at any ports or places whatfoever, without prejudice to that infurance; the faid thip, &c. goods and merchandizes, &c. for so much as concerned the assureds, by agreement between the assureds and assurers in that policy, were and should be valued at touching the adventures and perils which they the affurers were contented to bear, and did take upon themselves in that voyage, they were of the seas, men of war, fire, enemies, pirates, rovers, thieves, jettizons, letters of mart and countermart, surprisals, takings at sea, arrefts, restraints, and detainments of all kings, princes, and people, of what nation, condition, or quality foever, barratry of the mafter and mariners, and of all other perils, losses and misfortunes, that had or should come to the hurt, detriment, or damage of the said goods and merchandizes, and ship, &c. or any part thereof; and in case of any loss or misfortune, it should be lawful to the affureds, their factors, servants, and affigns, to sue, labour and travel for, in and about the defence, safeguard, and recovery of the faid goods and merchandizes, and ship, &c. or any part thereof, without prejudice to the infurance; to the charges whereof they the affurers would contribute each one according to the rate and quantity of his sum therein assured. And it was agreed by them the infurers, that that writing or policy of affurance should be of as much force and effect as the surest writing or policy of affurance theretofore made in Lombard-street, or in the Royal Exchange, of elsewhere in London; and so they the assurers were contented, and did thereby promise and bind themselves, each one for his own part, their heirs, executors, and goods, to the assureds, their executors, administrators, and assigns, for the true performance of the premiles, confessing themselves paid the consideration due unto them for that assurance by the affured, at and after the rate of five guineas per cent. warranted to sail with convoy. And by the said writing or policy of affurance, corn, fish, falt, fruit. flour, and seed, were warranted free from average, unless general, or the ship should be stranded; fugar, tobacco, hemp, flax, hides, and skins, were warranted free from average, under five pounds per cent. and all other goods; also the ship and freight, were warranted free of average, under three pounds per cent unless general, or the ship should be stranded. And the said insurance was by the said writing or policy of affurance declared to be on goods, as interest of affurance might appear, as by the faid writing or policy of affurance more fully appears; of which said writing or policy of assurance the said John Taylor afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London zforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice. And thereupon, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforefaid, at London aforefaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said Walter and John Tate, at the special instance and request of the said John Taylor, had then and there paid to the faid John Taylor the fum of five guineas of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the assurance of one hundred pounds, upon goods on board the Anna Philippa and Heart of Oak, both or either, in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned; and had then and there undertaken, and to the said John Taylor faithfully promised, to perform and fulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of assurance on the part and behalf of the assured to be done, performed, and fulfilled, he the sa'd John Taylor undertook, and to the said Walter and John Tate then and there saithfully promised, that he the said John Taylor would become an assurer to the said Walter and John Tate for the said sum of one hundred pounds, upon the said goods on board the Anna Philippa and Heart of Oak, both or either, in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, and would do, perform, and fulfil all things in the said writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf, as such assurer as aforesaid, as to the said one hundred pounds to be done, performed, and fulfilled; and the said John Taylor then and there became an affurer to the said Walter and John Tate of and upon the said goods as aforesaid, and then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance, as such assurer, for the said sum of one hundred pounds, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. And the said Walter and John Tate in fact fay, that before the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the nineteenth day of July in the year aforesaid, (the said ship or vessel called the Heart of Oak, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, being in good safety at Grenada, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned,) divers goods and merchandizes of great value, to wit, of the value of five hundred and seventy pounds fisteen shillings, of lawful money of Great Britain, were then and there shipped by the said , Walter and John Tate in and on board of the said ship or veffel called the Heart of Oak, to be carried therein from Grenada aforesaid, on the said voyage in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned; and that divers other goods and merchandizes of great value, to wit, of the value of fix hundred and thirty pounds five shillings, of like lawful money, were then and there, to wit, at Grenada aforesaid, shipped by the said Walter and John Tate on board of the said other ship called the Anna Philippa, in the faid writing or policy of affurance, to be carried there in the voyage aforesaid, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; and that the said Walter and John Tate, then and from thence, until and at the time of the loss herein after mentioned, were interested in the said goods and merchandizes on board of the faid ship called the Heart of Oak, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to a large amount, to wit, to the full amount of the said sum of five hundred and seventy pounds fifteen shillings; and that the said insurance, so made as aforesaid, was so made to and for the use and benefit and on the account of them the said Walter and John Tate, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. And the said Walter and John Tate further say, that the said ship called the Heart of Oak, in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, with the faid goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforefail, afterwards, and before the said first day of August in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the twenty-third day of July in the year aforesaid, departed and set sail from Grenada aforesaid, with convoy, according to the meaning and effect of the said writing or policy of insurance, for her said intended voyage to Liverpool aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of insurance mentioned; and that afterwards, and whilst the said ship or vessel called the Heart of Oak, with the said goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforesaid, was sailing and proceeding upon the high seas, upon her said voyage, for and towards Liverpool aforesaid, and before the arrived at Liverpool aforesaid, and during the course of the said voyage in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the twenty-fifth day of July in the year aforesaid, the said ship, with the said goods and merchandizes so being on board, was, by the mere perils and dangers of the seas, and by stormy and tempeltuous weather, and the force and violence of the winds and waves, bulged, wrecked, foundered, and funk, whereby the faid goods and merchandizes, so being on board the same ship

Thip as aforefaid, became and were wholly lost to the said Walter and John Tate, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which said premises the said John Taylor afterwards, to wit, on the first day of January in the year of Our Lord 1704, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice: and by reason thereof the said John Taylor then and there became liable to pay to the said Walter and John Tate a large fum of money, to wit, the fum of fifty pounds. in respect of the faid fum of one hundred pounds, so by him infured as aforesaid, according to the meaning and effect of the faid writing or policy of assurance, and of the said promise and undertaking so made by him the said John Taylor in that behalf as aforesaid, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. (A Count for money had and received.) Nevertheless the said John Taylor, not regarding his said several promises and undertakings so by him made as aforefaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said Walter and John Tate in this respect, hath not yet paid the said several sums of money, or any part thereof, to the faid Walter and John Tate, or either of them, nor in any manner fatisfied them for the fame, (although often, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, by the said Walter and John Tate requested so to do;) but so cay the same to the faid Walter and John Tate, or to either of them, or in any manner to fatisfy them for the same, he the said John Taylor bath hitherto wholly refused, and doth still refuse, to the damage of the said Walter and John Tate of two hundred pounds; and therefore they bring their suit, &c.

I Have left unaltered the averment that the ship sailed with convoy from Grenada, for without it I think the declaration would be bad. If the ship sailed under convoy of a man of war appointed by the admiral to earry the merchantmen to the place of rendezvous, it will be a failing with convoy within this policy, though such man of war did not afterwards accompany the steet in the voyage. As far as I can gather of the facts, I think the clause giving liberty to touch, &c. relates only to touching at places in the voyage insured.

SAMUEL HEYWOOD.

Plea.

And the said John Taylor, by Francis Gregg the younger his attorney, comes and defends the wrong and injury, when, &c. and says, that he did not undertake and promise in manner and form as the said Walter and John have above thereof complained against him; and of this he puts himself upon the country, &c. and the said Walter and John do the like, &c.; therefore let a jury thereupon come before our lord the king at Westminster, on next after by whom, &c. and who neither, &c. to recognize, &c. because, as well, &c. the same is given to the parties aforesaid at the same place.

AND

AND the said H. further says, that afterwards, and before the DifferentCounts arrival of the said last mentioned ship, with the said goods and in declarations merchandizes so loaden on board her as last aforesaid, at Rotter- policies of assudam aforesaid, the master and mariners in and on board the said rance on spips and last mentioned ship, in a barratrous and fraudulent manner, goods. without the knowledge and against the will of the said H. took For barratry of and carried away the said last mentioned ship, with the said goods the master and sailors. and merchandizes so on board her as aforesaid, to places unknown to the faid H. and converted and disposed thereof to their own use; and the said H. lost and was thereby deprived of the said last mentioned ship, and the goods and merchandizes so on board her as aforesaid, and the profits thereof.

Declaration on a mies.

LONDON, J. Joachim Famin and Noel Famin complain policy of insu- of George Cawthorne, heing in the custody, &c. for that whereen board a ship as the said Joachim Famin and Noel Famin, on the thirtieth day which was ta- of May A. D. 1780, at L. aforesaid, to wit, at the parish of St. ken by the ene- Mary le Bow, in the ward of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants from time immemorial there used and approved of, caused to be made a certain writing or policy of insurance, purporting thereby and containing therein, that > own name, as for and in the name and names of all and every other person or persons to whom the same might or did appertain in part or in all, did make assurance, and cause, them and every of them, to be insured, lost or not lost, at and from Marseilles to Nantz, warranted to sail on or before the fifth of May 1780, upon any kind of goods and merchandizes whatfoever, loaden or to be loaden on hoard the good ship or vessel called the Concorde, Dutch vessel, whereof was master, under God, for that present voyage, Meynders Fredricks, or whoever elfe should go for master in the said ship, or by what soever other name or names the faid ship, or the master thereof, was or should be named or called; beginning the adventure upon the faid goods and merchandizes from and immediately following the loading thereof on board the said ship at Marseilles, and so should continue and endure until the said ship, with the said goods and merchandizes whatfoever, should be arrived at Nantz; and the fame there fafely landed, and it should be lawful for the said ship in that voyage to stop and stay at any ports or places whatsoever, without prejudice to that infurance; the said goods and merchandizes by agreement should be valued at ing the adventures and perils which they the affurers were contented to bear, and did take upon them in that voyage, they were of the seas, men of war, fire, enemies, pirates, rovers, thieves, jettizons, letters of mart and countermart, surprisals, takings at sea, arrests, restraints, and detainments of all kings, princes, and people of what nation, condition, or quality foever, barratry of the master and mariners, and of all other perils, losses, and misfortunes that had or should come to the hurt, detriment, or damage of the faid goods or merchandizes, or any part thereof.

And in case of any loss or misfortune, it should be lawful for the assureds, their factors, servants, and assigns, to sue, labour, and travel for, in and about the defence, and safeguard, and recovery of the said goods and merchandizes, or any part thereof, without prejudice to that infurance, to the charges whereof they the affurers would contribute, each one according to the rate and quantity of his sum therein assured. And it was agreed by them-the infurers, that that writing or policy of assurance should be of as much . force and effect as the furest writing or policy of affurance theretofore made in Lombard-street, or in the Royal Exchange, or elsewhere in London; and so they the assurers were contented, and did thereby promise and bind themselves, each one for his own part, their heirs, executors, and goods, to the affureds, their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, for the true performance of the premiles; confessing themselves paid for the consideration due unto them for that assurance by the assured, at and after the rate of twenty-five guincas per cent. In witness whereof they the assurers had subscribed their names and assured in London. And, by the faid writing or policy of affurance, corn, fish, salt, fruit, flour, and seed were warranted free from average, unless general, or the ship should be stranded; sugar, tobacco, hemp, flax, hides, and skins were warranted free from average under five pounds per cent. and all other goods all from average under three pounds per cent. unless general, or the ship should be stranded, as by the said writing or policy of assurance, reference being thereunto had, more fully appears; of which faid writing or policy of assurance he the said George sterwards, to wit, on the said thirtieth day of May in the said A. D. 1780, at L. aforesaid, in the parish, &c. aforesaid, had notice. And thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at, &c. aforesaid, in consideration that the said Joachim and Noel, at the special instance and request of the said George, had then and there paid the said George a large sum of money, to wit, the sum of twentynine pounds eight shillings, of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium or reward for the assurance of a large sum of money, to wit, the sum of one hundred and twelve pounds, of like lawful money, of and upon the premises in the fail writing or policy of affurance contained, and had undertaken and then and there faithfully promised the said George to perform and fulfil all things in the faid writing or policy of affurance contained on the part and behalf of the said assured to be done and performed, he the said George undertook, and then and there faithfully promifed the said Joachim and Noel, that he the said George would become an asfurer to the said Joachim and Noel, to wit, for the said sum of one hundred and twelve pounds, of and upon the laid premiles mentioned in the said writing or policy of assurance, and that he would perform and fulfil all things in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf as such assurer, as to the said one hundred and twelve pounds to be performed and fulfilled, Dd 3. according

according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance; and the said George then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance as such assurer, to wit, for the said fum of one hundred and twelve pounds accordingly, that is to fay, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid. And the faid Joachim and Noel do aver, that the faid thip or veffel, in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, at the time of the sailing thereof herein after mentioned, and from thence until and at the time of the loss thereof, herein also after mentioned, was a Dutch vessel, that is to say, at L. aforesaid, at the parish, &c. aforesaid x. And the said Joachim and Noel do aver, that the faid writing or policy of assurance so by them the said Joachim and Noel made as aforesaid, was by them so made in trust for, and for the use, risk, benefit, behalf, and account of Mr. Bilmain, and of certain other persons who carried on trade and commerce in copartnership in foreign parts, under the style and sirm of Gaudin, Enissard, and of certain other persons carrying on trade and commerce in foreign parts under the style and firm of Seurat and Louvel respectively, according to their respective proportions as berein after next mentioned. And the said Joachim and Noel further say, that afterwards, to wit, on the thirtieth day of April in the faid A. D. 1780, divers goods and merchandizes of the said Mr. Bilmain, of great value, to wit, of the value of two hundred and twenty pounds, of like lawful money, and divers other goods of the faid Gaudin and Enistard, of great value, to wit, of the value of one hundred and fifty pounds, of like lawful money, and divers other goods of the said Seurat and Louvel, of great value, to wit, of the value of other one hundred and fifty pounds, of like lawful money, were put on board the said ship or vessel, being a Dutch vessel as aforefaid, to be carried therein upon the voyage, in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parith, &c. aforesaid +. And the said Joachim and Noel further fay, that the faid thip, in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, to wit, at L. aforesaid, in the parish, &c. aforesaid, afterwards, and before the fifth of May in faid A. D. 1780, that is to say, on said thirtieth of April in said A. D. 1780, departed and set sail from Marseilles aforesaid for and towards Nantz, in the said policy of assurance mentioned, with the said goods and merchandizes on board thereof; but that the said ship did never arrive at Nantz aforesaid in that voyage, but, on the contrary thereof, the faid thip, failing and proceeding on her faid voyage, with the said goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforesaid, after her departure from Marseilles aforesaid, and before her arrival at Nantz aforesaid, viz. on the thirtieth day of May in the year of Our Lord 1780, was, in and upon the high feas, with force and arms, and in an bestile manner, attacked, conquered, Taken by ene- taken, and carried away by certain persons to the said Joachim and Noel unknown; and the said ship, and goods and merchandizes on board thereof as aforelaid, were thereby wholly lost to the pro-

proprietors thereof, that is to say, at L. aforesaid, in the parish, &c. aforesaid; of all which premises the said George afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at L. aforesaid, in the parish, &c. aforesaid, had notice: and, by reason of the premiles, the said George then and there became liable, and ought to have paid to the said Joachim and Noel a large sum of money, to wit, the said sum of one hundred and twelve pounds, so by him insured as aforesaid, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance, and his said promise and undertaking so by him made in that behalf as aforesaid, to wit, at London (2d Count like the On the goods. aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. first, till you come to this mark x, then proceed thus): And the said Joachim and Noel further say, that afterwards, to wit, on the thirtieth of April in the said A. D. 1780, divers goods and merchandizes of great value, to wit, of the value of five hundred and twenty pounds, of like lawful money, were loaden on board the faid ship, to be carried in the said ship on the voyage in the said last mentioned writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and remained on board thereof until the loss thereof hereinafter mentioned, and that the faid last mentioned writing or policy of assurance, so made as last aforesaid, was made for the use, benefit, risk, and account of the owners of such goods and merchandizes last mentioned, that is to say, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, &c.; (then go on from this mark + to the end of the Count, then add a Count for money had and received). Nevertheless the said George, not regarding his said several promises and undertakings *by him made as aforesaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said Joachim and Noel, in this behalf hath not paid to the said Joachim and Noel, or to either of them, the faid several sums of money, or either of them, or any part thereof, (although afterwards, to wit, on the twenty-fourth of February A. D. 1781, and often fince. at L. aforesaid, at the parish, &c. aforesaid, requested so to do,) but to pay the same to them, or either of them, he the said George hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, to the damage of the said Joachim and Noel of 1.; and therefore they bring suit, &c. Pledges, &c.

And the said George Cawthorne, by Robert Ellis his attorney, Demurrer comes and defends the wrong and injury, when, &c; and as to thereto. the first Count of the said declaration saith, that the said first Count, and the matters therein contained, in manner and form as the same are above pleaded and set forth, are not sufficient in law for the said Joachim and Noel to have their aforesaid action thereof, in that respect, maintained against him; to which said first Count, and the matter therein contained, in manner and form as the same are above pleaded and set forth, he the said George Cawthorne is not under any necessity, nor in any wise bound by the law of the land, to answer; and this he the said George Cawthorne is ready to verify; wherefore, for want of a sufficient first to the said first Count, if the said Joachim and Noel ought to have their aforesaid action thereof maintained against him. And for causes of demurrer in law to the said first Count, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided, he the said George sets down, and shows to the Court here, the causes Causes of de- following; that is to say, For that it does not appear in or by the said first Count of the said declaration, that the said Joachim or Noel had any interest in the said writing or policy of assurance in the said first Count mentioned, or in the goods and merchandizes thereby affured; but on the contrary thereof, it appears in and by the said first Count of the said declaration, that the said writing or policy of assurance in the said first Count of the said declaration mentioned, was made in trust for, and for the use, risk, benefit, behalf, and account of Mr. Bilmain and certain other persons who carried on trade and commerce in copartnership in foreign parts, under the style and firm of Gaudin and Enissard, and of certain other persons carrying on trade and commerce in foreign parts, under the style and firm of Seurat and Louvel respectively, according to their respective proportions in the said first Count mentioned: and for that it does not appear, in or by the said first Count of the said declaration, that the said Joachim and Noel have any right of action whatfoever in that respect in their own right against the said George Cawthorne, or that they or either of them have sustained any damage or injury by the said capture and loss therein mentioned: and for that there are divers blanks and void spaces in the said first Count of the said declaration, which render the sense thereof wholly vague, uncertain, and obscure: and for that the said first Count of the said declaration is, in many other respects, uncertain, insufficient, and informal. &c. as to the second Count of the said declaration, the said George Cawthorne saith, that the said second Count, and the matters therein contained in manner and form as the same are above pleaded and let forth, are not sufficient in law for the said Joachim and Noel to have their aforesaid action thereof maintained against him; to which said second Count, and the matters therein contained in manner and form as the same are above pleaded and set forth, he the faid George Cawthorne is not under any necessity, nor in anywife bound by the law of the land to answer; and this he the said George Cawthorne is ready to verify: wherefore, for want of a sufficient second Count to the said declaration in this behalf, he prays judgment as to the faid second Count if the said Joachim and Noel ought to have their aforesaid action thereof maintained against him. And for causes of demurrer to the said second Count, according to the form of the statute in such case, &c. he the said George sets down, and shews to the Court here, the causes following; that is to say, For that it does not appear in or by the said second Count of the said declaration, that the said Joachim and Noel had any interest in the said writing or policy of assurance in the said second Count mentioned, or in the goods Das and merchandizes thereby assured; but it thereby appears that the faid last-mentioned writing or policy of assurance was made for the use, benefit, risk, and account of the owners of such goods. and merchandizes in the said second Count reentioned; and for that the particular names of the said owners of the said last-mentioned goods and merchandizes, or any or either of them, are not nor is mentioned, expressed, specified, or declared in or by the said second Count of the said declaration; and for that it does not appear in or by the said second Count, that the said Joachim and Noel were the owners thereof; and for that it does not appear in or by the said second Count of the said declaration, that they the said Joachim and Noel have any right of action whatsoever in that respect in their own right against the said George, or that they, or either of them, have sustained any damage or injury by the said capture and loss in the said second Count mentioned; and for that there are divers blanks and void spaces in the said second Count of the said declaration, which render the sense thereof wholly vague, uncertain, and obscure; and for that the said second Count of the said declaration is in many other respects uncertain, insufficient, and informal, &c. And as to the said last Count of the said declaration, the said George Cawthorne saith, that he did not undertake or promise in manner and form as the said Joachim and Noel have above in that behalf complained against him; and of this he puts himself upon the country; and the said Joachim and Noel do C. RUNNINGTON. the like, &c.

GEO. WOOD.

I Have considered mele demurrers, and am of opinion they will not hold. In the first demurrer three causes are asfigned: 1st, Because it does not appear that the plaintiffs bad any interest in the policy or the goods infured; adly, that no right of action appears in the plaintiffs; 3dly, that there are blanks which render the fense of the declaration in those parts uncertain. As to the first and second causes, I think that by payment of the premium, and making the contract, the plaintiffs have an interest in the policy, and a right of action for a breach of the contract, and that it is sufficient for maintaining the action, that there was a real interest in some body, for whose use the poliey was made in the goods loaden on board the ship, and lost by the capture. And as to the third cause of demurrer, I do not observe any blanks except in the instrument of infurance, called the poligy; and that being the identical contract, it must be set forth as it is, and the Court will construe it according to the apparent and utual fenfe in which it has for a great number of years had its effect amongst merchants, and about what there is no difficulty, doubt, or uncertainty. The causes in the second demurrer are the same, except that no names of persons are particularly specified subo swere owners of the goods: but I think that makes no difference, as it is shewn that goods were loaden on board the ship of more value than the sum insured; and that the infurance was made for the benefit of the owners of such goods: for this only became necessary at all since the act of parliament which makes infurance without interest void. The blanks objected to by this demurrer are in the policy, not in the declaration; therefore my opinion is the same as upon the blanks mentioned in the other demurrer.

THOMAS DAYENPORT.

Declaration on infurance on thip and cargo.

THAT whereas, &c. (state the policy in the usual way). And, two policies of by the said writing or policy of assurance, the said ship therein mentioned was warranted to proceed on that voyage with fixty men, and that the said ship was equipped with twenty-two guns, eighteen and fix pound shot, and sheathed with copper, as by the faid writing or policy of infurance, relation being thereunto had, will more tully and at large appear; of which faid writing or policy of assurance the said Thomas Parkison afterwards, to wit, on the first of November A. D. 1780, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice. And thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said William Jolly, at the special instance and request of the said Thomas Parkison, had then and there paid to the said Thomas Parkison a large sum of money, to wit, the sum of twenty-five pounds four shillings of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the insurance of three hundred pounds of and upon the ship in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, (and also another large fum of money, to wit, the fum of fixteen pounds fixteen thillings of like lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the assurance of two hundred pounds, of and upon goods on board the faid ship, for the voyage in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned,) and had undertaken, and then and there faithfully promised the said I homas Parkison to perform and sulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of affurance contained, on the part and behalf of the affured to be performed and fulfilled, he the said Thomas Parkison undertook, and to the said William Jully then and there faithfully promited, that he would become an assurer to the said William Jolly for the said sum of three hundred pounds of and upon the said ship, (and also for the faid fum of two hundred pounds of and upon the faid goods on board thereof as aforesaid); and the said Thomas Parkison then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance, as such assurer, for the said sum of three hundred pounds (and two hundred pounds respectively) accordingly, that is to say, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid. And the said William Jolly in tact says, that the said writing or policy of assurance so made as aforesaid, (as to the said ship therein mentioned, and valucd as aforefaid,) was so made to and for the use, benefit, and risk of himself the said William Jolly, and Peter Masters, Rebecca Hizabeth Beaty, (administratrix of Robert Beaty,) John Wood, John Marlow, Edward Stewart, and Robert Boyd. (and as to the goods on board thereof for the benefit of himself the said William Jolly;) and the faid William Jolly, Peter Masters, Rebecca Elizabeth Beaty, John Wood, John Marlow, Edward Stewart, and Rubert Boyd, before and at the time of the loss of the said ship hereinaster mentioned, was interested in the said ship valued as aforesaid, (and that the said W. J. before and at the time of the loss hereinafter mentioned, was interetted in goods on posid board the said ship to a large amount, to wit, the sum of thirty-three pounds eighteen shillings of like lawful money, that is to say, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid.) And the said William Jolly in fact further says, that the said ship, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, sailed and proceeded from London aforesaid upon the said voyage, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, with fixty men, equipped according to the warranty aforesaid, and sheathed with copper; and that the faid thip afterwards, to wit, on the twentieth day of November in the said year of Our Lord 1780, being at Cork, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and in the course of the voyage therein also mentioned, the said ship afterwards, to wit. on the same day and year last aforesaid, sailed safely from Cork aforesaid, for and towards the West Indies in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, (with divers goods on board thereof) to a large value and amount, to wit, to the value and amount of thirty-three pounds eighteen shillings of like lawful money, and which had been before that time loaden on board the faid thip at Cork and London respectively, to be carried in the said ship to and upon the voyage in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, that is to say, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid.) And the said William Jolly in fact further says, that the faid thip never did arrive at any of the West India islands in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, but, on the contrary thereof, the said ship (with the said goods on board thereof as aforesaid) sailed and proceeded in and upon the high seas after her departure from Cork aforesaid, and before her arrival at any of the West India islands in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the fifth day of January in the year of Our Lord 178:, was, in and upon the high leas, with force and arms, and in an hostile manner, attacked, conquered, taken, and carried away by certain persons to the said William Jolly unknown, and thereby the said ship and goods on board thereof, to the value aforesaid, became and were totally lost to the proprietors thereof, that is to say, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which premises the said Thomas Parkison afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, there had notice: and by reason thereof the said Thomas Parkison then and there became liable to pay, and ought to have paid to the said William Jolly the said sums of three hundred pounds (and two hundred pounds), making together the fum of five hundred pounds of like lawful money, according to the form and effect of the faid writing or policy of affurance, and of his promifes and undertakings in that behalf as aforesaid, that is to say, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. And whereas also, before the 2d Count on a making of the promise of the said Thomas Parkison hereinaster different ship. next mentioned, to wit, on the fourteenth day of August in the year of Our Lord 1780, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, he the said William Jolly had caused to be made a

certain other writing or policy of assurance, for the assurance of a certain other ship called the Mary, of great value, to wit, of the value of other four thousand pounds of like lawful money, and of divers goods of great value, to wit, of the value of other three thousand three hundred and eighteen pounds of like lawful money on board thereof, on a voyage at and from London to Cork and the West India islands, with liberty to call at St. Eustatia; upon which faid last mentioned writing or policy of assurance, he the said Thomas Parkison, before the time of making his promise and undertaking hereinafter mentioned, to wit, on the same day and year last mentioned, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had become an assurer to the said William Jolly for the (several) sums of three hundred pounds upon the ship (and two hundred pounds upon the goods on board thereof). And whereas also, before the making of the promise of the said Tho-, mas Parkison hereinafter mentioned, the said last-mentioned ship called the Mary, (with goods on board thereof as last aforesaid in that voyage), to wit, on the fifth day of January in the said year 1781, was taken by certain persons to the said William Jolly unknown, and thereby (together with the goods on board) was lest to the proprietors thereof, to wit, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which last-mentioned premises be the said Thomas Parkison afterwards, to wit, on the sixth day of March in the faid year of Our Lord 1781, there had notice: and the said Thomas Parkison being such assurer as last aforesaid, and the said ship being so lost as last aforesaid, he the said Thomas Parkison in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, undertook, and to the said William Jolly then and there faithfully promised to pay him one hundred pounds per cent. upon his subscriptions to the said last mentioned writing or policy of assurance, in one month from the said fixth day of March in the said year of Our Lord 1781; by reason whereof the said Thomas Parkison became liable to pay to the said William Jolly the (several) sums of three hundred pounds (and two hundred pounds so subscribed by him as last aforesaid, amounting in the whole to the sum of five hundred pounds), in one month from the said sixth day of March in the said year of Our Lord 1781, that is to say, at London aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid.

ther (notwithstanding the interests are different) in the declaration according to practice. Put though such practice is convenient by way of saving multiplicity of suits, yet, as I cannot think it good in point of law, as it is joining of causes of action in different rights of the same action, I would advise application to defendant's attorney to consent not to take any advantage of it that cannot be refused, as it is for the benefit of all. The third special Count is upon the adjustment, and is the Count upon which I would recommend the plaintiffs to found their complaint, without going upon either of the others. Upon that Count, proof of the subscription, and of the loss, is sufficient to throw the east upon defendant to prove imposition, with regard to the circumstances, in order to get sid of their adjustment; plaintiffs, however, must be prepared to prove the whole of the case, according to the first and fecond Counts, in case the Court should force him to prove the circumstances, under the idea that they are not admitted by the adjustment: as to the Arich merits, I am clear, from the face of the protest, that the policy is vacated by the cruifing after the Spanish ship, and thereby deviated from the direct course of the voyage. But I contend, that if all the facts in the protest were known to the underwriter at the time they fettled the adjustments, they have waived any benefit they might otherwife have had.

faid goods and merchandizes, ship, &c. or any part thereof; and in case of any loss or missortune, it should be lawful to the assured, their factors, servants, and assigns, to sue, labour, and travel for, in and about the defence, lafeguard, and recovery of the faid goods, merchandizes, ship, &c. or any part thereof, without prejudice to the infurance; to the charges whereof they the faid infurers would contribute, each one according to the rate and quantity of his sum therein insured. And it was agreed by them the assurers, that that writing or policy of assurance should be of as much force and effect as the furest writing or policy of assurance theretofore made in Lombard-street, or in the Royal Exchange, or elsewhere in London; and so they the said assurers were contented, and did by the said policy of assurance promise and bind themselves, each one for his own part, their heirs, executors, and goods, to the assured, their executors, administrators, and assigns, for the true performance of the premises, confessing themselves paid the condition due to them for that allurance by the assured, at and after the rate of fifteen guineas per cent. to return five per cent. if the departed with convoy, and eight per cent. without convoy, for the voyage, and arrived; and by a certain memorandum thereunder written, corn, fish, salt, fruits, flour, and feed, were warranted free from average, unless general, or the ship were stranded; sugar, tobacco, hemp, flax, hides, and Ikins warranted free from average, under five per cent. and all other goods, also the ship and freight, were warranted free from average, under three per cent. unless general, or the ship was stranded; and by a certain other memorandum under the said policy, it was declared, that the following insurance was one half of forty bogsheads of sugar from the estate of S. H. deceased, and consigned to the said asfured, and valued at twelve pounds ten shillings per hogshead, marked S. H. the other half being infured by thip or thips the ninth day of December 1776, and on rum at nine pounds per puncheon, as by the faid writing or policy of infurance more fully appears; of which faid writing or policy of insurance he the faid Joseph afterwards, to wit, on the said twentieth day of August in the year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice: and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. in confideration that the faid W. at the special instance and request of the said Joseph, had then and there paid to the faid Joseph the sum of fifteen guineas as a premium, and receive of for the insurance of one hundred pounds of and upon the premises mentioned in the said writing or policy of insurance as to the said one half of forty hogsheads of sugar and rum, and bad then and there faithfully promifed to perform and fulfil all things in the writing or policy of insurance contained on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled as to the said one half of forty hogsheads of sugar and rum, he the said Joseph undertook, and to the said W. then and there faithfully promised, that the said Joseph would become an assurer to the said William for the said one hundred pounds of and upon the said premises mentioned in the said writing or policy of insurance as to the said one half of forty hogsheads of sugar and rum, and would perform and fulfil all things in the writing or policy of insurance on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled, as such assurer, as to the said one hundred pounds as aforesaid: and the said W. further saith, that he the said W. at the time of the making the said writing or policy of insurance, and continually from thence until and at the time of the capture and loss hereinafter mentioned, was interested in the faid sugars and rum to a large value and amount, to wit, the value of all the monies ever insured thereon, to wit, at London aforesaid, &c.: and the said W. further says, that the said ship in the said writing or policy of insurance mentioned, with the said sugars and rum on board thereof, before the said first day of August in the said year of Our Lord 1776, to wit, on the twenty-first day of July in the year aforesaid, set sail and departed from St. Anne's Bay at Jamaica aforesaid, where she had been loaden and had taken on board her cargo for the faid voyage, ready to perform the faid voyage in the faid policy mentioned, and proceeded from St. Anne's Bay aforelaid on the faid voyage, to a certain place on the high feas near thereto, called Bluefields, in order to join, and for the purpole of joining, a certain convoy there, which was then about to fail from thence to Great Britain, and did then and there join the faid convoy; and afterwards, to wit, on the ninth day of August in the year aforesaid, the said ship in the said writing or policy of insurance mentioned, with the said Sugars and rum on board thereof, set sail and departed from Bluefields aforefuld, in company with divers other ships and vesfels, and with and under the faid convoy on her said voyage to the port of L. aforesaid: and the said W. further saith, that the faid ship, with the said sugars and rum on board, afterwards, and before her arrival at London aforesaid, to wit, on the first day of September A. D. 1776, then sailing and proceeding on her said voyage in the high seas, was with force and arms, and in a hostile manner, attacked, conquered, and taken by certain rebellious American subjects of our lord the king, and by means thereof the said sugars and rums became and were wholly lost to the said W.; of all which faid premises the said Joseph asterwards, to wit, on the first day of October in the year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice; and was then and there requested by the said William to pay him the said sum of one hundred pounds so insured as aforesaid, and which the said Joseph ought to have paid to the said William, according to the form and effect of the said policy, and his said promise and undertaking so made as aforesaid. And whereas also the said W. on. &c. at, &c. according to the custom of merchants, did cause to same policy, the be written and made a certain other writing of insurance, (the po- ship having been licy set out the same as in first Count,) as by the said writ- captured by piing or policy of assurance last mentioned more fully appears; rates, statingship ad Plea, as to last Count, tender of filteen gaineas.

And the faid Joseph, by T. H. his attorney, comes and defends General Issue, the wrong and injury, when, &c. and as to the said promise and undertaking in the said declaration first, secondly, and thirdly mentioned, and also as to the said promise and undertaking in the said declaration last above mentioned, says, that he did not promile and undertake in magner and form as the said William hath above complained against him; and of this he puts himself upon the country, &c.; and the said W. doth the like. And as to the said promise and undertaking in the said declaration last above mentioned as to fifteen guineas, parcel of the said one hundred pounds therein contained, the said Joseph says, that the said William ought not to have or maintain his said action to recover any damages by reason of the non-payment of the said sum of fifteen guineas, because he says, that after the making of the said promise and undertaking in the said declaration last above mentioned as to the faid fifteen guineas, and before the day of exhibiting the bill of the said W. to wit, on the first day of October A. D. 1776, at, &c. he the said Joseph tendered and offered to pay to the said W. the said sisteen guineas, which the said W. then and there refused to accept from the said Joseph: and the said J. further fays, that he the said Joseph, from the time of the making of the promise and undertaking in the said declaration lastly mentioned as to the faid fifteen guineas, hitherto always hath been, and Itill is, ready to pay to the said William the said fifteen guineas; and the said Joseph brings the same into court, ready to be paid to the said W. if the said W. would accept the same from the said Joseph; and this he is ready to verify; wherefore he prays judgthent, if the faid W. ought to have his aforefaid action for recovery of damages, by reason of the non-payment of the said fum of fifteen guineas, against him, &c.

And hereupon the said W. freely accepts the said sum of fif-Acceptance of teen guineas so brought here into court; wherefore the said Wil- the fisteen guiliam is satisfied as to the said suffeen guineas, and the said Joseph neas, and wenire is thereof acquitted; and for trying the said issue above joined, let awarded to try the other issue. a jury come before our lord the king at Westminster, on by whom, &c. who neither, &c. to recognext after nize, &c. because as well, &c. the same day is given to the said parties there.

rance, and had undertaken, and to the said defendant then and there faithfully promifed to perform and fulfil all things contained in the said writing or policy of assurance, on the part and behalf of the infured to be performed and fulfilled, the said defendant undertook, and to the said plaintiffs then and there saithfully promised, that he the said T. would become an assurer for the said sum of two hundred pounds of and upon the premises aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of insurance mentioned, or contained on his part and behalf as such assurer as to the said sum of two hundred pounds to be performed and fulfilled, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance, and then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of affurance as such asfurer for the faid fum of two hundred pounds. And the faid plaintiffs further say, that the said ship or vessel called, &c. after the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the fixth day of September in the year aforesaid, was in good safety at the coast of Africa aforesaid, and was then and there loaded with divers negro flaves, to wit, five hundred negro flaves of great value, to wit, of the value of fifteen thousand pounds, for his said voyage. And the said plaintisfs further say, that the said writing or policy of assurance so made in the name of the said W. G. was made for and on behalf, and for the use, interest, and benefit, and on the joint account of the said plaintiffs; and that the said plaintiffs, at the time of making the said writing or policy of asfurance, and from that time, until and at the respective times of the damages, loss, and misfortunes hereinafter mentioned, were Interested in the said negro slaves so loaden on board the said ship or vessel cailed the Zong, to a large value, to wit, to the value of all the money by the said plaintiffs ever insured or caused to be infured thereon. And the said plaintiffs further say, that the said ship or vessel called the Zong, with the said negro slaves so loaden on board her as aforesaid, and so being in good safety as aforesaid, and having on board a reasonable and proper quantity of water for such a voyage as aforesaid, afterwards, to wit, on the said sixth day of reptember 1781, departed and let fail from the coast of Africa aforesaid towards the island of Jamaica in the British West Indies; and the same ship, with the same negro slaves so loaden on board her as aforefaid, failing and proceeding on her faid voyage from the coast of Africa towards the island of Jamaica aforesaid, and before her arrival there, to wit, at divers times before her said arrival there, by the perils of the sea, by violent and contrary winds, currents, and other misfortunes, was rendered foul and leaky, and was delayed, hindered, and retarded in her faid voyage; and by reason thereof so much of the water on board the said ship for the faid voyage was necessarily consumed and spent on board the said thip, that afterwards, and before the arrival of the said thip or vellel at the faid island of Jamaica aforesaid, in her voyage asoresaid, to wit, on the twenty-ninth day of November 1781, a sufficient supply or quantity of water did not remain on board the same ship or vessel for preserving the lives of the master and mariners riners belonging to the said ship and then on board the same, and of the said negro slaves so loaded and being on board her as aforesaid, for the residue of the said voyage; and by reason thereof afterwards, during the laid voyage, and before the arrival of the said thip or vessel at the island of Jamaica aforesaid, to wit, on the said twenty-ninth day of November 1781 aforesaid, and at divers other days and times between that day and the arrival of the faid ship or vessel at the island of Jamaica aforesaid, divers, to wit, sixty of the said negro slayes, then being on board the said ship or vessel, perished and died for want of water for their sustenance and support, and were wholly lost to the said plaintiffs; and divers others, to wit, forty other of the faid negro flaves so loaded and being on board the said ship or vessel, for want of water for their sustenance and support, and by their extreme thirst and phrenzy occasioned thereby, were compelled to throw themselves, and did throw themselves, into the sea, and thereby perished and were drowned, and totally lost to the said plaintiffs; and the master and mariners, for the necessary preservation of their own lives and the lives of the residue of the said negro slaves on board the said ship or vessel, and which, by reason of the said insufficiency of water, occasioned by the means aforesaid, they could not have otherwise preserved, were obliged to throw overboard into the sea divers, to wit, one hundred and fifty other of the faid negro flaves, whereby the faid last mentioned negro slaves perished and were drowned in the fea, and were totally lost to the said plaintists, whereby a loss above five pounds, to wit, fifty pounds by the hundred for every hundred, of the value of the said negro slaves, so loaded on board the said Thip or vessel, and insured as aforesaid, accrued thereon to the said plaintiffs; of all which premises the said defendant afterwards, to wit, on the first day of January 1783, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice; and by reason thereof, then and there ought to have paid to the said plaintiffs a large sum of money, to wit, the sum of one hundred pounds, in respect of the faid sum of two hundred pounds, so by him insured as aforesaid, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of infurance, and of his said promise and undertaking in that behalf made as aforesaid. faid in that behalf, &c. (Breach; money had a id receive i; and breach.)

LONDON, to with J. L. and D. F. H. complain of R. H. Declaration on a being, &c: for that whereas, on the twenty-third of April 1724, policy of affura at London aforesaid, to wit, in the parish, &c. one H. C. as agent an agent. of, and to and for the use and benefit of the said J. and D. caused First Count. to be made a certain writing or policy of assurance, purporting-Loss by barratry thereby, and containing therein, that the said H. C. as well in his of the matter own name as for and in the name and names of all and every (po-generally. licy of assurance in the usual form, Cetta to Guernsey,) one thousand pounds on ship, and five hundred pounds on freight, as by the said writing or policy of assurance, telation being thereto had, may more fully appear; of which faid writing or policy of assurance so made or written as aforesaid, the said R. H. afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at, &c. in consideration that the said plaintiffs; at the special instance and request of the said defendant, had paid to the faid defendant the furn of pounds of, &c. as a premium or reward for the assurance of pounds of and upon the premises aforefaid contained in the said writing or policy of asrance as to the faid ship and freight, each valued as aforesaid, and had undertaken, and then and there faithfully promised the said plaintiffs to do, perform, and fulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on their parts and behalf to be done, performed and fulfilled, as fuch affured, as to the faid thip and freight, he the said defendant undertook, and to the said plaintiff then and there faithfully promised, that he the said defendant would become an affurer to the said plaintiff for the said sum of one hundred and fifty pounds of, &c. upon the premiles as aforesaid, and that he would do, perform, and fulfil every thing in the said writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf to be done, performed, and fulfilled, as such assurer, as to the said one hundred and fifty pounds of and upon the faid premises, to wit, at, &c.: and the faid plaintiffs in fact fay, that the said policy of asfurance, so made in the name of him the said H. C. was so made in his name to and for the use, benefit, risk, and account of them the said plaintists, and that they the said plaintists, at the time of making the faid writing or policy of assurance, and from thence continually until and at the time of the loss hereinafter next mentioned, were interested in the said premises, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to a great amount, to wit, to the amount of all and every the sum and sums of money by the said plaintiffs ever insured or caused to be insured. And the said plaintiffs in fact say, that before and at the time of the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the said twenty-third of April 1784, the said thip or vessel, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, was in fafety at the port of Cetta in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and that divers goods and merchandizes of Ff2 great great value, to wit, of the value of forty thousand pounds, were loaden and put on board the faid ship, to be carried in the said ship from Cetta aforesaid to Guernsey aforesaid, in the said writing or policy of affurance mentioned, and that the said goods and merchandizes remained and continued on board the faid ship from thence until the time of the loss hereinafter next mentioned. the said plaintiffs surther say, that the said ship or vessel, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, asterwards, to wit, on the second of May 1784, with the said goods and merchandizes in and on board her as aforesaid, departed and set sail from the said port of Cetta aforesaid, upon the said intended voyage to Guernsey aforefaid, in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned x; and that afterwards, and before the arrival of the faid thip or vessel, with the said goods and merchandizes so on board her as aforesaid, at Guernsey aforesaid, to wit, on the ninth of June 1784, the said E. A. being then such master and commander of the said ship or vessel, and on board the said ship or vessel, and the said goods and merchandizes so on board her as aforesaid, by and through the fraud and barratry of the said E. A. the said master of the said ship or vessel, became and were wholly lost to the said plaintiffs, and the faid plaintiffs thereby lost all benefit and profit arising from the fame, and the whole freight so insured as aforesaid, to wit, at, &c. in the parish, &c.; of all which premises the said defendant afterwards, and before the exhibiting of the faid bill, to wit, on the first of January 1785, at, &c. had notice; and by reason thereof the faid defendant became liable to pay, and ought to have paid to the faid plaintiffs, the faid furn of one hundred and fifty pounds for assured by him as aforesaid of and upon the premises in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, according to the form and effect thereof, and of his faid promise and undertaking so by him made as aforefaid, in the parish and ward aforefaid. (Second Count same as first down to x.) And the said plaintiffs surther That the master say, that the said E. A. being such master and commander of the of the thip put faid last mentioned thip or vessel and on board the same, and besome smuggled fore the arrival of the said last mentioned ship or vessel at Guernsey brandyon board, aforesaid, the said E.A. did proceed and sail with the said last mentioned ship or vessel, and the said goods and merchandizes last menfeited, and was tioned being in and on board the same, to and into the port of Plyafterwards feiz- mouth in the county of Devon in this kingdom, without the will, knowledge, or confent of the said plaintiffs. And the said plaintiffs further say, that whilst the said last-mentioned ship or vested, with the faid last-mentioned goods and merchandizes on board her as last aforesaid, remained and continued in the port of Plymouth aforesaid, to wit, on the ninth of June 1784, and on divers other times between that time and the time of the seizure and condemnation of the said ship or vessel hereinaster mentioned, he the said E. A. in a borratrous and fraudulent manner, and contrary to the form of the statute in that case made and provided, and without the knowledge, privity, and consent, and against the will of the said plaintiffs or either of them, did unship from and on board the said ship or vessel, to be laid on land in the said port of Plymouth aforefaid, divers large quantities of brandy and coffee of and belonging to him the said E. A. and being in and on board the said ship of vessel last mentioned, on the account and adventure of himself the faid E. A. and not the property of, or on account or adventure of the faid plaintiffs, brought and imported from parts beyond the seas into Great Britain in the said ship or vessel last mentioned, the customs, subsidies, and other duties due and payable to our sovereign lord the nowking, not being first paid or lawfully tendered to the collectors of the said customs at Plymouth aforesaid, or to any other person whatsoever there or elsewhere lawfully entitled to receive the same, or to the said collector's deputy with the consent or agreement of the said comptroller or surveyor there, or one of them at least, nor agreed with him for the same at the custom-house, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided; whereby, and according to the form of the said statute, the said last-mentioned ship became and was forfeited to our lord the king for the cause last aforesaid; and thereupon the said last-mentioned thip or vessel was seized and arrested on the behalf and account, and to and for the use of our said lord the king, and afterwards, to wit, on the twenty-eighth of November 1784, was in due form of law condemned as forfeited, according to the form of the statute in such case made and provided; and by reason of the premises last aforesaid, the last mentioned ship or vessel, by and through the said fraud and barratry of the said master, became and was wholly lost to the said plaintiffs, and the said plaintiffs thereby lost all benefit and profit arising from the same, and the whole freight so infured as aforesaid, to wit, at, &c. whereof, &c. and by reason. &c, (Money had and received; an account stated; breach.)

LONDON, to wit. For that whereas the said John, on, &c. Declaration on a at, &c. according to the ulage and cultom of merchants from time policy of affurimmemorial used and approved of within this kingdom, had caused ance on a thip to be written and made a certain writing of assurance, commonly and goods, that called a policy of assurance, purporting thereby, and containing and was lest. therein, that the faid plaintiff, as well in his own name as for and in the name and names of all and every other person and persons to whom the same did, might, or should appertain in part or in all, did make assurance, and cause him and them, and every of them. to be insured, lost or not lost, at and from D. to P. upon any kind of goods and merchandizes, and also upon the body, tackle, apparel, ordnance, munition, artillery, boat, and other furniture of and in the good ship or vessel called the Two Brothers, whereof was mafter under God for that present voyage W. M. or whosoever else should go for the master in the said thip, or by whatsoever other name or names the same ship, or the master thereof, was or should be named or called, &c. &c. (set out the policy being an nsurance from Dover to Philadelphia upon the ship Two Brothers, it a certain premium, &c. &c.) as by the said writing or policy of assurance, reference being thereto had, may more fully and at large appear; of which said writing or policy of assurance he the said William afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. in confideration that the faid Thomas, at the special instance and request of the said William, had then and there paid to him the said William the sum of four guineas, that is to fay, the fum of four pounds four shillings of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium or reward for the assurance of two hundred pounds of like lawful money on the field ship and goods mentioned in the said writing or policy of assurance, and had then and there undertaken and faithfully promised the said William to perform and fulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on the part and behalf of the assured to be performed and fulfilled, he the faid William undertook, and then and there faithfully promifed the faid Thomas that he the faid William would become an affurer to him the said Thomas of the faid sum of two hundred pounds upon the ship and goods aforesaid, and would perform and fulfil all things in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf, as such assurer, to be performed and fulfilled; and the said William then and there became an affurer to the said Thomas, and then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance as such assurer of the faid fum of two hundred pounds as aforefaid. And the said Thomas further saith, that before the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on, &c. divers goods and merchandizes of a large value were laden on board the said ship or vessel called, &c in the faid writing or policy of affurance mentioned, in the port of D. aforesaid, to wit, at, &c. in, &c. x; and that at the time of the making of the faid writing or policy of assurance, and from thence and until and at the time of the loss of the said ship or goods hereinafter mentioned, he the said Thomas was interested in the said ship or vessel, and in the said goods and merchandizes, so laden on board of the said ship or vessel as aforesaid, to a large value, to wit, to the amount of all the money by him ever infured and caused to be insured thereon, to wit, at, &c. in, And the faid Thomas further faith, that the said ship or vesfel called, &c. with the said goods and merchandizes so laden on board thereof, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. departed and fet sail from the port of D. aforesaid in her said intended voyage towards and for Philadelphia in the laid writing or policy of affurance mentioned; but that the said ship or vessel did not arrive in safety at P. aforesaid, nor finish her said voyage; but that the same ship, and the faid goods and merchandizes to laden on board thereof as aforesaid, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. whilst sailing and proceeding in his said voyage towards and for Philadelphia aforesaid, and before her arrival at P. aforesaid, upon the high seas, by the danger of the seas, and the force and violence of storms and tempests there, was in her said voyage foundered, beat and broken to pieces, funk, and totally lost in the sea; of all which said premises afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice; and was then and there requested by the said Thomas to pay him the said sum so assured as aforesaid, and which he the said William then and there ought to have paid to the faid Thomas, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance, and of the said promise and undertaking so by him made in form aforesaid: yet she said William, not regarding his said promise and undertaking so by him made in manner and form aforesaid, but contriving, &c. the said Thomas in this behalf, hath not paid the said sum of two hundred pounds so assured as aforesaid, or any part thereof, to the faid Thomas, but he to do this hath hitherto wholly refused, and still refuses so to do. And whereas the said Thomas, on, &c. at, Second Count, &c. according to the usage Acc had caused to be written &c. &c. That affurance &c. according to the usage, &c. had caused to be written, &c. &c. was made in (Go on verbatim as in the first Count, reciting the policy, till trust for assuyou come to this mark x, then proceed as follows:) And the said reds severally Thomas avers, that the said assurance so made by the said Thomas and respective. as last aforesaid, was made by him in trust for the use and benefit 19: of A. B. C. D. and E. F. severally and respectively, as to their feveral and respective interests in the said ship and goods so assured as last aforesaid; and that at the time of the making of the said lastmentioned writing or policy of assurance, and from thence, until, and at the time of the loss of the said last-mentioned ship and vessel, and goods hereinafter mentioned, they the said A. B. C. D. and E. F. were severally and respectively interested in the said lastmentioned ship or vessel, and in the said last-mentioned goods and merchandizes so laden on board of the said last-mentioned ship or yellel as aforelaid, to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the money by him the said Thomas, or by the said A. B. C. D. and E. F. or any of them, ever insured or caused to be insured on their respective interests in the said last-mentioned ship or vessel and goods, to wit, at, &c. And the said Thomas in sact further fays, that the faid last-mentioned ship or vessel called, &c. with the said last-mentioned goods and merchandizes so laden on board thereof as aforefaid, afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. set sail, &c. &c. LONDON, towit. Abraham Le Mesurier complains of John policy of affur- Saunders, being, &c. for that whereas the faid plaintiff on the ance on a ship seventeenth day of July A. D. 1773, at London aforesaid, to wit, in the parish of St. Mary le Bow, in the ward of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants, caused or procured to be made a certain writing or policy of affurance, purporting thereby, and containing therein, that the faid plaintiff, as well in his own name as for and in the name and names of all and every other person and persons to whom the same did, might, or should appertain, in part or in all, did make assurance, and cause him, them, and every of them, to be insured, lost or not lost, at and from latitude 45 and 53 north, longitude 6 west, to Guernsey or her first port in England, upon any kind of goods, and also upon the body, tackle, apparel, ordnance, munition, artillery, boat, and other furniture, of and in the good thip or vessel called the

La Thetis, (a prize to the Swallow, Captain Efford,) whereof was mafter under God for that then present voyage A.B. or whofoever else should go for master in the said ship, or by whatsoever name or names the same ship, or the master thereof, was or should be named or called; beginning the adventure upon the faid goods and merchandizes from the loading thereof aboard the faid thip, latitude 45 and 53 north, longitude 6 west, upon the said ship, &c. and so should continue and endure during her abode there upon the said ship, &c.; and further, until the said ship, with all her ordnance, tackle, apparel, &c. and goods and merchandizes whatfoever, should be arrived as above upon the faid ship, &c. until she had moored at anchor twenty-four hours in good safety, and upon the goods and merchandizes until the same should be there discharged and safely landed; and it should be lawful for the faid ship, &c. in that voyage to proceed and sail to, and touch and Itay at any ports or places whatfoever, without prejudice to that infurance; the faid ship, &c. goods and merchandizes, &c. for so much as concerned the assureds by agreement (set out the remaining part of the policy); of which said writing or policy of assurzance and memorandum so made as aforesaid, the said defendant afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on, &c. in confideration that the faid plaintiff, at the special instance and request of the said defendant, had then and there paid to the said defendant the sum of thirty guineas, as a premium or reward for the affurance of one hundred pounds upon the premises in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and had then and there undertaken, and faithfully promifed the faid defendant to perform and fulfil every thing in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled, the faid defendant undertook, and to the faid plaintiff then and there faithfully promised, that he the said defendant would become an affurer to the faid plaintiff for the fum of one hundred pounds upon the premiles in the faid writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and would perform and fulfil every thing in the said writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled, as such assurer, to the said plaintiff for the faid fum of one hundred pounds; and the faid defendant then and there became an affurer to the said plaintiff, and subscribed the said writing or policy of assurance as such assurer as to the said one hundred pounds. And the said plaintiff in sact saith, that the said ship, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, before the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, was in safety, to wit, upon the high seas, in latitude 45 and 53 north, longitude 6 west, to wit, at, &c. in, &c.; and that before the making of the faid writing or policy of affurance, divers goods and merchandizes of great value, to wit, of the value of ten thousand pounds, were loaden and put on board the said ship in the faid writing or Jolicy of affurance mentioned; and that the faid goods and merchandizes remained and continued on board the said Thip from thence, until and at the time of the loss hereinaster next mentioned; and that one D. J. and P. L. were interested in the said premises, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to a large value, to wit, to the value of all the monies by the said plaintiff ever insured thereon; and that the said insurance so made as aforesaid, was so made for and on their 20count, and for their own use and benefit, to wit, at, &c. And the said plaintiff further saith, that afterwards, to wit, on, &c. the faid ship, with the said goods and merchandizes so laden on board her as aforesaid, proceeded on the said intended voyage, and afterwards, to wit, on, &c. arrived at Cork, in the kingdom of Ireland; whereof the said defendant afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice: and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. by a certain other memorandum in writing, then and there subjoined to the said policy of affurance, and signed and subscribed by the said defendant, he the said defendant gave his confent for the said ship to proceed from Cork aforesaid to Guernsey or London, and to stop at any port or ports in the Channel for convoy, and did acknowledge himself to be therein assured until her arrival at Guernsey or London, the said ship being warranted with convoy from Cork, as by the said last mentioned memorandum, subjoined to the said writing or policy of assurance, more fully appears. And the said plaintiff further says, that afterwards, to wit, on the twenty-seventh day of October in the year aforesaid, the said ship, with the said goods and merchandizes so laden on board her as aforesaid, departed and set sail with convoy from Cork aforesaid, on her said intended voyage towards Guernsey aforesaid: and the said plaintiff further saith, that afterwards, and whilst the said ship was proceeding on her said voyage, and before her arrival at Guernsey, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to wit, on the twenty-ninth day of Ochober in the year aforesaid, the said ship, with the faid goods and merchandizes so laden on board her as aforesaid, x was upon the high seas, with force and arms, and in a hostile manner, attacked and fired upon by certain men of war, to the said plaintiff unknown, and was thereby so greatly shattered and damaged in her hull, yards, masts, and rigging, that by reason thereof the said ship, with all her tackle, apparel, ordnance, munition, artillery, boat, and furniture, together with the said goods and merchandizes so laden and being on board her as aforesaid, were wholly sunk in the sea and destroyed, and became and were totally lost to the said Daniel and Peter, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which faid premiles, the faid defendant, afterwards, to wit, on the twelfth day of November in the year aforefaid, at London aforefaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice; and was then and there required by the faid plaintiff to pay to him the faid fum of one hundred pounds, so insured as aforesaid; and which said sum of one hundred pounds the faid defendant ought to have paid, according to the form and effect of his faid promise and indertaking so made as aforesaid. And whereas, &c. &c. (20 on with this Count, same as the first, till you come to this mark x, then proceed as follows):

Declaration on a policy of affurance on cap. Buves.

LONDON, to wit. William Boys complains of Charles Kensington, being in the custody of the marshalka tan's commit of our fovereign lord the now king, before the king himself; for sions to arise that whereas the said William heretosore, to wit, on the twentyfrom the sale of ninth day of August in the year of Our Lord 1704, at London, in the parish of St. Mary le Bow in the ward of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants, caused to be made a certain writing or policy of assurance, purporting thereby, and containing therein (amongst other things), that John Owen Parr (by the name and description of Mr. John Owen Parr agent, he the faid John Owen Parr being the agent immediately employed to effect such policy), as well in his own name as for and in the name and names of all and every other person or persons to whom the same did, might, or should appertain in part or in all, did make assurance, &c. (here let out the policy); of which faid writing or policy of assurance the said Charles afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, had notice; and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at London aforesaid, Mutual proin the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said William, at the special instance and request of the said Charles, had then and there paid, and caused to be paid, to the said Charles, twelve guineas, that is to say, the sum of twelve pounds twelve shillings of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium and reward for the infurance of one hundred pounds of and upon the captain's commissions in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and had then and there undertaken, and to the said Charles saithfully promised, to perform and fulfil all things in the faid writing or policy of assurance contained on the part and behalf of the assured to be performed and fulfilled, he the faid Charles undertook, and to the said William then and there faithfully promised, that he the said Charles would become an assurer to the said William in the said sum of one hundred pounds of and upon the captain's commissions in the said writing or policy of affurance mentioned; and that he the faid Charles would perform and fulfil all things in the said writing or policy of assurance contained on his part and behalf as such assurer to be performed and fulfilled, according to the form and effect of the faid writing or policy of affurance; and the said Charles then and there became an affurer to the said William in the said sum of one hundred pounds in and upon the said commissions in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and then and there subscribed the faid writing or policy of assurance as such assurer for the said sum of one hundred pounds accordingly, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid and the faid William in fact says, that the said ship or vessel, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, at the time of the making of the said writing or policy of assurance, to wit, on the same day and year aforefaid, was in good safety at Liverpool, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and that a cargo of divers goods and merchandizes were then and there loaded and put on board of the said ship or vessel, to be carried therein on the voyage in the said policy of assurance mentioned; and that he the said William, as captain of the said ship or vessel, was interested in the captain's commissions in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the money by him ever insured thereon; and that the said insurance so made as aforefaid was made to and for the use and benefit, and on the account of him the said William, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid: and the said William surther says, that the said Thip or vessel, with the said cargo on board thereof as aforesaid. afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, did depart and fet sail from Liverpool aforesaid, upon her said voyage, to and for the coast of Africa in the said writing or policy of affurance mentioned; and that, after the failing and departing of the faid thip or vessel as aforesaid, and whillt she was sailing and proceeding in the course of her said voyage in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, and before her arrival at the coast of Africa,

Africa, to wit, on the tenth day of September in the year aforesaid, the said ship or vessel, with the said cargo, was, by and through the force and violence of the winds and waves, and the mere perils and dangers of the seas, broken, bulged, damaged, wrecked, sunk in the sea and totally lost, whereby the said commissions, in the said writing or policy of assurance mentioned, belonging to the faid William as captain of the faid thip or velsel, became and were wholly lost to the said William, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid; of all which said premises the said Charles afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, there had notice; by reason whereof the faid Charles became and was liable to pay, and was then and there requested to pay to the said William the sum of one hundred pounds to by him infured as aforefaid; and which faid fum of money the said Charles then and there ought to have paid to the said William, according to the meaning and effect of the said writing or policy of assurance, and of his said promise and undertaking so made in that behalf as aforesaid, to wit, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. (Counts for money had and received, laid out and expended, lent and advanced): Yet the said Charles, not regarding his said several promises and undertakings to by him made as aforefaid, but contriving and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said William in this behalf, hath not yet paid to the said William the faid several sums of money, or any or either of them, or any part of them (although often requested so to do); but to pay the said several lums of money, or any or either of them, or any part of them, to the said William, he the said Charles hath hitherto wholly refused, and still doth refuse, to the damage of the said William of one hundred pounds; and therefore he brings suit, &c.

I Am of opinion, that, in this case, the plaintiff has not much chance of recovering. There can be little doubt, that an infurance upon captain's commissions is a good infurable interest: but, in order to recover upon such a policy, it is absolutely necessary to prove that the subject-matter, from which that sommission is to arise, was on board the ship at the time of the loss. It is admitted that the commissions intended to be infured were to arise from the sale of the slaves; and as those slaves were not and could not be on thord at the time of the loss, I am of opinion the plaintiff cannot recover; but he will be entitled to a return of premium.

A. PARK.

ER on a policy of infurance on goods on board a ship, with a special bruary in the year of Our Lord 1770, at London aforesaid, in warrantythatthe the parish of St. Mary le Bow in the ward of Cheap, according to the usage and custom of merchants, caused to be made a certain policy of insurance, purporting thereby, and containing the policy set therein, that the said Raphael, by the name of Mr. Raphael Brandon.

don, as well in his own name as for and in the name and names of all and every other person or persons to whom the same did, might, or should appertain in part or in all, did make assurance, and caused himself and them and every of them to be insured, lost or not lost, at and from Newcastle to Bayonne in France, upon any kind of goods whatsoever then loaden or to be loaden on board the good Thip or vessel called The Speedwell, whereof was master under God for that voyage John Cowley, or whoever else should go for master in the faid ship, or by whatsoever other name or names the said ship, or the master thereof, was or should be named or called; beginning the adventure upon the faid goods and merchandizes from and immediately following the loading thereof aboard the said ship at Newcastle, and so should continue and endure until the said ship, with the said goods and merchandizes whatsoever, should be arrived at Bayonne aforesaid, and the same be there safely landed; and it should be lawful for the said ship in that voyage to stop and stay at any ports or places whatsoever, without prejudice to that insurance; the said goods and merchandizes by agreement were and should be valued at the adventures and perils which they the said assurers were contented to bear and did take upon them in that voyage, they were of the seas, men of war, fire, enemies, pirates, rovers, thieves, jettizons, letters of mart and countermart, surprizals, takings at fea, arrests, restraints, and detriments of all kings, princes, and people of what nation, condition, or quality soever, barratry of the master and mariners, and of all other perils, losses, and misfortunes that had or should come to the hurt, detriment, or dumage of the said goods and merchandizes, or any part thereof; and in case of any loss or missortune, it should be lawful to the assured, their factors, servants, and assigns, to sue, labour, and travel for, in and about the defence, safeguard, and recovery of the faid goods and merchandizes, or any part thereof, without prejudice to that infurance, to the charges whereof they the affurers would contribute each one according to the rate and quantity of his sum therein assured; and it was agreed by them the insurers, that the said writing or policy of insurance should be of as much force and effect as the furest writing or policy of infu-. rance theretofore made in Lombard street, or in the Royal Exchange, or elsewhere in London; and so they the insurers were contented, and did thereby promise and bind themselves, each one for his own, his heirs, executors, and goods, to the affureds, their executors, administrators, and assigns, for the true performance of the premises; confessing themselves paid the consideration due to them for that insurance by the insured, at and after the rate of two pounds per cent; in witness whereof they the said assurers did subscribe their names and sums assured in London. And by Warranty Arethe said writing or policy of insurance, corn, fish, salt, fruit, flour som average, and feed were warranted free from average under three pounds unless, &c. per cent, unless general, or the ship were stranded; sugar, tobacco, hemp, flax, hides, and skins, were warranted free from average under five pounds per cent. and all other goods free from average under three pounds per cent. unless general, or the ship were stranded. And it was by the said writing or policy of Warranty that insurance declared, that the goods insured thereafter were warranted free from all damage till the nineteenth day of February 1770, at twelve o'clock at night on Monday; of which said writing or policy of insurance the said William afterwards, to wit, on the said twenty-first day of February in the said year of Our Lord 1770, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforefaid, had notice. And thereupon afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year aforesaid, at the parish and ward aforesaid, in consideration that the said Raphael had then and there paid to the said William the sum of two pounds, as a premium or reward for the infurance of one hundred pounds of and upon the premises in the said writing or policy of insurance, and had then and there undertaken and faithfully premised the said William to perform and fulfil all things in the said writing or policy of infurance contained, on the part and behalf of the affured to be performed and fulfilled as to the faid goods and merchandizes, he the faid William undertook, and to the faid Raphael then and there faithfully promised, that he the said William would become an affurer to the said Raphael for the fum of one hundred pounds of and upon the promises mentioned in the faid writing or policy of insurance, and would perform all things in the faid writing or policy of infurance contained, on his part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled as such assurer as to the said one hundred pounds; and the said William then and there became and was an afferer to the faid Raphael, and then and there subscribed the said writing or policy of insurance as such insurer as to the said one hundred Averment of in- pounds. And the said Raphael avers, that the said Raphael at the the time of making the faid writing or policy of infurance, and continually from thence until and at the time of the loss hereinafter mentioned, was interested in the goods and merchandizes loaden on board the said ship to a large value and amount, to wit, to the value and amount of all the money insured thereon, to wit, at Ship wrecked. London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid. And the said Raphael further says, that the said ship, after the said nineteenth day of February in the said year of Our Lord 1770, to wit, on the twentieth day of February in the year last aforesaid, upon the high feas, by winds, storms, and tempests, became and was wrecked, foundered, funk, and wholly lost in the said seas, and the said goods and merchandizes of the said Raphael were thereby then and there lunk in the leas and wholly loft, to wit, at Lon-Notice to dain don aforesaid, in the parish and wird aforesaid; of which said premises the said William afterwards, to wit, on the first day of March in the said year of Our Lord 1770, at London aforelaid; in the parish and ward aforefaid, had notice; and was then and there required by the faid Raphael to pay him the faid fum of one hundred pounds, and which he the said William, according to the form and effect of the said writing or policy of insurance, and his said promise and undertaking in that behalf made as aforesaid, ought to have paid to him the said Raphael. And whereas the said William afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, was indebted to the said Raphael in other one hundred pounds of lawful money of Great Britain, for so much money by the said Raphael before that time paid, laid out, and expended to and for the use of the said William, and at his special instance and request; and being so indebted, he the said William, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, undertook, and then and there faithfully promised the said Raphael to pay him the said last mentioned sum of money, when he the said William should be thereunto afterwards requested. And whereas 3d Count, Mothe said William afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last ney had and reaforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, ceived. was indebted to the faid Raphael in other one hundred pounds of like lawful money, for so much money by the said William before that time had and received to and for the use of the faid Raphael; and being so indebted, he the said William, in consideration thereof, afterwards, to wit, on the same day and year last aforesaid, at London aforesaid, in the parish and ward aforesaid, undertook, and to the said Raphael then and there faithfully promised to pay him the said last mentioned sum of money, when he the said William should be thereunto afterwards requested: nevertheless, the said William not regarding his said se- Common converal promises and undertakings so by him in form aforesaid made, but contriving, and fraudulently intending craftily and subtilly to deceive and defraud the said Raphael in this behalf, hath not yet paid him the faid feveral fums of money, or any of them, or any part thereof, (although often requested so to do) but to pay the same he the said William hath hitherto wholly resused, and still doth refuse, to the damage of the said Raphael of one hundred and twenty pounds; and therefore he brings suit, &c. Pledges, &c.

one for the other or others of them, or for the heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns of the other or others of them, assume, promise, and agree, that they respectively, or their respective heirs, administrators, and assigns, should and would well and truly pay, or cause to be paid, without any dispute, abatement, or contention whatever, unto the said Martha, her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, by her own indorsement thereon, the full fum and fums of money which they had thereunto respectively subscribed, on the following conditions, that is to say, in case J. G. esquire of Knowle Cottage, near Wimborn in Dorsetshire, warranted in good health, should die or decease out of his natural life by any ways or means whatfoever, (suicide and the hand of justice only excepted,) at any time between the twenty-ninth day of December 1785 and the twenty-ninth day of December 1786, both days included, and during the lifetime of the said Martha; but in case the said Martha should depart this life before the above-named J. G. that policy or obligation to be null and void, otherwise to be and remain in full force until the twenty-ninth day of December 1786, valued at the sum insured, as by the said writing of infurance, reference being thereto had, will fully appear; of which faid writing of assurance the said James afterwards, to wit, on the suid twenty-ninth day of December 1785, at, &c. had notice: and thereupon afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. in confideration that the said Martha, at the special instance and request of the said James, had then and there paid to the said James the sum of three guineas of lawful money of Great Britain, as a premium for the assurance of one hundred pounds of and upon the premiles mentioned in the faid writing of assurance, and had undertaken, and then and there faithfully promised the said James to perform all things contained in the faid writing of affurance on her part and behalf to be performed and fulfilled as such affured, he the faid James undertook, &c. the faid Martha, that he the said James would become an assurer to the said Martha for the said sum of one hundred pounds of and upon the premises mentioned in the said writing of assurance, and that he would perform and fulfil all things contained in the faid writing of affurance, to be performed and fulfilled on his part and behalf as such assurer for the said sum of one hundred pounds, and then and there subscribed his name to the said writing of assurance as such assurer for the said one hundred pounds: and the said Martha in sact saith, that the said J. G. mentioned in the said writing of assurance, at the time the risk in the said policy contained commenced, to wit, on, &c. inclusive, was in good health, to wit, at Knowle Cottage, in the faid writing of affurance mentioned, that is to fay, at, &c.: and the said Martha further saith, that the said J. G. after the said twenty-ninth day of December 1785, and before the thirtieth day of December 1786, and before the day of fuing forth the original writ of the said Martha, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. did die and decease out of his natural life, to wit, by a natural death, and not by suicide, or the hand of justice; of all which premises the said James

James afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. had notice: and the faid Martha avers, that she the said Martha, at the time of making the said writing of assurance, and also at the time of her becoming such assured thereby as aforesaid, was interested in the life and event so thereby insured against as aforesaid, to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the money by her infured thereon, to wit, at, &c.; whereby, and by reason of which said feveral premises, and according to the tenor of his promise and undertaking aforesaid, he the said James then and there became liable to pay, and ought to have paid to the faid M. the faid fum of one hundred pounds so by him assured as aforesaid. AGAINST FIRE.

LONDON, J. Samuel Oldham and William Cooper, affuit of bank. ru, assignees signees of the estate, &c. of William Ingram, a bankrupt, against asams the sub- Calverly Bewick, James Haughton Langston, and William Godfor a loss fire-affice, for a loss sustained by the bankrupt.

frey; esquires; for that whereas by a certain deed poll, or policy of affurance, made by the said Calverly, James H. and W.G. on, &c. in, &c. (which said deed, sealed with the respective seals of the said Calverly, &c. bearing date the same day and year aforefaid, they the faid Samuel and William Cooper now bring into court here) reciting that the said William Ingram, by the name and addition of William Ingram, of, &c. linen and woollen-draper, hosier and haberdasher, having paid the sum of two pounds eleven shillings to the Society of the Sun Fire-office, in London, and having agreed to pay, or cause to be paid to them, at their said office, the fum of one pound seventeen shillings and sixpence, on, &c. and the like furn of one pound seventeen shillings and sixpence yearly and every year during the continuance of the said policy for insurance from loss or damage by fire on his houshold goods, in his then dwelling house only, situate at, &c. brick and tile, not exceeding seventy pounds, and on his utenfils and stock therein only, not exceeding one thousand four hundred and thirty pounds, they the said Calverly, &c. did covenant, that from the date of the faid policy, and so long as the said William Ingram should duly pay, or cause to be paid, the said sum of one pound seventeen shillings and fixpence, at the times and places aforesaid, and the trustees or acting members of the said Society for the time being. should agree to accept the same, the stock and fund of the said Society should be subject and liable to pay to the said William Ingram, his executors, administrators, and assigns, all such his damages and loss which he the said William Ingram should suffer by fire, not exceeding the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds, according to the exact tenor of their printed Proposals, dated on, And the said Samuel and William Cooper further say, that the printed Proposals in and by the said deed mentioned and alluded to, are as follows, that is to fay, January 6, 1766, Proposals, &c. &c. (the whole of the printed Proposals were here fet forth, expressing the amount of the Society's stock, rates of infurances, &c. but the only passages applicable to the action are) Article fixth, To prevent frauds, &c. &c. Article seventh, No. loss, &c. &c. Article tenth, Persons insured, &c. &c. as by the faid deed and Proposals, relation being thereto had, more fully appears. And the faid Samuel and William Cooper, affignees as aforesaid, aver, that the said William Ingram at the time of the making of the said policy of assurance, and from thence until the lofs and damage hereafter-mentioned, was interested in the said infured premiles to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of all the money by him infured, or caused to be insured thereon, to wit, at, &c. and that houshold goods, utenfils, and stock to the faid amount, continued and remained in the faid house until afterwards, to wit, on, &c. the same were burnt, consumed, and destroyed by fire, which did not happen by any invasion, foreign enemy, civil commotion, or any military or usurped power whatfoever; whereby the said William Ingram sustained damage to a large amount, to wit, to the amount of the money by him thereon Hh 4 allured, assured, to wit, at, &c. And the said Samuel and William Cooper further say, that the said premises in the said deed or policy mentioned, at the time of the making of the said deed, were not, nor at any time since have been insured in any other office; and that the same premises in the said deed or policy mentioned, were infured at a lower premium than proposed in the table in the said Proposals mentioned. And the said Samuel and William Cooper further say, that the said William Ingram did forthwith after the said loss, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. give notice thereof to the said Society, at their said office, and also as soon as possible afterwards, to wit, on, &c. did there deliver in as particular an account of his said loss and damage as the nature of the case would admit of; and did then and there make proof of the same by his oath and affidavit in writing, according to the form practifed in the said office, and by such other proper vouchers as were reasonably required. And the said Samuel and William Cooper further say, that the minister of the parish of, &c. in which the aforesaid dwelling-house of the said William Ingram was fituate, long before, and at the time of the loss herein before mentioned, dwelt and resided at a distance from and out of the said parish, and was and still is wholly unacquainted with the character and circumstances of the said W. Ingram, and wholly unable to make such certificate as by the said policy is required; but that the said William Ingram afterwards, to wit, on, &c. at, &c. did procure, and did deliver at the said office, a certificate under the hands of William Thomas Lecoq, &c. &c. then, and at the time of the said loss, being reputable inhabitants of the said parish, who were not concerned in the said loss, importing, that they knew the said W. 1. late of, &c. linen-draper, and did believe that he by misfortune, and without fraud, did, on, &c. suftain a confiderable loss and damage, by his dwelling-house and the stock and effects thereon, or great part thereof, being consumed by fire; of all which said premises the said Calverly, &c. afterwards, to wit, on, &c. had notice from the said William Ingram. And the said Samuel and William Cooper further say, that the said William, before he became a bankrupt, and the said Samuel and William Cooper, assignees as aforesaid, since the time of the faid W. I. became a bankrupt, have always been ready and willing to submit all matters in difference between him and them respectively and the said office touching the said loss to the arbitration of arbitrators, indifferently to be chosen between them. faid Samuel and William Cooper further fay, that although the faid W. I. before he became a bankrupt, and the faid Samuel and William Cooper, assignees as aforcsaid, since the said W. I. became a bankrupt, have respectively in all things conformed nimfelf and themselves to and concerning all and singular the stipulations, matters, or things, which on his or their parts were to be observed and performed to the utmost of their power, according 'to the form and effect of the said deed or policy of insurance, and of the said Proposals: and although the stock or fund of the said Society

Society always hath been and yet is sufficient to pay the said loss sustained by the said W. I. by reason of the said fire, yet the said W. I. before he became a bankrupt, was not, nor have the said Samuel and William Cooper, assignees as aforesaid, at any time fince the said W. I. became a bankrupt, hitherto out of the stock and fund of the said Society, or in any other manner, been repaid or reimbursed the said loss, or any part thereof, but the same and every part thereof is still wholly in arrear and unpaid, contrary to the form and effect of the said Calverly, &c. by them in that behalf made as aforesaid: and so the said Samuel and William Cooper, assignees as aforesaid, say, that the said Calverly, &c. (although often requested) have not kept with the said W. I. before he became a bankrupt, nor with the faid Samuel and William . Cooper, assignees as aforesaid, since the said W. I. became a bankrupt, the covenant made between the said W. I. before he became a bankrupt, and the said Calverly, &c. in that behalf as aforesaid; but the said Calverly, &c. have broken the same, and still refuse to keep the same with the said Samuel and William Cooper, assignees as aforesaid, to the damage, &c. &c.

First, Non est factum. Second, Actio non, Because they say, Pica, that the said houshold goods, utensils, stock, and goods in pledge, besides plate, jewels, and wearing apparel, china and glass, in the said declaration mentioned, and by the said plaintiffs above supposed to have been burnt, consumed, and destroyed by fire in the said dwelling-house, were not, nor any part thereof burnt, consumed, or destroyed by fire in the said dwelling-house, in manner and form as the faid plaintiffs have in their faid declaration above alledged. And of this they put themselves upon the country, &c. Thirdly, Actio non, Because they say, that the said dwellinghoule at the said time, when, &c. in the said declaration mentioned, was fraudulently set on fire by the said plaintiffs, with intent to defraud them the faid defendants. And this they are ready to verify. Wherefore, &c. if, &c. F. Buller.

This declaration is in covenant, yet I have given it here as if policies of affurance was a distinct head not classed under Assumpsit; but the student will find it under its proper head, COVENANT, in the INDEX.
